Stock Company-Gennett.

A lady orchestra is one of the many expensive features indulged in by the North Bros. comedians, who open a week's engagement at the Gennett theatre next Monday, January 7. This is without doubt the largest and best repertoire organization that ever visited Richmond. Ahe company is headed by Harry Chapin North the man with the wonderful voice and Miss Virginia Goodwin, and supported by Mr. Geo. Hanna and a host of other talented artists. The opening bill is "A Prince of Gamblers," a high class comedy drama. Specialties between the acts by such noted artists as the Two Deagons direct from Proctor's and Keittis circuit New York and little Patti Selron and Bobbie St. Clair the most wonderful child singer on the American stage today. One lady will be admitted free on the opening night if accompanied by a which must be secured before 6 P. M. Monday, January 7. Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Daily matinees 10c.

Gans-Nelson Fight Pictures-Gennett.

In the thriving mining town of Goldfield, Nev., on September 3, 1906 there was fought a battle between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson for the light weight championship of the world, which attracted wide spread attention. It was a notable ring contest which was witnessed by thous ands. The moving pictures of this contest, taken by a company of which Tex Rickard is president, will be exhibited here at the Gennett, next Saturday matinee and night. There should be no difficulty in filling the house, for these pictures are the original ones and they put to shame the numerous fake pictures shown throughout the country by unauthorized persons. Get your seats early.

Hicks had been coached thoroughly and committed to memory the story of his amazing escape from death. His backers supposed his tale of the rescue, which, of course, had been written for him, would make a hit. At the last minute Hicks balked. He refused to go on the stage at all, and declared he did not care what his manager lost. He finally consented to take a seat in the front row and answer such questions as were put to him. When the first question was asked he demanded a chew of tobacco before answering. Then he sat sullenly and answered questions in monosyllables and grunts until the crowd that had paid to see him became weary and left the hall.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 2.—The Aikin saloon tax law was sustained by the superior court in this city. The law raised the Dow tax from $350 to $1,000 per annum. This was the most important case pending in the state of Ohio, for on the fate of this bill depended the contingency of the legislature being called in extra session to enact scores of bills which were in the same situation as the Aikin law. The main point depended on by the interests which desired to have the bill declared invalid was a claim that the late Governor Pattison was not in a condition of health to know the contents of the bill when it was taken to the gubernatorial residence by his private secretary, and that, consequently, it did not come within that provision of the law which says the state's chief executive shall have full knowledge of every bill which is presented to him for executive action. Members of Governor Pattison's famcondition during the time the Aikin bill was in possession of his secretary.
