

FILE SUIT TO OUST 'MAYOR' OF LYNHURST

Five Town Board Members
Ask Removal Mandate
in Land Fight.

Land annexation fight in Lynhurst, town corporation southwest of Indianapolis, was carried into a Marion county court today with the filing of a mandate suit by five town board members to force the removal of Ernest E. Kellogg, board chairman and town "mayor."

The action, filed in superior court four by plaintiffs Don Branigan, Rowlin McMillan, Claude Williamson, James H. McGuire and William R. Harding, demands that Kellogg be ordered to inform his associates of the time and place of trustees' meetings and explain his official acts.

Seek Meeting

It is understood the trustees hope to hold a meeting through the court order, at which time Kellogg will be ousted as president, and another member appointed.

Charges are made that Kellogg procured annexation of 2,000 acres of land to the community "wholly without regard for the interests, desires or welfare of the people."

Kellogg's appeal from two fines of $100 and costs for drawing deadly weapons and carrying concealed weapons is pending.

Drew Weapon

He was arrested after he drew a gun at a town board meeting Monday night when board members, seeking to disannex the land, objected to his declaration that the election of five board members was illegal because written notice of the meeting was not given.

Petitions for disannexation of the land are being circulated in Lynhurst.

Maybe So!

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 20.—Four perfect hands of bridge were dealt at a party given by the Big Ten Club of Youngstown. The four players and the three witnesses all attest that the cards were shuffled and dealt according to the regular rules of the game.

Howard Sutton, Ohio State university graduate, an engineer of the Penn-Ohio Electric Company, was so amazed when he saw thirteen diamonds in his hand that he laid down his cards. Dr. W. J. McCarthy, a dentist, Sutton's partner, received all the clubs. M. W. Jacobs, a shoe merchant, got all the hearts, while his partner, Paul Dingley, a graduate of the University of Illinois school of engineering, picked all the spades.

WET WEATHER CAUSES MUCH DAMAGE TO CORN

Harvested Crop Molds in Daviess County Cribbs.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Ind., Dec. 20.—Continued wet weather and lack of sunshine has caused the most serious situation ever faced by Daviess county corn growers.

Dampness of the air has caused corn already placed in cribs to become moldy and rotten, farmers report, and serious loss is expected. Corn prices, it is predicted, will rise considerably higher as a result of damage to the two years' crop.

Corn still in the fields is in better condition than that harvested, it is reported, but even this has been threatened. In many instances, farmers say, the ungathered crop is sappy and unfit for seed purposes.

Chile is more than 2,600 miles long, while its breadth nowhere exceeds 250 miles.
