Ever Put on Exhibition In

Blankets, Comfortables, Marseilles Quilts, Crochet Quilts,

Table Damasks, All Linen Towels, Napkins, etc.

The entire surplus production of Blankets manufactured by five of the "Leading AMERICAN Mills," purchased by us two weeks ago, are now on sale. This is an opportunity dealers cannot always give their customers, as few retail houses would care to purchase 129 cases of Blankets in July. Depend upon it, the figures given us for the lot were so very low that we could not, in justice to our trade, pass such enormous values (even if the lot was double what we ever bought before). Now, every housekeeper, hotel keeper and the public in general, together with those who anticipate keeping house, should at once examine these Blankets, because we candidly expect before the first of September every pair will be sold. Our confidence is backed by the unheard-of prices made by us to accomplish this purpose.

FRANK W. CHENEY, of South Manchester. As a sample, Blankets sold at $4.50 last year by some of the houses in this city will be found on our counters at $3. $10.50 Blankets for $6.89. $6 Blankets for $4.25. The same unprecedented values in qualities from $1 to $6.

According to the Iron Age, the longest straight reach of railroad in the world is on the new Argentine Pacific railroad from Buenos Ayres to the foot of the Andes. For a distance of 211 miles the line is laid without a curve. The level nature of the country will be evident from the fact that there neither a cutting nor an embankm which is deeper or higher than one yard. The entire absence of wood on the plain across which the western end of the road passes has led to the extensive use of metallic alcepers. Operations have already been begun on the mountain section of the road, which is to cross the Andes and to open up communicaion with the Chilian line.

ly and intelligently with affairs in this country. Thus, the Birmingham Post, in its remarks on General Sheridan's death, says that he learned in the Franco-German war the lesson which he afterward used to such advantage in our civil contest. "He had," says the Post, "the good fortune to witness some of the most remarkable battles of the Franco-German war when representing the American government at the German army during the invasion of France. There can be no doubt that he profited immensely by the lessons of that war and by the counsels and criticisms of the German strategists with whom he was in daily contact, and when the war crisis arose in his own country, therefore, he met it with a much better equipment of knowledge and experience than most of his colleagues and contemporaries.' This is good when it is remembered that our civil war ended five years before the war in France began.

The contemplated Channel bridge, as outlined by French and English engineers, is expected to cost some two hundred million dollars, the shortest distance being some twenty-two miles, that is, on the score of shallowness. The depth of the Channel is declared to be much less than is commonly supposed and there are two shallows-those between Cran-aux-Aufs and Folkestone, where the cran-aux-Aufs and Folkestone, where the depth is only twenty feet, and these, it is expected, will insure a material difference in laying the foundations and huge piles which will be required for such a gigantic structure. From the French coast to these shallows the depth is about one hundred feet and from the other shallow to Folkestone about one hundred feet. The plan is to have a bridge with two slight bends, the first deviating a little to reach one shallow and the other falling back to reach Folkestone. The piles required would be blocks of concrete and masonry 160 feet long by 100 broad, these to be placed at intervals of about 550 yards, these measurements to be present the first properties of the verse of the ninety-first psalm being translated, "so that thou shalt not nede to be afraid for any Bugges by nighte." I object to having folks bore me with their silly stories which I have heard so many times that they are veritable chestnuts.

We advise you to look at our line, which is complete in style and quality and low in price.

We show the largest line of Towels and Crashes, and the best line of Linen Napkins in all sizes—8-4, 10-4, 12-4, 14-4 and 16-4 Pattern Cloths, with Napkins to match. It takes an English paper to deal accuratesilly stories which I have heard so many times that they are veritable chestnuts.

I object to having people humbug me all the time. They tell me what I should do and what I should not do. I notice they are not given to taking their own medicine. What dunces they are not to know that I learn more from what I see than from what they tell me.

There's lots of other things to which I object but this will do for a starter.—

Strange Titles of the Bible. Among the delusions of centuries few ar more deep seated than that which would have us ascribe the publication of the Bible 767 AND 771 to the Reformation, the fact being that a many as a dozen editions were issued in Germany some half century earlier than that mighty upheaval of religious thought. Now probably there are ten thousand or more ediions in existence, and a late Duke succeeded n collecting about two thousand copies in almost every language under heaven. Many versions have become known by the quaint. est of titles. Thus we have the Breeches Bible, which is indebted for its strange so briquet to the translation "Adam and Eve made themselves breeches," etc. For this Bible, its popularity being mainly due to the Calvinistic comments which appeared freely

The Wicked Bible was printed in London in 1631, and order to insure to the bridge a strength capable of bearing some twenty thousand tons weight. The causeway of the bridge will be about 160 feet above the sea level, or of sufficient height to enable vessels of any class to pass freely beneath it.

BEAUTIFUE.

Bible was printed in London in 1631, and was so called from the fact that the negation was omitted in certain of the commandments; the result being that the edition was suppressed and the printer fined three hundred pounds by Archbishop Laud, the mondred pounds by Archbishop Laud, the mondred pounds by Greek type for the use of a supply of Greek type for the use of the University of Oxford.

The Whig or Placemaker's Bible obtained its name from an error occurring in St. Mat-its name from an error occurring in St. Mathew v. 9, where "Ble ssed are the p ker" is substituted for "peacemakers." The Treacle Bible has the passage in Jeremiah, "Is there no balm in Gilead?" rendered, "Is there no treacle in Gilead?" and the Dona (Roman Catholic) version has been described as the Rosin Bible, because the same passage has the word rosin instead of treacle. Many years ago there existed in the Stowe library the book of gospels, on which the English kings, down to Edward the Sixth, took the coronation oath, with a huge brazen crucifix which the monarchs kissed, on its cover. The binding was of ponderous oak boards an inch or so in thickness, fastened by huge leathern throngs. The Printers' Bible makes David pathetically complain that printers in place of princes have "prosecuted him with-

KITTEN AND PUPPY.

AlPretty Game that Is Oftener Seen than (From the Boston Transcript.) Then the mastery of herself which a ca shows when, having been caught in a position from which there is no escape, she calm ly sits down to face out the threats of a dog, is a marvelous thing. Her legs, are con-cealed under her fur, are ready for a spring, her claws are unsheathed; her eyes never move her claws are unsheathed; her eyes never move for a instant from the dog; as he bounds wildly from side to side, barking with comi-cal fury, these glittering eyes of hers follow him with the keenest scrutiny. If he plucks up his consage to grab her, she is ready; she will sell her life dearly? She is watching her chance, and she does not miss it. The dog tries Fabian tactics, and withdraws few feet, settling down upon his forepass, crowling settling down upon his forepaws, growling feroclously as he does so. Just then the sound of a dogs bark in the next street attracts his eyes and ears for a moment, and when he looks back the kitten moment, and when he looks back the kitten was gone! He looks down the street and start wildly in that direction, and reaches a high board fence just as a cats_tail—a monstrous tail for such a little cat— is vanishing over the top of it. He is beaten; the cat showed not only more courage than he had but a great deal more generalship. Dyspepsia
