LOST ARE FOUND!

A telephone message to the Star-Bulletin at 2:30 o'clock today brought the news that a native boy and an elderly man came to J. P. Cooke's Kalapapa residence early this afternoon and reported the five missing school teachers were found in the Kalapapa valley. One is said to have been injured. No further news has been learned as yet.

Unless succor reaches the party of five school teachers lost in the mountains, soon, it is feared that the two women may not survive the hardships which they are forced to endure, much longer.

Those who are acquainted with the mountains in which the lost ones are wandering are doubtful as to the ability of the women to keep on their feet for any length of time, believing that the terrible privations endured in the trackless jungle without food for three days has probably exhausted their physical strength so that they would be unable to continue their search for an outlet from the wild fastnesses with which they are surrounded.

If the women have given out, it is presumed that the men have remained with them, in which case the party has probably camped upon the top of some ridge in the hope that they would be found by the rescuers.

While the search for the two days past has proved utterly unavailing, the number of searching parties is being almost hourly augmented. The Trail and Mountain Club went out this morning. The United States engineers who are familiar with the country are already out, and the commanding officer at Schofield Barracks has been directed by General Macomb to detail detachments of soldiers to penetrate the range if it is found that these are needed.

Six Parties Out.
Working on these theories six searching parties are prosecuting a tireless hunt through the forests, over the ridges and far down into the deepest chasms of the valleys in an effort to find some trace of the missing instructors who are somewhere within the confines of the great forest.

Seventy-two hours have elapsed since the three men and two women instructors in Mills and Kawahao seminars, have been heard from and the searchers are haunted by the fear that unless the lost ones are quickly reached, they will perish as a result of their privations.

Sheriff Jarrett and his squad of six, including City Physician W. S. Moore, renewed their search today, after returning late last night. The officials made a moonlight search late yesterday evening in an effort to hear any possible sounds of human life which might arise from the vast wood in the night silence.

This morning, the Trail and Mountain Club, under the leadership of Frank C. Atherton and Alexander Hume Ford, joined the army of search parties.

In this party are: Fred Zeigler, George Dwight, A. H. Ford, J. S. Donoghue, Brother Low, Elmes Davies, Philip Dodge, Frank Winter, Clarence Lucas, W. E. Rowell, Robert French, W. J. McNeill. They took with them ropes, blankets, food,

NATTOSE MISSING; ANXIETY IS FELT

Yawl Nattose, contestant in big race, which has failed to make port.

Fast Yawl Is Overdue and Fear Is Expressed for Her Safety

Where is the yawl Nattose? More than two days have elapsed since the winner of the transpacific race crossed the finish line at Diamond Head, and yachtsmen, especially those who came down on the racers, are asking the question with lifted eyebrows, and a ring of concern in their voices.

If the Canadian entry isn't sighted by tonight, anxiety will be felt for her safety, and probably some measures will be taken to send her assistance should she be in distress.

It is not so much the elapsed time since the start of the race that causes the speculation. For sailing vessels might be out twenty days or more on the voyage across without occasioning comment. But the Nattose showed quite a turn of speed at the start, working so well that those who took part in the race can hardly believe that she has been left so far behind except under extraordinary conditions.

The prevailing belief is that she is off her course, and that through faulty navigation or faulty instruments she has missed the mark entirely.

Captain Lew Harris, of the Lurline shook his head when asked what he thought about the Nattose's non appearance this morning.

"To tell the truth, I'm a bit worried about her," said he. "I don't mean by that that she has come to grief, but I do think that she may have gone astray, and be somewhere to leeward of Hawaii now. She may have gone farther south than she intended, and failed to pick up Oahu at all. The Nattose showed a good bit of speed at the start, and I don't see how she could be so far distanced."

Already there is talk of sending out a searcher. Admiral Cowles is willing to send the navy tug Navajo, provided the yachtsmen can give him some idea of where to look for the yacht.

If there is any reason to believe that the Nattose is in danger or distress, and that she can be found in a certain locality, I will send the Navajo out," said the admiral. "I don't wild goose chase, though with no idea of where to look, for it would be like hunting for a needle in a haystack."

This morning the Seafarer changed her berth, Captain Norris dropping her out into the stream, in preference to remaining at the Alaka wharf.

VENTURA WILL BE DELAYED

The receipt of a very large cargo of Hawaiian products will cause a small delay in the departure of the Oceanic liner Ventura for the coast tomorrow morning.

Instead of the Ventura departing for San Francisco at ten o'clock according to the regular schedule, the vessel will be held an hour later, getting away at eleven o'clock with over two hundred cabin passengers, a large number of Spaniards and Portuguese in the steerage and several thousand tons of sugar, pineapples and sundries.

As the guest of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, at a lunch given at Commercial Club at noon today, a number of local business men had occasion to meet Captain J. L. Cowell, the master of the Ventura as well as several of the popular staff of officers in that liner.

The luncheon was a delightful informal affair and greatly enjoyed by a small company of invited friends.

