SHOCKING TRAGEDY.

Murder in the Main Street of Honolulu—Mr. Leonard R. Patten Shot and Killed on Fort Street by Bridges

A few minutes after five o'clock on Wednesday last, Mr. Patten, salesman in J. T. Waterhouse's store No. 10, Fort street, was seen to run out of the store with a stick in his hand and attack a man on the opposite side of the street near the Ten Cent store. A short scuffle ensued, when two pistol shots were heard, and the two men separated. The one who is supposed fired the shots ran up the street, while Patten walked a few steps, saying, "I am not hurt," and then staggered and fell. He was carried into Messrs. Benson, Smith & Co.'s drug store, and expired in a few minutes. A great crowd collected in a moment, and when Mr. Gibson, who had witnessed the affray, reached Horn's bakery, in which direction he had seen the man who fired the shots run, he found an angry crowd there calling for the man and shouting, "Hang him!" "Get a rope!" Mr. Gibson entered a woodshed attached to the bakery, where he found Mr. Bridges, whom he accused of killing Patten, and advised him to give himself up quietly. This Bridges did, merely inquiring as to whether Patten was dead. He was taken to the Station House and detained on a charge of murder. Coroner Dayton empaneled a jury, and at 7:30 p. m. the inquest was held in Benson, Smith & Co.'s drug store. We add the following report of the inquest:

Coroner's Inquest on the Body of Leonard R. Patten.

BEFORE DAVID DAYTON, DEPUTY-MARSHAL, CORONER.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 12.

The following jury were empaneled and duly sworn: J. H. Paty, G. W. Smith, J. T. Waterhouse, Jr., J. H. Fisher, W. P. McAllister, Chas. Hasselmann. Mr. J. Brown acted as Clerk for the Coroner.

Walter Murray Gibson being sworn stated: About half-past five this afternoon I was seated in my carriage, at the door of Wenner & Co.'s store, I observed Mr. Patten at the door of Mr. John T. Waterhouse's store. I watched him closely, as circumstances induced me to watch him with more than usual interest. I saw him conversing with other parties at the door. I saw him enter Waterhouse's store and return to the door with a stick of clean white wood (part of stick produced and recognized). "I observed him run across the street and rapidly approach a man, short in stature, now said to be Mr. Bridges. I saw Patten strike Bridges once with the stick. Then I saw a struggle between the two men, and suddenly heard two reports. Patten walked away, apparently unhurt, and I observed 'He is not hurt.' After walking a few paces, I saw his countenance change, when he staggered and fell. Seeing the party who had fired the pistol run away, I followed him in my carriage to Horn's store. I supposed it to be Mr. Bridges from the recent business transactions I had with him in regard to the purchase of a house and lot in Hilo for the Board of Health, and also from rumors that I had heard concerning Patten and Bridges. I said to Mr. Horn, 'He had better surrender himself up, he is inside the building.' I looked through the building and found Bridges, and said, 'You have shot Patten, you had better surrender yourself.' Bridges said, 'Is he dead?' He had nothing in his hand at the time. He had no hat on at the time.

By the Attorney-General: About five minutes elapsed between the shooting and my finding him on Horn's premises. I was thirty or forty paces distant from Patten and Bridges when they were struggling. The struggle was apparently caused by Patten attempting to ward off the pistol in Bridges' hand. I saw the flash of a pistol. When they separated, I said to my daughter, 'He is not hurt.'

By the Coroner: Bridges was going up the street when Patten struck him from behind. Had I known nothing of the circumstances, I should not have taken so much notice of the matter.

By Mr. Paty: I saw Patten conversing outside of Mr. Waterhouse's store with some person whom I do not know. There was a crowd at Horn's door at the time I arrived. They were threatening to Lynch him. I told him he had better go to prison at once. Bridges came out of the woodshed on Horn's premises with his head uncovered. This hat (hat produced) is similar to the one that Bridges wore at the time of the scuffle, and, I should judge, that this is the hat that he wore. There were no other persons engaged in a scuffle at that time, and at that place."

