Armitage of Castle & Cooke, Charles Merriam and several others, are having a difficult time keeping warm at night up on the Molokai hills, where they are hunting. The party has been up there two weeks and will probably remain another two. Armitage sent a few postals to friends here, saying the nights are cold there and that the climate is agreeing with him finely, although more blankets are necessary than in Honolulu. Just what luck the hunters are experiencing has not been ascertained.—Star-Bulletin.

Newton, in subdividing the tract preparatory to opening it for settlement. The Lellehua Glee Club, is the name of a new musical organization made up of some of the older boys of the Paia public school. The club is working under the direction of John R. Gonsalves, and has made notable progress. Superintendent of Public Works Charles R. Forbes arrived on Maui last Monday, stopping off on his return from Hilo, until Wednesday when he returned to Honolulu. While on Maui Mr. Forbes inspected the work being done by the Loan Fund Commission, of which he is a member. Among the Maui delegates to the annual convention of the Hawaiian Chemists' Association, being held this week in Honolulu, are—J. P. Foster, of Paia; J. H. Pratt, of Puanene; K. M. One of the delightful gatherings of the Maui Knights of Pythias and their ladies, was held last Saturday evening, when the members of Aloha Lodge gathered at their Castle Hall, lower Wailuku, and indulged in dancing, music and game for several hours. This is the first of these popular affairs of the season. One of the biggest gambling raids for some time was pulled off by the police last Sunday when 24 Chinese were rounded up in Kahului while engaged in the fascinating pastime of paikau. About half of them forfeited $5 cash bail, and the balance were fined a like amount by Judge McKay, on Monday morning. Harry Washburn Baldwin has announced that the Maui singing class is to be reorganized at a meeting called for this evening at the Paia Community House. Important Pineapple Experiments Undertaken The Hawaii experiment station, at its demonstration farm in the Kulaheheme, has begun a series of experiments that should be of the greatest value to pineapple growers, not only of Maui, but of the entire territory as well. The work is designed to solve, in part at least, some of the questions that have been puzzling growers for a number of years, namely the cause of the yellowing or "going bad" of the fruit on certain patches or large areas in different sections. All of the plants used in the experiments are of the same quality and are nearly alike as possible, and all perfectly healthy. Some are planted in top soil and some in sub-soil taken from affected areas; and some of these have perfect drainage, and others poor drainage. A like number of plants are planted under identical conditions, except in soil known to be good. All of these plantings are made in large jars, so that the matter of drainage may be absolutely controlled, but otherwise they are out of doors, and under normal conditions. Other plants, not in jars, are planted for checking purposes. Prof. Krauss, who has charge of the experiments, believes that these experiments will determine whether or not the trouble is due to drainage, or to some chemical element, or to disease. He is also making an experiment to determine exactly the respective value of crowns, slips, and suckers, as plants.

BABY DROWNS IN DITCH. Mitsuro Kobayashi, a Japanese girl baby less than two years of age, was drowned in the Spreckels ditch just below Wailuku, on Wednesday of this week. The little tot had wandered from the home of the family where it lived, and had evidently fallen into the water. A search was made later, resulting in the discovery of the body some distance below. The child's father lives in Kahului, the mother being dead.

Ditch Tender Killed By Falling Boulder

Manuel Vierra Victim of Strange Accident.—Is Struck Down While at Work.—Leaves Large Family.

Struck upon the head, and his skull crushed by a large stone which rolled down upon him while he was engaged in opening a gate in the ditch in Iao Valley, Manuel Nunes Vierra, ditch tender for the Wailuku Sugar Company, was probably instantly killed, about 9 o'clock last Friday morning. His dead body was not found until late the same afternoon when searchers found it floating in the water some distance below the point where the accident happened.

When first found it was supposed that the unfortunate man had in some manner fallen into the stream and been drowned, but an autopsy revealed the fact that the man's skull had been fractured, and also that he had not taken any water into his lungs after falling into the water. A search revealed the stone which doubtless had become loosened from the mountain side as a result of recent rains. The victim of the unusual accident was 47 years of age, and was an old employee of the company. He is survived by a widow and 11 children, the eldest a cowboy of 18, who is also employed by the plantation. The youngest is a child of 2 years. A coroner's jury, which investigated the case on Wednesday, returned a verdict of accidental death. The family is protected under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and will receive 60 percent of the deceased's wages for not exceeding six years. This will amount to probably about $18 per month.