PECK TELLS WASHINGTON NO POLITICS

Rapid Transit President Asserts on Extension Business Only

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—L. Tenny Peck, president of the Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Company, has arrived in Washington. He counts the suggestion that he is a candidate for the Governorship or that the Governorship situation had anything to do with his sudden trip to Washington. He says he is after permission for the Rapid Transit line to cross the Fort Shafter military reservation on its way to Pearl Harbor. This matter is coming up in committee.

BUSINESSMEN DRESS HOUSES FOR JULY 4TH

If all the merchants of Honolulu make as creditable a display in the way of decorating their places of business for the Fourth of July celebration, as Stanley Stevenson of King street, the city will represent blazing patriotism from end to end.

The building in which Stevenson carries on his work is not of pretentious structure, far from it in fact, but that has not deterred its enthusiastic tenant. He has utilized the entire front of the building in his plans. The table is covered with a great painting representing a copy of the famous picture "The Spirit of '76." As this failed to cover the entire available space, Mr. Stevenson has added another picture representing a strenuous youth of Revolutionary days ringing the old Liberty bell. Both pictures are framed in green leaves and the effect is striking to say the least.

While Stevenson started on his decorative work early, other merchants began to get out their bunting and flags in various arrangements today and the indications are that when the morning of the Fourth dawns the city will be attired in a manner worthy of the occasion.

Although the Merchants' Association and the Chamber of Commerce, joined in a request to the navy department asking that the cruiser Colorado be permitted to remain in Honolulu over the Fourth, no answer was received and the cruiser sailed for Bremerton today.

The parade feature of the day's festivities is receiving much attention from those in charge. Prince Kahanalana, grand marshal, has sent out his aides to line up the cowboys of the island, and scores of them will ride in the procession and take part in the gymnastic sports in the afternoon.

The grand marshal increased the number of his aides last evening, the completed list being as follows: Mayor Joseph Fern, Arthur Jones, Oscar Cox, Jack Fernandez, Robert Parker, Homer Smith, Ralph Lyons, George McCortison, Guy Macfarlane, Lant Lemon, William Douthitt, George Wilkinson and John Clark. Norman E. Courtenay is the assistant grand marshal.

For some reason not made public, the members of the local G. A. R. post will not appear in the parade. This was decided upon at a meeting last night. The committee was disappointed when notified of the action, for it was believed that the G. A. R. would be among the first to lend their aid to a patriotic project. Arrangements have been made, however, to place the aged patriots would have taken in the procession.

The old Hawaiian warship Kaimiloa which will be burned to make an American holiday, was towed over to Sumner Island last night and filled with combustibles. On the night of the Fourth, the historic vessel will be fired. Arrangements have been made to make this feature a reproduction of the burning of a warship driven ashore and set on fire by the enemy's guns. The spectators will see the flames climb into the rigging and hear the reports of the shotted guns as the flames reach them. Then will come the explosion of the magazine and the crumbling of the ship into ashes.

For every man that work kills, having too many good times puts a dozen up against it.

LANDSLIDE STARTS ON 43 RD BALLOT; FINAL IS 990-84

WILSON, TEACHER-POLITICIAN.

Woodrow Wilson, nominated today by the Democratic National Convention to run against President Taft, is fifty-five years old. He was born in Staunton, Va., Dec. 28, 1856, and graduated from Princeton in 1879. His career is easily divided into two parts. Until a comparatively few years ago he confined his energies almost exclusively to the field of teaching and writing, although for a brief period following his graduation from the Virginia law school he practiced his profession. Always a student of political economy, he became prominent as an advanced political thinker during his presidency of Princeton, and left the presidency to campaign for the New Jersey Governorship. In this campaign he was singularly successful, and his able constructive policies while Governor attracted National attention to him. He took the field as an avowed holder of progressive Democratic ideas and with Champ Clark divided almost equally the honors of the preference primaries. He went into the convention a strong candidate, and after Clark's full strength was polled and failed to land the nomination, the Wilsonites gained strength with each ballot. The forty-sixth won him the nomination.

The Democratic candidate is married and has several children. His home is at Princeton, N. J.

HAWAIIANS AT WORK AGAINST BLOW AT SUGAR

"Committee platform favorable Lowrey pressing fight floor convention. Probable result favorable to Hawaii."

This cablegram from the Hawaiian delegation at Baltimore was received last night by a local business man and indicates that the Democrats sent from Hawaii are making a strong and sincere effort to prevent the Democratic platform from containing a free sugar plank.

The cablegram above also means that the platform committee is favorable to the cutting out of the free sugar plank, but that Lowrey is carrying the fight to the convention floor. Lowrey is the secretary of the Federal Sugar Refining Company and the man who figured prominently in both the House and Senate committees that considered the free-sugar bill and the entire sugar question. It was Lowrey who opened offices in Washington and launched the National Grocers' Association, which pretended to be an association of wholesale grocers asking for the repeal of the sugar tariff and for free sugar.

Under the keen inquiry of the Senate committee, it was admitted by Lowrey that he himself was the National Grocers' Association, that he alone was doing the work, sending out the literature and, in fact, masquerading as an organization. In fact, Lowrey's work was nothing more than a bold attack on the sugar tariff.

