

Keios May Visit Maui

On July 23 the Keio baseball team from Japan will arrive in Honolulu, and the outfit will remain five weeks in the islands. The Keios are coming under contract to the Oahu League and will play games against the teams of the big Honolulu league. A proposal is on foot to try and have the Keios visit Maui and play a team made up of the best on this island.

The Keio University players are well known all over the United States and in Hawaii. The team has played many a game on the Hawaiian diamonds and the players have shown that they understand the great American game, and that they play it in real good style.

The proposition to bring the Keios here is a good one and the visitors could get a good game or two against the All-Maui aggregation. A number of the local magnates favor the scheme and there will soon be something doing in the way of making arrangements for the Japanese to visit the Valley Island. The scheme should be a profitable one, as the Japanese from all the Maui plantations would, doubtless, roll up to the grounds to see their famous countrymen in action on the diamond.

Country Club Plans Passed

There was a meeting of the Maui Boat and Country Club last Sunday, at the Beach house of W. S. Searby. All the directors that could possibly attend, did so, and the business of the meeting was quickly gotten under way and proceeded with rapidity.

The first thing done was to take up the plans of the proposed clubhouse. This was done and the plans, as outlined, went through and were approved. The structure will be the same as described last week in this paper.

The directors who have the stock lists, report very encouragingly and it was stated that over one hundred shares of $20 each had been subscribed for. That was without hearing from Harold Rice, who is sure to get a number of shares disposed of. Lahaina is also to be heard from, and there is no doubt that a number of members will be signed up in that town and district. The Maui club is for all Maui, and it is expected that members will hail from all over this island.
