Sapford Journal: "The Church of the Holy Cross at Sanford is nearing completion, and we are informed the dedication services will take place on Sunday, June 12. Next week, however, we will endeavor to place the particulars before our readers." A few nights ago Mr. W. T. Summergill was knocked down and robbed of his money and watch on Pine street, Jacksonville. It seems that he had been asked to change a quarter by a couple of colored boys, aged about eighteen and nineteen, and when he took out his pocketbook for the purpose of making the change they knocked him down and robbed him. they knocked him down and roused him.

Tampa Tribune: "We have seen a letter from the United States Commissioner of Lands in Washington, stating that homesteaders who made their entries anterior to March, 1881, within the six or fifteen miles limits of the grant of United States lands to Mr. Yulee's road to Tampa, are not required to pay $2.50 per acre if they commute, and that the Gainesville office in this State has been instructed to correct its errors in this respect."

Marianna Courier: "The only case of any particular interest before the court was that of Cox for rape. The person upon whom the rape was attempted was the daughter of the prisoner. This case was brought to our court by change of venue from Washington county. The family is one of respectability, and the prisoner was esteemed as a respectable man until'about two or three years ago, when from running a little 'moonshine' distillery, he became very much addicted to drink. Cox, in the campaign of 1878, was an independent candidate for the Legislature in Washington county, and received a fair proportion of the vote. The trial was one of absorbing interest, and the evidence against the prisoner was of the most convincing and conclusive character."

The parties met in Greenville yesterday morning and engaged in a quarrel, which was stopped by the intervention of friends, and, as they thought, the whole affair amicably adjusted. Later in the day Turner accused Shuttles of following him up armed. Upon hearing this Shuttles readily gave up his pistol. In the afternoon Shuttles invited Turner to take a driok with dout in front of Turner, and as he did so Turner, without saying a word, fired upon Shuttles twice in quick succession, both balls taking effect in the back. Shuttles dide in five minutes. Turner was lodged in jail. The Meriwether jail is not secure, and if left there he will probably make his escape."

Post-Appeal: "Information has been received in this city of the capture of the famous outlaw, wiley Redding, in Mississippi, and of his subsequent escape. It appears that, a few days ago, a negro was arrested in a Mississippi town for robbing the mail. The author ties could find cut nothing about the presoner except that he claimed to be one John Thomas. In a short time, however, he wrote a letter to a colored woman in Atlanta, asking her to send him some money. This fact and a faithful description of the criminal was at once forwarded to Atlanta and it became apparent from the description and from the fact that the woman written to was Wiley Redding's sister that the prisoner was wiley Redding's sister that the prisoner was wiley and the whole force of the fire brigade was soon upon the ground. The once forwarded to Atlanta and it became apparent from the description and from the fact that the woman written to was Wiley Redding's sister, that the prisoner was no less a personage than the notorious Wiley Redding himself. Thomasville Enterprise: "Some time last July, Duncan McMillan, an industrious colored man, went off to work on the railroad. His wife consented that a colored woman named—should take a little d sughter of Duncan's, about twelve years of age, but very small for her years, with her to where she lived on the plantation of Messrs. H. J. & A. T. McIntyre. Yery shortly after the child got there—not more than two or three weeks—she was seen going down the road towards Monticello, and the woman, —, after her, and calling to some others to catch the child, which, however, none of them did, as they thought she had been badly treated. The woman followed the child off, and returning some time afterwards said that she could not catch her. She sent word to the child's mother some weeks afterwards that the child had run away. Duncan came home as soon as he could, but, having a large family dependent on his labors, he did not get back till some few weeks ago. Since his return he has made diligent search for the child without avail. He has walked all around through that portion of the county, but so far cannot find a trace of his child. He says she was not very bright for her years, and could not possibly have gone away so as not to be heard of without direction and assistance. He istoo poor to pay detectives to work up the case, but is most anxious for any information that will lead to the discovery of the fate of the child'

Griffin News: "One of the most lovely places in Scalding county is the carp pond of Mr. A. A. Wright in north Griffia. Mr. Wright, who is a genius in everything, has devoted to the improvement of this place his best skill and energies. readily discerable. At this stage even the police and firemen were to a great extent demoralized. Daring roberbles were carried on freely in full sight of everybody. Liquor stores and private dwellings attacked by the flames were ransacked for liquor, which was openly drunk by the low characters who infest the locality. The sparks, which everywhere flew from the burning wooden buildings, were in themselves a terrible source of danger to the rest of the city. It was no uncommon sight to see men's coats and hats ablaze from burning pieces of shingles which lighted upon them.

