SECRETARY ENTERTAINED

Judge Kepoikai Gives a Rousing Luau to Secretary Atkinson and Visitors at The Fishery.

TWO DEMOUCEMENTS
Delegate T. B. Lyons and W. H. Cornwell Announce Themselves Out of Politics.

Judge Kepoikai, host of hosts, was if possible more than a host at a luau given at the Kahului fishery Monday noon in honor of Secretary of Hawaii A. L. C. Atkinson who is on his way to the big island.

As a general thing a heavy rain has a tendency to put a damper on a gathering of this nature, but in this instance it only helped to make the assemblage more buoyant, as two of Maui's prominent sugar estate managers were present, and when the long prayed for rain came down in torrents they took turn about at the telephone making inquiries if their several estates were receiving their full quota of aqueous dividends.

R. T. Guard the boss of Waikeka, Hilo, was the recipient of many congratulations, as it is a proverbial saying that a Hilo-ite being webfooted and canvas backed is only at home in a good sousing rainstorm.

While the storm delayed the luau for a short time there was not a moment's drag, good natured repartee being exchanged during the interval.

Adjournment from the fishery to the groaning feast boards was had in the midst of the rain but every one took the slight dampening in the best of spirit, Hon. H. P. Baldwin pledging that he would go Manager C. B. Wells one better on any amount he might offer the hostess, her assistant, Mrs. English, and corps of helpers to obtain new holokus to take the place of those drenched by the shower.

Host Kepoikai as toastmaster, pledged those present that a fourth ticket would soon be in the field for recognition; the Woman Suffrage party, of which he would be an ardent supporter. Secretary Atkinson replying paid a deserving tribute to the fourth party and the invaluable assistance rendered by them, at Camp Woods, Kahului, during the dark days of the plague. The toastmaster told of three sisters of Maui who each bore a son, one a republican, one a democrat, and one a home ruler.

He would now call upon the son of the democrat, Delegate T. B. Lyons to respond. Mr. Lyons replying said that his trip to the convention had done him a world of good, that it was an experience never to be forgotten, but since his return to Hawaii he had decided to retire from the political arena for the next two years and devote his time to his other interests. That he was undecided what he would do at the end of the two years regarding politics.

W. H. Cornwell when called upon said that he, like his co-worker, Mr. Lyons, would retire from active politics, that he would devote his entire time to his business.

W. F. Crockett, introduced as Maui's eloquent orator said the position of the republicans on Maui was similar to that of the old darky who accompanied by a young boy went fishing. The boat was capsized and the boy was rescued by the old man. The boy's father, who heard of the rescue, wished to congratulate the old gentleman, who retorted, "What for?" "For saving my boy's life," replied the father. "Oh! no, sah," said the old man, "I didn't rescue the boy for himself but for the bait he had." So it was with the Maui Republicans; they were willing to help the administration at Honolulu for the bait they had.

Manager Wells said he cast his first vote for a republican and had never voted other than the Republican ticket, and he thought it the duty of every sensible man to identify himself with the Republican party.

Hon. H. P. Baldwin coincided with Mr. Wells, and his remarks regarding his early training reminded him of the story of the man who had some young puppies to sell. This man offered them to a boss of the Democratic persuasion, guaranteeing them to be good democratic pups, but as they could not agree upon a suitable price no sale was effected. A week or ten days later these same puppies were offered to the boss of the Republican party as republican pups. The democratic boss who was present called attention to the fact that these self same pups had been offered to him as good democratic pups and inquired of the owner how he accounted for it. The owner calmly replied that the pups now had their eyes open. Mr. Baldwin trusted that those present who were not fully convinced that the Republican party was the party for Hawaii would get their eyes open.

Other toasts were responded to by W. T. Robinson, J. M. Vivas, Judge McKay, for the Judiciary, H. M. Coke, and J. N. K. Keola, who concluded his remarks by requesting those present to drink to the health of Governor Carter.

Secretary Atkinson for Governor Carter said:—"The day for one man power had been done away with, that in Governor Carter was exemplified a government of the people. The present Governor is nearer to the people than any representative of the days of the Monarchy, the Provisional Government or the Republic of Hawaii. But Governor Carter will be with you on Sept. 7 or 8 when he will speak for himself."

The host remarking that "when the sugar barons could no longer offer encouragement, nor the Judiciary deal out justice it was time to pack up out effects and get out, and it was a pleasure to introduce Chief Engineer Parke of the S. S. Hawaiian, the man who could paddle us away."

Mr. Parke's reply was to the effect that he was glad to be able to paddle away "the next evening as he had never been in such a hot bed of Republicanism." Leaving those present to construe his meaning as they pleased, Mr. Parke later remarked that the only time he had missed a voyage was when he laid off to vote for McKinley.

"Mark Hanna" Cooper offered a toast to Delegate Kubio which received three rousing cheers and a tiger. The President of the United States; the host and hostess, and their able fisherwoman Mrs. English, with her assistants were lustily cheered. The guests retiring to the fishery, considerable more time was spent in renewing former acquaintances, and general conversation.

Those present as guests were Secretary Atkinson, and private sec

LOAN MONEY WILL BE USED

Secretary Atkinson Says All The Appropriations For Maui and Molokai will be Expended

ANOTHER CADET FOR WEST POINT

Position will Be Available This Year For Eligible Candidate.

Secretary A. L. C. Atkinson who was a passenger on the S. S. Hawaiian en route to Hilo stopped off and took in Central Maui. He informed a News representative that all the money which was appropriated for improving the County of Maui was available and all of the improvements allotted by the Department of Public Works would be fully carried out as rapidly as possible.

These improvements consist of the New Court House, jail and fire station, extension of and reconstructing of Wailuku streets, trail from Kipahulu to Kahikinui, and up to the summit of Haleakala, new roads in Hana, Makawao, Wailuku, Lahaina and Molokai and bridges across Halawa and Maliko gulches and between Waikapu and Maalaea; armory at Wailuku; wharf at Kahului and parapet walls on the mountain between Maalaea and Ukumehame.

Secretary Atkinson's mission to Hawaii is to look into the matter of the Sheriffship of Kau.

Work will be begun in a week on Halawa bridge, Molokai, replacing the structure washed out by recent storms, and which will be replaced with a new and wider piled tresselled bridge.

The survey for the road between Halawa and Puuhoku has been completed, and work will be begun as soon as the plans can be prepared.

Work will begin on the new Pukoo wharf within a couple of weeks. This wharf will consist of 1100 feet of tressell, extending to seven feet of water at low tide. At present passengers and freight have sometimes to be carried ashore by boatmen at low tide.

The people of Molokai are jubilant at the prospect of the early completion of these much needed improvements.

Honolulu Aug. 10 Clarence K. Lyman, of Hawaii, will graduate from West Point next June and become a second lieutenant in the United States army. The vacancy from Hawaii will therefore have to be filled and that end a competitive examination will be held here in February for young men, the winner to be given the privilege of attending the military academy.

The successful candidate will have to undergo a physical examination at Camp McKinley next May before being qualified to go East. The applicant must be between 17 and 22 years of age. If between 17 and 18 must be at least 5 feet 3 inches in height and weigh 100 pounds; if between 18 and 19 he must be at least 5 feet 3 1/2 inches in height, and weigh 105 pounds, and if over 19 he must be at least 5 feet 4 inches in height and weigh 110 pounds. His moral character must be like that of Caesar's wife, above suspicion.

Mental and physical qualifications for entrance to West Point must stand a critical test.
