Armenians May Be Exterminated If U. S. Refuses Help

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 2—(Associated Press)—The International Committee of the Red Cross has sent to President Wilson and to the people of the United States an appeal to rescue Armenia from extinction at the hands of the Turks.

"During the war it seemed to the Armenians that the day of deliverance was dawning. How different is the situation now! Armenia seems to be forgotten; the Turkish army is reconstituted; the greatest part of the country which had been liberated, is now occupied again; the Armenians cannot return to their homes from which they had been driven by violence; thousands of them are still fugitives and have found a temporary asylum where they live a life of misery under the constant threat of renewed massacres.

"Unless the Allied powers step in and resolutely take up the cause of the Armenians, their future is not a mere return under Turkish domination; it is the completion of the work of destruction which has already been carried on with such appalling results. Armenia will no more exist; it will be wiped away from the concert of Christian nations.

"In this dreadful conjuncture, the Armenians stretch toward America their bleeding hands. They know that America alone can save them and they entreat us to join our voice to their ardent cry for help.

"We therefore appeal to the feelings of generosity and justice of the American nation. Is the day in which other peoples joyfully hoist the flag of liberty to be, on the contrary, the day in which Armenia is laid in her grave and her tomb sealed forever? We do not believe that America can remain indifferent to such a revolting injustice or that the cry of despair of the Armenians will not be re-echoed in many American hearts and homes.

"Once more let America come forward for the cause of justice and humanity and rescue a dying nation from a certain extinction. This will be one of the choicest fruits of America's victory."

BACKWARD—FIVE YEARS—FORWARD

Five years from the signing of the peace treaty in Versailles back to the crack of the pistol shot in Austria that precipitated the world's bloodiest war. These five years are a nightmare! Great nations have gone down; other nations have been born. The world even yet is in a seething turmoil of unrest. If the church does not seize its opportunity at this critical time, it is doomed.

But it is the five years just ahead that concerns us now. The past is past; the future is ours in which to redeem the past. To no institution does the forward-looking challenge come more strongly than to the Sunday school. Sunday schools are the proper seed from which churches grow. The challenge is clarion and compelling. The school that does not accept the challenge and undertake to meet it, has already invited its defeat. The Sunday schools unitedly can recover all our losses and make the advance that is absolutely necessary, not only for our growth but for the maintenance of our very life. Shirkers and workers will be the classification of the future, and each school is to determine for itself what its classification shall be. Will we, will you accept the challenge? The next five years will tell the story.—Extract from Marion Lawrence, General Secy. of the International S. S. Association.

There will be Christmas services at the Church of the Good Shepherd, on Christmas morning. A special service of Holy Communion at 7 o'clock, and morning worship with Christmas music at 10:30. All are cordially invited to these services. The Sunday school of the Church of the Good Shepherd will hold its Christmas tree exercises in the Parish House, on Tuesday evening, December 23rd at 7 o'clock.