ment in Georgia, and which has even filled columns in influential Western papers. The pond covers an area of nearly an acre and is supplied with water by a large, bold spring that boils up in the centre, and water conveyed by underground pipes from a number of springs several hundred feet distant. The dam is constructed in the best manner, being planked up on the inside of the best heart pine lumber, with clay backing, on which is planted Bermuda grass. Inside the pond, near one corner, is a dry well eight feet in diameter and ten feet deep, octagon shaped, at the bottom of which is a large hydrautic engine or ram that forces water through pipes all over the residence of Mr. Wright, where it is used for the various purposes needed, kitchen, bathroom, etc., keeping up a constant flow of water without the use of tanks or reservoirs, having the same pressure of an elevated tank thirty feet high and also keeping a beautiful fountain continually playing seven jets of water fifteen feet high. Around the top of the dry well is a strainer or seive of wire cloth made to order in New York, through which the waste water escapes from the pond (thereby preventing the escape of the smallest carp), thence from the bottom through a waste from the pond and ram. Two large weeping willows stand in the centre on two islands built octazon shaped and sodded with blue grass. The willows are the largest and handsomest in the county and are exceedingly ornamental. Around the pond, on the dam, are other large weeping willows, which make the place look cool and pleasant. On the upper side are planted a row of magnoliss and weeping willows, and in the pond, spread on the surface, blooms the beautiful yellow water lilies, yellow lotus, curcutian recurrata, calladium escalantum, and a them.

The fire brigade allege that four wooden houses were found on fire by them when they arrived upon the scene, and that, with water absent and unattainable for some twenty minutes, it was impossible for them to obtain the mastery. Nothing was saved of St. John's Church but the sacred vessels and some of the most valuable of the plate and some of the most valuable of the plate and furniture of the sanctuary. The fire had possession of the noble s'ructure in almost a less space of time than it takes to read of it, and the finest and largest church in the city was doomed to destruction. The church was worth at least $100,000, upon which the insurance amounts to only $10,000. At the foot of Jupiter street, below Berthlot Market, the flumes had crossed from the lower sides of St. John street, and from this point and some of the most valuable of the plate

WASHINGTON, June 8.-There is to be a new feature in Washington journalism in the shape of an afternoon paper, in rivalry with the Slar. The Star has long been, and still is, the leading paper of Washington, both in the point of

been the fact that it has always kept aloof as the occasion has required. There is no use talking: the people can tell without having to hear it that a newspaper is open to corruption. Succumbing to the insinuating offers of jobbers and lobbyists, is the whole secret of the reputation that the city of Washington has acquired as a national graveyard for newspaper enterprise. Can is now languishing on its last legs because the people will not support a concern run in the interest of the star route thieves. The Post, which assumes to be a national organ of the Democracy, does not get support enough to insure its living from one month to the other. When the latter paper first started here it secured unusual support for a new enterprise. It was full if news. It soon became apparent, however, to the most unsophisticated that its columns were open to any jobbery or thevery, the managers of which would contain the lucre. The paper deceived that its columns were open to any jobbery or thevery the managers of which would contain the lucre. The paper deceived that its columns were open to any jobbery or thevery the managers of yournalistic prostitution. They do not support the Post The consequence is that it has deteriorated from the first six mon has of its birth, and it is now a wonder as to how it manages to live. I started out, however, by saying that a new afternoon paper was to be started. That is not exactly the truth. It is an old afternoon paper under a new management. Many Southern Republicans called on President Garfie d very soon after he was inaugurated and kept it up until the Senate adjourned. They all had their little axes, and in the most polite terms asked that the President grind them. After the Senate adjourned, and) the Southern Republicans were not provided for by nominations, a gloom fell over them. A few remained on hand to bother and disturb the President, but the majority decamped and left the field to other office hunters. Now i see the Southern Republican no more haunting the White House or the departments He sees that there is not much chance for him. health or comfort. It is here that the tourist in quest of pleasure can satiate his desire, while the invalid, enfeetled by disease, can recuperate with a rapi lity truly astonishing. The altitude of Hendersonville is 2,52 feet above the ocean, the air cool and bracing, the water ice cold and free from the slightest particle of limestone. The city, like Augusta, is laid out at right angles and is beautified by rows of trees in the centre and on either s de of the principal street.

Passengers for the mountains on reaching Spartanburg, S. C., take the train on the Asheville and Spartanburg Railroad for Hendersonville (the present terminus), and arrive at seven o'clock. Along this line the traveler rests his eyes on the most sublime landscape in America. The view of Tryon Mountain from the cars as they ascend the 'steep grade' of two hundred and thirty-seven feet to the mile is especially imposing, and, by long odds, surpasses any scenery that I ever beheld in the Eastern or Middle States, not excepting that on the Hudson river.

On reaching the city the traveler finds the most ample hotel accommodations, at the most reasonable rates, offered by the American, the Virginia, the Arlington, Chāse's Globe, and the Fletcher House. The latter, while pessessing a less pretentious name than the rest, is superbly kept, its proprietar, Dr. J. L. Egerton, in its equipment, having had no other object in view save the comfort of his guests. The fare in the mountains is of the very best, and the richest of milk and best of butter can be found in abundance.

