BLAINE AND LOGAN. Grand Ratification Meeting - New York's Grand Opera House Filled to Overflowing-A Set of Ringing Res-olutions-Ex-Secretary Evarts Makes a Rousing Address. New York, July 15 .- The first grand

Blaine and Logan ratification meeting was held this evening in the Grand Opera House. Long before the time announced for the meeting to open the building from orchestra gallery was filled to its utmost capacity and hundreds filled the alcoves. The attendance was so large that an overflow meeting was held outside the building, which was addressed by prominent local Republicans. The stage and boxes had been appropriately lecorated for the occasion. A large portrait of Mr. Blaine hung on the right of the boxes and another of Mr. Logan on the left. Neary five thousand persons, including many adies, occupied seats on the stage. Among the prominent persons present were ex-Governor Cornell, Burton B. Plumb, of Kansas and Collector Robertson. A prominent feature of the meeting was the entrance of one hundred men attired as plumed knights. Charles S. Smith presided, and after the reading of a long list of vice presidents and secretaries General McCook read a long series of resolutions, of which the following is an abstract: First, That in appeal to the people for their continued support we refer them to what the party has done during the past twenty-four years it has been responsible for the conduct of national affairs as the best pledge of what it will do in the future. Its first President, Abraham Lincoln, issued the proclamation of emancipation, and the Republican party is pledged to maintain the civil and political rights of the freedmen. The resolutions after referring to the mili-tary and civil record of John A. Logan closed as follows: The Republican party comes before the The Republican party comes before the public in its seventh presidential campaign with credentials of approved courage, great experience, tried faithfulness, high ability and it stands now as in the past for just laws, pure administration, a fair ballot, a full wage, profitable industries, peaceful homes and a foreign policy worthy of the traditions and position of the great republic.

After a glee club had sung several songs, the chairman introduced the Hon. William chairman introduced the Hon. William Evarts, who was received with at applause and after briefalluding to the results of the wo national conventions recently holden in two national conventions recently noticen in Chicago he compared the mode of selecting the prime ministers of England and France to the system adopted of electing the President and Vice President of the United States, He and vice Fresident of the United States. Its said we had been upheld among the nations of the world, extended our territories, raised up wealth and governed over fifty millions of people. "And now," said Mr. Evarts, "came the all important question, which party will you select to govern the country, or are you for the plaintiff or defendant. For the first for the plaintiff or defendant. For the first time in the history of our country we have a new school of politicians who, not satisfied with electing Cleveland for Governor, want to elect him to the presidency of the United States. This new school also want to place Republicans in power, but they don't want Mr. Blaine to be President. They don't want the Democratic party to obtain control of the government, but they do want Gover-nor Cleveland for President. Now let me warn you of what may come of an error.

nor Cleveland for President. Now let me warn you of what may come of an error. Wise men if they know what party they belong to will follow their own flag and keep time to its music. The Republican party has always represented the best instincts and the highest desires of the American people. The Democratic party is hungry and thirsty and will use every effort to obtain control of the greenwant. At the coming election and will use every effort to obtain control of the government. At the coming election some of our party may desert us without betraying us, ond others may betray us and not desert us. The deserters from the party who intend to swell the votes of the Democratic party may make that party a little sweeter, but one thing is certain that they cannot make it any sourer. From the reformers we have a protest, a threat. Why not be patient and just and when four years hence the convention meets again you will perhaps nominate some one that everyone will approve of. These re-formers it appears only want to be semi-de-tached from the Republican party and only semi-attached to the Democratic party, but they cannot suck principles from the breasts they cannot suck principles from the breasts of the Democratic party—to do so would kill them. Two factions of the city politicians took John Kelly to Chicago in a cage of unit rule and made a show of him. But I am sure," said the speaker, "that you don't want to sacrifice the reformers to their so-called reform Democratic Governor. The nominee of the Republican party has shown his passport at every step of his life, and he has also shown that he has a right to be useful to his country, and that he is well acquainted with the laws of this country and with those of other countries; and if the British government had the power of nominating the next President as they used to appoint the governors in the time of George III, they would not nominate James G. Senator Hawley was the next speaker. He was received with great applause. He prefaced his remarks by saying that after listening to the great oration of Mr. Evarts he felt much comforted. Before he thought and much comforted. Before he thought and felt that he was right; now he was sure he was right. "The Republicans," he said, "did not need a platform. The twenty years of the greatest history ever written was their platform and the great topics and issues of the election will be the tariff question and the revival of true Americanism." The Senstor then made an elaborate review of the eficial effects of a protective tariff upon beneficial effects of a protective tariff upon the manufacturing interests of the country. He compared the tariff and taxation system of this country with those of Great Britain and added that England was in his opinion one of the strictest and most vindictive pro-tectionists in the world. The speaker was frequently interrupted with outbursts of