James F. Noble sworn, stated: I was on Fort street about ten minutes past 5 o'clock this afternoon. I was standing opposite Williams's Photograph Gallery. I saw Patten and Bridges struggling with each other. I know them both. Patten was looking up the street, Bridges downwards. Patten had a stick in his hand (piece of stick produced.) It was similar to this stick. Patten had his left hand on Bridge's right shoulder. The struggle lasted about a minute. I saw Bridges put his hand behind him and draw a revolver and fire. When I heard the first shot, and saw the flash, I ran across the street. When I heard the first shot the parties were facing each other, and very close together. When I was half-way across the street the second shot was fired. Patten was then facing diagonally across the street towards Thrum's store. Bridges was facing makai. After the second shot, Bridges ran up Fort street. His hat had fallen off before the last shot was fired. I think it fell before any shot was fired (hat produced). I think this hat similar to the one Bridges wore. That was the last I saw of Bridges. Patten walked down the street on the sidewalk. I followed him and took him by the left arm. I saw his vest on fire. I put the fire out with my fingers. The fire was on his left side. I was on his left side. I said to him "Come with me to a physician; you are wounded." His reply was, "Oh, I am not hurt." I said, "You are." By the time we reached Lycan & Co.'s store, he reeled and fell against a packing case on the sidewalk opposite Lycan & Co.'s store. I said to a man coming up the street, "help me take this man up to Benson, Smith & Co.'s drug store, he is shot." (The man who helped Noble to take Patten to the store is named Gunn.) We brought him to the store, where the body now lies.

By Mr. Paty: I saw nothing in Mr. Patten's hand, except the stick. I am well acquainted with both of them. I saw the pistol distinctly when he fired the second shot.

Fred H. Hayselden, sworn, stated: I was in the carriage with Mr. Gibson, outside of Wenner & Co.'s store, the horse facing up the street. I noticed Patten talking to two persons at the mauka doorway of Waterhouse's store. One was Mr. Jordan. I continued to talk to Wenner. My attention was drawn by Mr. Gibson saying "Look, look." I looked up the street and saw two men struggling, one of whom I recognized as Patten. They were then a little off the sidewalk opposite the Ten Cent store. It seemed to be a rough and tumble struggle, each one trying to throw off the others hands. I then heard a report at which time they were both facing each other and very close. The shot seemed to cause Mr. Patten to swing round sideways towards the man that fired the shot. Then there was a second shot, the flash of which I distinctly saw. They then seemed to separate from each other suddenly, Patten walking down the street, the other man running up the street. I did not know who the man was at the time, but from his stature I supposed it to be Bridges. I saw a man throw his arms around Patten as he was falling, opposite Lycan's store. I drove immediately to Horn's store, and Mr. Gibson got out. I then drove to the Station House to see Mr. Dayton. He was not there. I found Marcos and told him what had occurred.

By Mr. Paty: I saw nothing in Mr. Patten's hands at the time of the scuffle.

By the Attorney-General: I recognize this hat as one similar to what I had seen Bridges wear the day before. It was shortly after five o'clock that I saw the struggle. When I saw Bridges being taken to the Station House he had no hat on.

E. W. Jordan sworn, stated: Patten worked in Waterhouse's store, No. 10, Fort street. A little past 5 o'clock, Starkey, Patten and myself were talking at the door of the store. We were just about to close up. Patten suddenly left us and went in and came back with a stick in his hand like the one exhibited before the jury. It is used to roll American oil cloth. I said "What is up now?" or something like that. He made no reply but ran across the road and up the sidewalk until he overtook a short man, whom he struck over the head several blows.

