TIMELY TOPICS.

We shall never know exactly of what stuff dreams are made. Notwithstanding the unbelief of those who disclaim all supersition, strange cases of occult telegraphy constantly come to the surface. That was a curious one brought out by the death of Miss Faulkner, of Chicago. Her aged mother lives in Ottawa, Canada, and when asked by a correspondent if she had a daughter had correspondent if she had a daughter had the she was dead. "On being informed that the dream had indeed been fulfilled, she wept distressingly. Can all the schools explain what pictured the girl as dead in her mother's mind when her body lay uncared for in a Chicago tenment thouse.

"The time that is saved be harvened."

Chicago tenement house.

"The time that is saved be hurrying to meals and elsewhere comes out of a man's life sooner or later," says a philosophic paragraphist. It is true, yet in spite of the knowledge the American people go through life on the jump, and boast of it. Any town whose citizens incline toward deliberation in their business is considered "dead," Only the places where they all hurry and "splurge" are supposed to be "alive." The popular idea of being alive is being in a hurry. That goes by the name of "business," though absurd haste would be a more appropriate name for it. There is no time saved by hurrying. Whatever is gathered up in small quantities is clipped off at the end of life in a solid piece.

Women and children are employed in tolerably large numbers in the English mines. Out of 18,795 persons engaged above ground about the metalliferous mines, 3,193 are women and girls, and in addition there are 317 males of the tender ages of between eight and thirteen. Of girls thirty-six are employed between eight and thirteen years old, thirty-two of whom are in the Cornwall and Devon district. Of girls between thirteen and eighteen years there are enployed 922, Cornwall and Devon employing 645 and the North Wales district 106, the only other largely-employing district being that of Ireland, where twenty-seven are at work. Of girls above eighteen years old, there are 1,365 employed.

The London World made the startling

1,365 employed.

The London World made the startling discovery that kleptemania was common in fashionable society, and that thefts of jewelry, first and wraps were frequent in the ball rooms and cloak rooms of the West End. Instances were given, names and places being suppressed. Truth followed in the same strain, and told how a light-timered aday of title stole a sable cloak from a ducal mansion; also how another lady of title lost a diamond necklace. It was said that these conveyances of property could not have been inadvertant, seeing that expensive overca's, costly lace shawls and other projer y were invariably replaced by sha'b by articles. In several cases the theve, s were caught in the act, but protesting error, were permitted to go on restoring the plunder.

Time is now supplied to street clocks.

several cases the thieve a were caught in the act, but protesting error, were permitted to go on restoring the plunder.

Time is now supplied to street clocks, public offices, hotels and private dwellings in Paris, like gas or water, from a central station, by means of compressed air conveyed through underground pipes. At the central station there is a reservoir of compressed sir, and for the first twenty seconds of every minute, as given by a standard timepiece, a current of the compressed air is allowed to flow through the pipes to the receiving clocks. By means of a small bellows, which is expanded by the transmitted air, the works of these clocks are kept going at a practical uniform rate. The street mains are of wrough tiron, about 11-16 inch in diameter, and these are connected to service pipes of lead 1.5 inch in diameter, while the different stories of a building are supplied by rubber tubes one-eight inch in diameter. Any number of clocks can be actuated in this way within a radius of two miles from the central station.

Professor Forbes, of Illinois, gives it as his opinion that at least two-thirds of the food of birds consist of insects, averaging at the lowest reasonable estimate twenty insects per day for each individual of this two-thirds, giving a total for the year (which is surprisingly low) of 7,200 per ance, or 250,000,000,000 for the State. This number placed one to each square inch of surface would cover an area of 40,000 acres. In connection with these figures the following estimates by Mr. H. D. Minot, one of the Boston naturalists, are interesting. He states that in Massachusetts alone there are annually destroyed on less than 50,000 partridges, 30,000 woodcock, 15,000 quail and 5,000 snipe, or 100,000 game birds while in the same State 250,000 unil and 5,000 snipe, or 100,000 game birds while in the same State 250,000 unil and 5,000 game of stanle gray set that adultanting of stanle gray equivalent to at least 480 average insects.

The Massachusetts board of health equivalent to at least 480 average insects.