The atreams in this section abound in mountain trout, and the industrious sportsman, by journeying twenty-five or thirty miles to the 'Balsam Mountains,' can get a shot at a bear or deer. In eighten less productive counties there is an average increase of 5½ per cent. The weather is reported equal to the most favorable in fifty six counties, and less favorable in eight. The weather is reported more favorable in thirteen counties, equally as favorable in three and less favorable in four counties. Stands are reported from fair to very good in about two of the smaller counties. In ten counties the crop is reported as from ten to fifteen days late. In ten about the same. The condition is from fair to good in thirteen counties, and poor and grassy in seven. Labor is reported as less in number but equally efficient in most of the counties, and the same as last year in others. west point and annapolis and way. That pest illustrates the feeling of "society" it owards the two professions mentioned. Naturally the young ladies prefer the young men; therefore they "dote" upon the cadets at Annapolis and West Point. For this reason we are about to be deserted, for a short time at least, by what remnant of "society" the summer has left us. That remnant has been on the quities about the commencement exercises which take place at Annapolis and West Point on the lift, for some weeks past. It has been getting ready for either one or the two events, and the hegira will commence to-morrow. Then we will not for some days have even the remnant of "society" left us. What we are to dol cannot tell Will somebody plea e pray for us nour affliction?

But we have one serious drawback, the want of transportation. We live within about seven or eight miles of Orange Lake, but freight sent to Philadelphia is eight to ten days in reaching that place.

Our farmers went into truck farming pretty heavy this season, and I am sorry to say that not one out of ten realized money enough to pay for gathering and boxing his vegetables. The outlook is very gloomy, as many did not plant "king cotton," and the corn crop is now cut short by the drouth. It has been about six or seven weeks since we have had rain enough to moisten the ground. If we do not have rain soon there will not be any corn made in our immediate section, as it is now in full silk and tassel. What little cotton was planted is looking well. We have a most desirable locality for truck farwing, having plenty of high, dry, rich lands, but until something is done to give us quick and cheap transport tion we cannot make it pay.

During the afternoon the market was extremely dull, but in the late dealings a fair degree of activity prevailed, and the closing quotations were in most instances within a small fraction of the top figures. Canada Southern was an exception, and closed at a decline of 1/2 per cent. Louisylle and New Albany recorded a further advance of 4 per cent. making an improvement of the day of 10 per cent. Sales aggregated 251,572 shares.

Marietta, Ga., June 4.—The International Cotton Exposition, to commence on the 5th of October, 1881, at Atlanta, Ga., was the result of an interview between the business men of the North and the South, and is meant as a great national fair. Atlanta, because of its central location, and its facilities of approach and accommodations for visitors, was selected as the most fitting point for this fair, or exposition. There was nothing selfish in the choice, as is apparent from the readiness of the cities of the North in their liberal subscriptions of money in its aid. Nor was it intended solely for the benefit of the cotton interests, but as cotton is the great industrial interest of the South, it was deemed proper that it should have the name of that great staple. the South, it was deemed proper that it should have the name of that great staple. To the acute perceptions of the business men of the North, its immense agency in promoting the interests of all sections and all interests was palpable, and they entered with alacrity into the scheme. These men are ambitious to promote the general welfare, they are men of liberal views and enlarged patriotism, and see clearly that the interests of the South are the interests of the nation, and desiring, as much as in their power, to aid the South in building up of her broken fortunes, not only consented, power, to aid the South in building up of her broken fortunes, not only consented, but desired that this Exposition should be located in the heart of the South, and considering all its advantages for such an enterprise, selected Atlanta. There was another motive; here could, and probably would be assembled the greatest number of the business men and planters of the South, and through this means the benefits to be derived to the South would be more extensively disseminated, which was so much desired. It would most likely bring into closer communication the North, West and South, where and when might be discussed the great practical interests of all sections, and their people become better known to each other; where,

In eighteen counties the crop is reported from ten to twenty days later. In thus organizing this Exposition it was the desire of every one to benefit the South, and by enlarging the intercourse between the nin fifteen days earlier. The condition is from fair to good throughout the department. Labor is reported about the same, except in eleven productive counties, and not so efficient. The use of fertilizers has generally increased. In some counties cut worms and defective seed are complising of, the latter having made replanting necessary in many cases.

cannot those now engaged in this industrial pursuit be taught that this is the object mainly of this international exhibition of the appliances of agriculture and the arts.

When the higher intelligence of the country are in council with the specimens of every industry before them, will there not be eliminated such truths as shall enlighten and lead to the adoption of such means as will greatly change the present ruinous system of agriculture to the South? The great mass of the Southern people are agriculturists; it is her great interest, and intelligently directed is destined to make her people the most prosperous and most powerful of the nation. It is especially in her interest that the International Exposition was conceived, and she is kindly invited to give all the aid she can in making this great effort in her cause a success, and from which shall be dated the commencement of a new era in her history.

New industries are beginning to claim pitious and healthful, and every inducement exists to invite population and capital. This is only to be known to secure this, and to this end no means are so effectual as those which will prompt investigation. It is believed this great Southern fair, or exposition, will do this, because there will be on exhibition specimens of all these minerals and woods of the country to demonstrate their existence here in the greatest abundance.