Then they struggled. They got off the sidewalk into the street at that instant. I turned to go into the store and heard a report as of a pistol-shot, and whilst again turning I heard a second report and saw smoke blowing down the street. The two men then parted, the shorter one running up the street and Patten walking down the sidewalk. A moment afterwards I saw a person take hold of Patten and he (Patten) fell. I saw nothing in Patten's hand except the stick. The stick was about 1 1/4 yards long before it was broken.

By the Attorney-General: I saw no one take part in the struggle, except Patten and the short man.

T. M. Starkey, sworn, stated: I work in Waterhouse's lower store. I called on my way to No. 10 to dinner about 5 o'clock. I spoke to Patten about some goods, and Patten said he had not got them. Subsequently Jordan came up, and I had a conversation with him. Patten went in the store and came out with a stick like this (stick produced). I saw him go across the street and strike a short man over the neck or shoulder. I then turned inside the store. I saw one blow and heard two shots fired. I then saw Patten being helped after he was shot.

By Mr. Paty: I know Bridges by sight. I recognised him as the man that Patten went after.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The Coroner's inquest over the body of L. R. Patten, which was adjourned on Wednesday evening to permit of a post-mortem examination, was resumed yesterday morning in the outer rooms of the Hall of Lodge Le Progres F. and A. M., whither the body had been conveyed the previous evening. The autopsy was conducted by Drs. McKibbin and Emerson, and, at its conclusion, the jury assembled in the adjoining ante-room, where were also present His Excellency the Attorney-General, and W. B. Castle, counsel for the prisoner Bridges. The evidence given by the physicians was as follows:

Dr. R. McKibbin, being sworn, stated that he had conducted a post-mortem examination, assisted by Dr. Emerson, on the body of Leonard R. Patten; he had found rigor mortis distinctly marked; there were three external gunshot wounds; the first wound was 1 1/4 inches above the navel on the median line; the second wound was over the ninth rib, at the intersection of a line drawn perpendicularly from the axilla, and a second horizontal line drawn from a point 4 inches below the left nipple; third wound was about 2 1/2 inches distant from wound number two, and upwards and backwards from it.

Wound No. 1, in the abdomen, allowed of the introduction of fore-finger. From this wound a large quantity of blood oozed. The skin was scorched around wound No. 2. The ball passed along the rib, and did not enter the chest; it made wound No. 3 as it passed out, the distance from its entry to its exit being about 2 1/2 inches.

On opening the abdomen, the peritoneal cavity was found filled with a large quantity of fluid and clotted blood. The ball that caused wound No. 1 was found to have traversed the wall of the abdomen, passing downwards and backwards a little to the right, and it entered the abdomen, and was found lodged in the soft parts, lining the right side of the pelvic cavity, from whence it was extracted, making in its course a large wound in the right external iliac artery, producing death by causing profuse hemorrhage. The nature of wound No. 1 must necessarily prove speedily fatal. The pistol-ball (produced in Court) was handed to me by Dr. Emerson, and by me to the Coroner.

Dr. N. B. Emerson, being sworn, stated that he had heard the statement made by Dr. McKibbin in regard to the post-mortem examination of the body of L. R. Patten, and that he concurred in that statement. He had extracted the ball produced in Court from the locality previously described, and had given it to Dr. McKibbin, whom he saw give it to the Coroner. The result of wound No. 1 would necessarily cause speedy death, and, in the opinion of the witness, caused the death of Mr. Patten.

This closed the evidence, and the jury retired, and at 10:30 a.m., after an absence of ten minutes, returned with the following verdict:

That Leonard R. Patten came to his death on the 12th of November, 1884, in the city of Honolulu, from the effects of a pistol bullet discharged at him by Hiram A. Bridges in testimony whereof the said Coroner and jurors of this inquest have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year aforesaid.

Signed: David Dayton, Coroner; John H. Paty, Wm. B. McAllister, John T. Waterhouse, Jr., C. Hasselmann, J. H. Fisher, Geo. W. Smith.