The Massachusetts board of health reports that adulterations of staple groceries are not as common as the public have been led to suppose. For the purpose of test, the expert of the board took samples of flour, sugar, bread, soda, cream of taxtar, and baking powders, obtained in stores in forty cities and towns. The flour was found in all instances to be wholly free from all foreign substances, and, with the exception of one or two coarse varieties of brown sugar, no adulteration was perceptible in that article; and in these isolated cases there was reason for thinking that the defects were due to imperfections in the process of mannature. The soda examined, aithough sold under a variety of names, such as saleratus, bicarbonate, supercarbonate, and cooking soda, was all found to be much the same article, and nearly all of it good. The poor soda was that which had not been properly purified of the crude soda ash, but this sulphate is not injurious to health. Baking powders were found to be pure in twenty-four instances out of thirty-three. The adulteration consisted in an excess of flour or starch over that needed for mixing the soda and cream of tartar. There was also some alum found. In cream of tartar a considerable amount of adulteration was detected.

An exchange gives the following-remedy for earache: Take a small piece of cotton wood, make a depression in the center and fill it with pepper; gather it into a ball and tie it up; dip it into sweet oil and insert it in the ear. Instant relief will follow. Another remedy is od ip a Chiaces firecreaker in nitric acid, put the cracker in the aching ear and explode it. The acid will prepare the ear for the fireworks.—Picayung.

ANOTHER FEMALE MANIA.

THE LATELY ACQUIRED TASTE FOR BEDROOM DECORATION.

The newest mania among fashionable women, married and unmarried alike, is to make their bedrooms beautiful. The lately acquired taste for decoration is taking that turn just now to the utter neglect of parlors and other apartment. Pillowshams and bedspreads are laboriously and expensively covered with needlework and lace; dressing cases are furnished with elaborated mast and ingenious receptables for toilet articles: bottles and boxes of the finest material and workmanship hold her ladyship's cologne, perfumery and powder; more or less excellent pictures hang on the walls, or the walls are wholly covered with lace. In short, the rage for sleeping in beautiful rooms has possessed every woman. Even her toilet crockery must now be of no ordinary ware. She washes her hands in a ceramic bowl, colors her lips and eyebrows out of a crackled Japanese saucer, and uses a Pompei an hand-glass to see her back hair. The ideal bed of the day has a canopy overit, and this is made as fine and beautiful as the money and taste of the woman will permit. The frame-works are made of metal, commonly burnished brass or nickel. Chintz and cretonne are ordinarily used for the curtains; but satin velvet and the better laces enter into the combination. Unmarried women affect white and the most delicate colors for these canopies, and put white doves atop, as emblems of purity—so that the midnight marauder may comprehend the situation at a glance. A novel device is a rack, handsomely constructed of black walnut or ebony, with hooks for hanging a woman's underwear landilly. The chemise, the corset, the stockings, the shoes, all have their places, so that a woman may be as orderly as she likes in undressing and without the old trouble of using all the chairs in the room. Some of the bedrooms of the period are really marvels of exquaiter of hus-dessery the rude occumency of hustoo sweet and dainty by far to deserve the rude occupancy of husbands. However, the best of these apartments belong to maidens, who show them with coyness and pride to their male friends. The dazed fellows stand palpitating on the threshold, gazing in at the vision of innocent somnolency and swearing on the spot to marry the tenant of that beautiful bed or die. The natural result of all this will be an unusual number of weddings this winter.

The N. Y. Sun says:—Mr. Abram S. Hewitt is now entertaining at his spacious and beautiful country seat, Ringwood, in the midst of the iron mines of New Jersey, his Excellency the Governor of the Fiji Islands, with the Hon. Mr. Eden, Capt. Herbert, and nine other eligible and doubtless charming young Englishmen who compose the Fijian dignitary's suite. Besides these a number of the young friends of Mr. Hewitts daughters have been invited to meet these "South Sea Islanders," one of whom expressed the naive hope that "she would not be left atone with any of them, as if he chanced to be hungry he would probably slay and eat her?" Governor des Voleux is fortunate in being the guest of a man who can show him one of the finest iron regions of the world, and iron works as extensive and profitable as any in the old country.