Yip Lan Wins in Circuit Court—Case Appealed

By a writted decree, handed down by Judge Edings of the second circuit court, yesterday morning, the temporary injunction in the case of Toyosaki Kiyamoto vs. Yip Lan, was dissolved and a permanent injunction denied. This is a victory for the defendant, though the case is to be appealed to the supreme court by Attorney Eugene Murphy, representing the plaintiff. This controversy over the leasehold on certain Kula lands has been in the courts for some time, Yip Lan having previously won a decision through the supreme court as to his right to the land under his lease. Later he was enjoined from removing certain crops from the property, and this is the point just settled as far as the circuit court can settle it. Case and Vincent are attorneys for Yip Lan.

Haleakala Road Meeting Postponed to Nov. 4

Owing to the inability of President Frank Baldwin to be present next Thursday, the special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce called for that date to consider the project of a road up Haleakala, has been postponed for one week. Cards will be sent out in a few days announcing the meeting for November 4. Since the meeting of the chamber last week, at which the mountain road project was touched upon, the matter has been widely discussed among business men of Maui. It is certain that there will be opposition to the plan, on the grounds that the scheme is too big a one to tackle. There seems to be little difference of opinion as to the desirability of the road, provided its construction is not impracticable.

HAWAII LOSE GAME TO WEST MAUI AGGREGATION

The Hawaii base ball team was defeated by the Pukonki team last Sunday by the close score of 6 to 5. This was the fourth successive Sunday game played with the Lahaina aggregation, and was also the first of the four that the Wailuku boys lost. Lahaina is getting to be a great baseball center, and the prospect is now said to be good for getting a regular diamond laid out in Lahaina proper. A picked team from Wailuku is being organized to play the Lahainas next Sunday.

This leg of the tournament will consist of fifty games to be played before December 31st. The second leg will start early in January. Arrangements have about been completed for a bowling tournament for the senior boys. This tournament will begin next Thursday evening.

The seniors of the boys division of the gymnasium have challenged the business men to a series of volleyball games. Both groups have become quite expert in this game and an exciting time is promised. The dancing class held its first meeting last Friday night with a good attendance and as a number of new inquiries have been made in regard to this class during the past week the attendance at the class tonight promises to be good.

A change in the swimming schedule has been made for tomorrow owing to the fact that the gymnasium is to be decorated for the carnival which will be held there Saturday night. The children's swimming class will meet at the usual hour, 9:30, and the boys will swim at 10:30 instead of 2:30 as usual. Fifteen attended the women's gymnasium class on Wednesday afternoon. This number has been steadily increasing.

Maui Theaters

Among the excellent five-reel features played at the Valley Isle Theatre this week were: "Help Wanted," last Monday; "The Man Who Could Not Lose," on Tuesday; and "Hearts in Exile," a Shubert feature with Clara Kimball Young in the leading role, on Thursday. This evening Mr. John Vasconcellos of the Kahului Lyceum will play a big five reel feature from the Consolidated Amusement Co. both at the Lyceum and at the Valley Isle Theatre, the superb feature known as "Captain Courtesy."

Tomorrow evening the first episode of the widely talked of sensational dramatic serial picture, "The Diamond from the Sky," with Lottie Pickford, sister of Mary Pickford, as star actress. "The Adventures of Kathlyn," sixth episode, with two others will be seen at the Valley Isle tomorrow night. Next Monday and hereafter, Exploits of Elaine, 24th Episode, will be played with "House of Lost Court" a 5 reel feature. A World film, "Lily of Poverty Flat," in 5 reels, will be shown during the latter part of next week with several Pathe Weeklies, and some comedies.

The bazaar, concert, and dance of the Church of the Good Shepherd at the Gym will bring many people from up country who no doubt will take advantage of the double features at the picture house tomorrow evening, and both places should be packed. A gentleman of wide experience in educational matters is preparing a lecture on that subject to be delivered between pictures at the Valley Isle, announcement of which will soon be made. Other leading citizens of this county whose knowledge of topics of great moment are recognized will be asked to give timely topics on the various subjects the are interested in, and such lectures should prove of much value to the community.
