TO CATCH

THE EYE

Addison said that "the great art in writing advertisements was to catch the eye." We do that, not merely with our advertisements, but with our goods. The great art of Interior Decorating might be said to catch the eye. It is also, of course, to educate the eye; catch and hold it for the best things, not necessarily the costliest, but things combined with taste resulting in harmony, and so enhancing the value of your house. It is a beautiful and interesting study. You are welcome at all times to consider it.

CHARTER STOLEN

ANOTHER EXCITING CHAPTER TO

THE A. D. STREIGHT CIRCLE MESS.

Without the Charter No Meeting Can Be Held-National President

"The charter has been stolen!" This is the word that passed from one member to another of the Colonel A. D. Streight Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., yesterday evening when those who belong to the Knights and Ladies of Columbia met in Shover's Hall for an entertainment given by that order. Neigher, No. it cannot legally meet unless the official s in the room at the time of the Under these circumstances the meetings will have to be discontinued until the charter is found or a new one is secured from the national headquarters. The discovery was first made by Mrs. Robinson, one of the women court-martialed, and Mrs. Banks yesterday morning when they visited the hall. They asked the janitor what had become of the charter, but he could throw no light on the subject. Last night, at the meeting of the other order, Mrs. Samuel E. Collins and Mrs. Elsie Fletcher found the frame of the charter, which sits on the plane with face to the wall. They looked at it and saw that the document was gone. Then the matter was reported to other members and to their attorney, L. E. Reinhold, who reported to the police.

The last time anybody seems to have seen the charter was in the hall Friday night. when a meeting was adjourned by President Fletcher to avert trouble. The hall was left in charge of the "spiritual annex," who appointed a chairman pro tem, and continued the meeting. The trouble grew out of a motion to expel Samuel E. Mrs. Kramer, the department commander, of Lafayette, is also expected in a few days, and there are some lively times in store for somebody. With these heads of the organization here it is thought the trouble in the order will be settled, but it will be taken into court on side issues. His Employment Denied. A man named Fred Hulskamp, who mays he was employed by the Central Steel Company and discharged the same day, because he refused to sign an agreement to accept his wages every two weeks, called upon the labor commissioners, yesterday, and asked them to interfere in his behalf. After a conference between Labor Commisoner McCormack and Factory Inspector McAbee it was decided to call the attention of the attorney general to the matter. It was asserted at the plant of the Central Steel Company that Hulskamp had never been employed there.

All of Them Will Be Quartered at the Denison Ready for the Republican Convention.

From present indications the Denison

At the present time no less than nineteen candidates for State office have secured headquarters at that hotel. This list of candidates comprises six candidates for Governor, six candidates for lieutenant governor, two candidates for judge of Supreme Court, three candidates for reporter of the Supreme Court and one candidate for State statistician. Parlor B has been engaged by the present State officers who are seeking renomination. AN OPERA RECITAL.

Interesting Programme Is Given by the Matinee Musicale.

The singing contingent of the Ladies' Matinee Musicale, with the assistance of the Philharmonic Club and several nonmember soloists gave an opera recital at the Propylaeum last evening to little more than half a house. The programme was an excellent one, including selections from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" and "Tannhauser," "Aida," by Verdi, and "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Mascagni. The scene and prayer from the latter, sung with mixed chorus under the direction of Mr. Edward Nell, had a true May festival ring, and with all the disregard for the "piano" and 'pianissimo," also a festival feature. The "Spinning" chorus and the "Pilgrims' chorus gave less opportunity for criticism, although Mrs. Ida Gray Scott, who directed the former, toyed the baton with a woman's characteristic fear of a loaded weapon and gave a sigh of relief when the trying ordeal was over. The soloists who particularly distinguished themselves were Miss Elma Iglemann, in Elizabeth's "Prayer;" Miss Georgia Galvin, in "Lola's Love Song;" Mrs. Ida Gray Scott, in the 'Romanza." and Mr. B. Frank Croxton. with "O Thou Sublime. Sweet Evening Star." The solos and remaining parts of the four operas given, while satisfactory for the most part, were marred by too close and solicitous application to the printed score, giving one the impression that a fiasco would surely follow an accidental ill-timed turning of a page. The various characters were taken by Mrs. Carroll Carr. Mrs. Fremont Swain, Mrs. E. M. Ogle and Mr. Homer Van Wie. Mr. Charles . Hansen played the accompaniments to the "Tannhauser" numbers in his wellknown able manner, but should have omitted his little improvisation in the "Evening Star," which detracted from Wagner's perfect scoring. The remaining accompaniments were acceptably played by Mrs. F. T. Edenharter and Mrs. William Ayde-

He refused to be removed to the contagious disease pavilion at the City Hospital. Neigher is a well driller and was exposed to the disease several days ago when boring a well in the lot adjacent to a case of smallpox on Bates street. His case s well marked. Later in the day Dr. Buehler reported a suspected case, the victim being Fred Roth, No. 1220 South Senate avenue. Dr. C. E. Ferguson made a diagnosis of the case and found it to be smallpox. Several people living in the same house have been exposed to the disease and they have been quarantined. Roth s unable to tell where he contracted the contagion. Dr. Deitch also reported a suspected case on West Ohio street, the patient being a man named Hawkins. The case will be diagnosed to-day. Dr. Clark, secretary of the city Board of Health, said last night that there was no occasion for alarm, as there are but few cases in the city. The Board of Health will meet this morning and Mayor Taggart will be present to hear the discussion for the improvement of the City Hospital. The nected with the Banking Institutions of the City.