casy Feeling Among His Followers— The Kelly Backsliders Make Them ALBANY, N. Y., July 15 .- With all the nthusiasm around the executive chamber, measiness exists among a certain class of lo- in pretty style, but was soon a length behind al politicians. Malcontents are to be found A everywhere. In the main they are followers of Kelly. They echo the sentiments of that leader as they remonstrated in the convention hall. Everyone of them is mad or pretends to be. Each one criticises Cleveland's position on the State bills with a reckless above. don that makes the Governor's supporters gnash their teeth. Listening to some of the A. Hamm third, McKay fourth, Ten Eycke tories an impartial auditor would be-ieve Cleveland is in bad odor. Albany, it like the nomination and declare so repeatedly. They state also that Kelly will support the ticket. In this view they seem backed by recent reports from Naw York Mr. Dougherty's opinions. New York. Mr. Dougherty's opinions of the rowers could not be ascertained unt section of the party. The interview with him shows a decided settlement of feeling towards the ticket. Purcell's withdrawal from the electoral ticket is looked at in different ways. Some say it is a positive declaration of war against Cleveland; others claim it means nothing but a desire on Pur-cell's part to fulfill a longing for a much needed vacation. Another point the Repub-licans here make is that Tilden has not yet licans here make is that Tilden has not yet formally expressed his opinion of Cleveland's nomination or the ticket generally. This is thought to be a bad omen. Why, they ask, should the Sage of Greystone withhold his congratulations if the ticket suits him? In reply to this it is urged that Tilden's mantle falls naturally on the present Governor of New York, that no formal congratulation is necessary, and that, furthermore, Tilden and Cleveland understand each other and all apparently unstraight things will right themselves before long. This is the talk around the hotels tonight. Meanwhile Cleveland is taking it quietly at the executive mansion ready to re-

Bows Away From All His Compet-CONNEAUT LARE, Penn., July 15 .- There as an immense crowd present at the regatta to-day. There was a wrangle among the scullers and management an hour or so before the first heat. The majority of the rowers wanted a less first prize than $600 and more to be divided among the remaining five in the final heat. A breeze began to blow just before the first heat was started and made the water rough, but it subsided beford the third heat was finished. This accounts for the great difference between the first, second and third heats. First heat-J. McKay first, A. Hami second, J. Riley third, H. Sheldon fourth, G H. Hosmer fifth. A good start was made and McKay and Hamm dashed away with thirty-eight to the minute. Hosmer made an insteady start and was soon a half length behind the leaders. Riley and Sheldon were out of the race before a half mile was covered. McKay rowed like a demon, and though Hamm was rowing a pretty stroke, he did not hold McKay, who turned the buoy a half length in front. He increased his lead as they went on and won a good race by two lengths. Riley was ten lengths behind Hamm. Sheldon was fourth and Hosmer stopped half way. The management changed McKay from the second to the third heat: time. 21.4836. Second heat—J. Teemer first, T. Gau-daur second, N. Layberger third. There was some heavy betting this heat, about two to one on Teemer. The race was never in doubt as Teemer led from the start to the finish and won easily by three lengths. He rowed vigorously throughout and Gaudaur could never get anything like even with him; time, 21.49 3-4. 21.49 3-4.

Third heat—Priddy first, Ten Eycke sec ond, Weisberger third, P. N. Hamm fourth Lee fifth. This was the most exciting hea of the day. The wind had subsided when one: Priddy struck out with a quarter lea A magnificent race ensued between Lee Priddy and Ten Eycke. The Pittsburger
