POLITICS PLAYING PROMINENT PART

friend of Hanly, is taking some hand in the development of opposition forces to the governor's pet measures. It was also said that some of Hemenway's special legislative friends who have been believed to be riding on the Hanly band wagon, have tumbled off and are whetting their knives for the bills that bear the Hanly brand. Then there are stories to the effect that these charges are altogether untrue. At all events things are badly "shot to pieces" in the legislative halls at the close of the second week and it is all due to the mixing of politics.

It must not be understood that all or anywhere near all of the legislators are viewing legislative measures through political glasses for they probably are not, but there are some of them, republicans and democrats, who appear to believe that the best work they can do for their constituents is to vote for a bill if it suits them politically or vote against it if it will add to their political prestige. No consideration is given for the folks at home.

Just who these legislators are cannot be told to an absolute certainty until the votes on certain measures are taken. There will be some "ducking." The more timid will be afraid to face the issue. The bold will try to bluff their way through, but the publicity that will come will have some effect toward hastening the end of the bluffers.

It does not look today as if the Richmond police department members need be fearful that the metropolitan system is to be abolished. True the men who have this repeal business in hand will line up many supporters but there is evidence that the senate will kill the bill even if the house should pass it.

Just now the leaders in the repeal movement are democrats. They are Representative McCullough of Anderson, and Senator Kistler, of Loganport. But there are some pretty prominent republicans, who are declared to be leaning in that direction. In the house where the democrats have within a few votes of an even game with the republicans, the repeal bill may receive favorable consideration, but even this is doubtful. In the senate, with the democrats in a hopeless minority, there is no chance just why the democrats are for a repeal is not plain.

Senator Wood's bill to increase the salaries of the officers and patrolmen of metropolitan forces has some chance of getting through. But there will be hammers out for it all along the line and it may be so amended before the finish comes as to actually ruin its features.

This week will be the first since the opening of the general assembly for the consideration of measures that are ready for passage. The appropriation bill, providing for the expenses of the legislature is the only measure that has passed both houses and which has received the signature of the governor. That is a law. If it had not been, there would have been no salaries paid the legislators and the small army of clerks and doorkeepers in both branches.

More than 340 bills have been introduced, the senate thus far having a slight lead. Sixty-eight of them are ready for passage in their respective branches. Twenty-five or more will reach the opposite branch from that in which they were introduced, during this week and some of them may become laws before next Friday night.

A MYSTERIOUS STRANGER IS CAUSING ANNOYANCE

Residents of South Fifth Street Complain to the Police of the Actions at Night Are Very Distasteful to Women.

The residents of South 5th street, between B and C streets have complained to the police of the actions of a mysterious stranger whose actions in that locality for the past few nights have been very annoying and wholly improper. His movements have always been made while the women of the house were seemingly alone. He has tried to gain access to the houses which he has visited by knocking and some time falling against the door. When questioned to his identity he would never tell in fact no words could be gained from him. But a meager description of the man has as yet been obtained but this was given to the police and they are working on the case.

Veteran Passed Away.

College Corner, O., Jan. 19, (Spl.)—Thos. Pentecost, proprietor of the Park hotel, died at this place Friday evening at 4 o'clock of erysipelas and heart failure aged 66 years. He leaves a widow, two sons and five daughters. He was a veteran of the Civil war; he served 3 years in the 36th Reg. of I. V. L. under Col. Groce. Mr. Pentecost was one of our best citizens, he was a loyal democrat, no populist or socialism was ever indulged in by him; he was a true Jacksonian democrat. Mr. Pentecost was a bible reader and a man of prayer; yet he was not satisfied with his life and he sent for Rev. J. T. Jones, Mr. Pentecost said he would like to go in the M. E. church and make a public acknowledgement of Christ. Friday morning at ten o'clock he was taken into the church and at four o'clock that evening he joined the church triumphant. Thus one by one the soldiers are passing away.

Sour Bread Isn't Healthful.

Of course you know that. But perhaps you go on eating bread that is sour just the same.

It's yeast—too much of it—that makes bread sour. The yeast, when used in large quantities, forces the rising process—the dough is puffed up before the flour has time to rise.

The result is a big loaf, all right, but not a very good one. And the puffed loaf doesn't really contain as much bread as its size indicates.

Zwissler's Bread Is Never Sour

Because the proportions of yeast and flour are right.

The Zwissler loaf is raised slowly, in a natural way, the yeast and flour combining—rising together.

Zwissler's bread is light, but of fine, delicate texture, with a pleasing, appetizing flavor and without a trace of sourness.

And, without any artificial yeast puffing, Zwissler's bread is the biggest. It's the weight that counts.

Always ask for Zwissler's Bread, and insist in getting it. All Grocers Can Furnish It.

COAL AND WOOD.

If you want any coal get the best. I can supply you with it. I invite comparisons of my coal with that of others, for it's the best. Why should I hesitate to tell you about it? Trust me with your order, for I have just received several cars of good Jackson and Pohahontas Coal.