Now Lowrey appears as a delegate at the national Democratic convention and continues his fight on the sugar tariff.

Underwood's Manager Releases Alabama Delegates—Clark Forces Promise Help And Harmony—Bryan Says Is Satisfied

[Associated Press Cable]

BALTIMORE, Md., July 2.—Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was today given the Democratic nomination for President on the forty-sixth ballot.

The vote was: Wilson, 990; Champ Clark, 84. The landslide for Wilson started on the forty-third ballot the earlier balloting showing little change from yesterday. On the forty-third, Illinois, Virginia and West Virginia voted solid for the New Jersey man, making the result: Wilson, 802; Clark, 329; Underwood, 88.

On the forty-fourth ballot, amid growing excitement, Colorado's delegation flipped. The forty-fifth showed no change.

Before the forty-sixth roll-call was started, Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, Oscar Underwood's manager, released the Alabama delegation, saying that he was unwilling that their votes should be used to prevent the nomination of Wilson.

CINCHES THE RESULT.

The change of front of the Underwood delegates made the nomination of Wilson certain. The convention went wild, and a march of triumph around the hall was started, in which the adherents of all candidates took part.

When the din had quieted down, Senator Stone of Missouri, Clark's floor manager, withdrew Clark's name, promising that he and the Clark forces would support the nominee of the convention.

The names of Governors Foss of Massachusetts and Harmon of Ohio were withdrawn.

MISSOURI WON'T SWING.

Representative John J. Fitzgerald, a New York delegate, moved that the nomination of Wilson be made unanimous. Missouri's delegation was unwilling and demanded a roll-call, preferring to cast its vote to the last for Clark.

The roll-call was then taken, showing 990 for Wilson and 84 for Clark, who was given the Missouri vote solid and twenty-four votes by California. Senator Stone then moved to make the vote unanimous, which was done. Adjournment was taken until 9 o'clock tonight, when the Vice President and the platform will be decided.

CLARK IS SATISFIED.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 2.—William Jennings Bryan declared himself satisfied with the result today.

"I am satisfied," he said. "The nomination of a progressive assures (a) veritable action on three things of prime importance, the right kind of a candidate, a platform and a contributions committee named by the candidates and therefore surely in sympathy with a clean campaign."

DEATH PENALTY NEEDED TO STEM CRIME WAVE, HE SAYS

Cathcart Makes Statement Regarding Epidemic of Assault Cases—Jury Should Fix the Punishment, Is the Opinion of City and County Attorney

Dissatisfaction with the Territorial statute that places on the circuit judge the responsibility of choosing between the two sentences of life imprisonment or hanging for a prisoner convicted of criminal assault appears to be growing among the members of the legal fraternity, reaching a new stage in its spread this morning when Chin Fan, the Chinese convicted of this offense a few days ago, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Robinson this morning.

Attorney General Alex. Lindsay, Jr., declared a few days ago, when Nung Chung was given a similar sentence for a like offense, that in his opinion the law is unfair, and should be modified in such manner that conviction by the jury would specify a definite penalty, relieving the court of the onus.

"It is quite apparent the punishment given now is not producing the desired result," said City and County Attorney Cathcart this morning, to a representative of the Star-Bulletin. He did not recommend the extreme penalty in this morning's case, declining to make any suggestion then that would influence the court's decision. But outside the court he asserted: "Capital punishment, I believe, must be inflicted if the wave of crime of this character is to be effectually checked in the islands. Life imprisonment apparently is having little effect."

Fifth Conviction in year.

"This is the fifth conviction for this particular kind of crime that we have had in Honolulu in the last year, and the third of the kind since the first of last January. Four of those convicted have been Chinese, the fifth being a Hawaiian. And right on top of the last one, on the day that Chin Fan was to be sentenced yesterday, came the news of still another offense, virtually the same save that the offender was prevented from completing his fiendish work."

"What we need is one or two cases of capital punishment, but the law should not impose the responsibility of the sentence on the judge."

"In the present case the evidence given before the jury indicated that the crime was the work of a fiend—a man probably fifty years of age assaulting, in succession, three little girls. Although he was a trial for only one assault the evidence was he's the whole show."

complete for conviction for either one of the other two cases. If life imprisonment for this man is not sufficient to check others, I believe the full penalty should be given, setting an example, and then see whether it will have a deterrent effect on the nefarious business."

As yet, however, no word has been heard intimating that steps will be taken for the repeal of the present statute and the substitution of another remedying the difficulty by practically compelling the jury to pass sentence on the convicted person.

Rawlin Makes Files.

When asked this morning if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, Chin Fan, through the court interpreter, replied in the negative, but his counsel, Attorney William T. Rawlin, arose and in the course of a brief talk, assailed the newspapers for what he declared to have been misstatements concerning the age of the complaining witness, declared his own faith in the prisoner's cause and announced his intention to demand a new trial, and, failing in that, to appeal the case. He also asked for the minimum penalty.

He said the newspapers had repeatedly given the little girl's age as seven years, when in reality, he declared, according to the evidence in the case, she was more than eleven, and would be twelve years old next January.