Edwin E. Rexford, for many years paying teller in the Merchants' National Bank and one of the city's most respected citizens, died at his home at 1628 North Illinois street last night at 8 o'clock after an illness of little more than a week's duration. Mr. Rexford went to bed a week ago last Monday. When his physician was called he at once pronounced Mr. Rexford to be dangerously ill with typhoid fever. Everything possible was done, but he had fought the disease too long before going to bed, and it had gained too great a hold upon him. He had been gradually growing worse, so that his death, coming as it did, was not altogether unexpected.

Mr. Rexford's life was an example of push. Born at Piqua, O., Dec. 9, 1856, he came to this city when but two years of age. When but a boy of fifteen he entered the Indianapolis National Bank as messenger. By dint of an honest purpose to succeed he worked himself up to the position of cashier.

THE COMPANY WILL EXPEND $1,000,-000 IN IMPROVEMENTS.

Hugh J. McGowan Is Elected President to Succeed H. P. Wasson-The Other Officers.

Hugh J. McGowan was unanimously elected president of the Indianapolis Streetrailway Company yesterday, to succeed H. P. Wasson. The latter tendered his resignation at the annual meeting of the stockholders, which was held in the Claypool building in the morning. Mr. McGowan, who has acted as general manager of the company, will continue to hold that office in addition to the presidency of the company. The other officers elected were: J. A Lemcke, first vice president; Admiral George Brown, second vice president; Dr. Joseph Neff, of Philadelphia, third vice president; Dr. Henry Jameson, secretary; W. F. Milholland, treasurer and assistant secretary; board of directors, Hugh J. Mc-Gowan, Randall Morgan, H. B. Hibben, J. A. Lemcke, Admiral George Brown, Dr. Henry Jameson and James Murdock. Nearly all of the old officers were reelected, with the exception of the selection of Admiral George Brown as second vice president and James Murdock, of Lafayette, as a member of the board of di-proposed improvements of the company, and it was decided that $1,000,000 should be expended on improvements. New machinry will be placed in the West Washingtonstreet power house and the plant will be used to furnish power for the entire system unless in case of a breakdown, when the Louisiana-street power house can be used. New overhead wires will be stretched and the center poles in down-town districts will probably be abolished. The stockholders declared no dividend, owing to the appropriation of $1,000,000 for improvements.

Petition for a Franchise.

The Shelbyville company that is asking for a franchise in this county for an elecrie railway, from Shelbyville to Indianapolis, appeared before the County Commissioners yesterday with its petition. The company has a franchise over the streets of Shelbyville and an exclusive right of way on all the highways in Shelby county. The commissioners have the matter under advisement and will not let any franchise until it is convinced and has absolute assurance that the company means to build a road. A franchise was let to another company, which failed to do anything, and the commissioners will not again be embarrassed in the same manner, they say,

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

While the Funeral Services of His Victim Were Being Held.

The funeral of Frederick W. Simon, who was shot Wednesday last by Fred Kettlehake, was held yesterday from his home, at No. 330 North Noble street. The services were conducted by Germania Lodge, No. 129, I. O. O. F., of which Simon was a member. The burial was private.

While the services were being conducted at Simon's late home his slayer, Kettlehake, was on trial in Police Court. There stand. The defense introduced no testimony, and after the state had proved the death of Simon and circumstances tending to connect it with Kettlehake he was bound over to the grand jury without bail. Though Kettlehake seems indifferent at most times, yesterday he paid careful attention to the statements of witnesses. The defense, in case the accused is held by the grand jury for trial, will be insanity.

The gun used by the prisoner has not yet been found by the detectives, who are looking for the two men, supposed to be friends of Kettlehake's, who fished the weapon out of Fall creek near Thirtieth street.

BLACKMAIL IS ALLEGED

LEONARD L. BOYER IS UNDER AR-REST ON THAT CHARGE.

A Letter Written to Mrs. A. C. Brown, Demanding Money, the Cause of His Incarceration.

A little box wrapped in white paper and placed beside a water plug at the southwest corner of Broadway and Sutherland avenue, and a letter written to "Mrs. A. C. Brown, corner Broadway and Sutherland avenue," were responsible for the arrest last night of Leonard L. Boyer, son of Isaac S. Boyer, 2512 Broadway, on a charge of blackmail.

Boyer was slated under the name of "James White, city." He was released at once on bond of $2,000, signed by his father. The letter was as follows: "Indianapolis, Ind., April 10, 1900.-Mrs. Brown: Being greatly in need of money. I write you herewith. Kindly place on the night of April 11 $200 in a small box and put it up against the water plug on the corner of Broadway and Sutherland avenue, not later than ! o'clock. In six months' time I will return the sum with interest to date. From the time you receive this your every movement will be watched, and I would advise you not to say anything to any one whatsoever. If you do not comply with this request your house will be set on fire at the first opportunity. 'A word to the wise.'-L. Yours in

The letter was written in a legible, businesslike hand on narrow bond paper. It was received by Mrs. Brown yesterday morning. Before complying with the "request," Mrs. Brown consulted the city detectives, and Morgan and Holtz went to her house to investigate the case. Upon their advice she did "comply," with the exception that the little box did not contain the $200 asked.

HIDDEN DETECTIVES. Last night about 7:30 Detectives Holtz, Morgan, Berber and Fort went to the vicinity of Mrs. Brown's residence. Morgan concealed himself in the bushes on the north side of Sutherland avenue. Fort took up a post near the loop of the Collegeavenue car line. Holtz and Gerber occupied the doorway of a house on the west side of Broadway, about seventy feet south of the water plug. Then they waited for the appearance of "L." About 7:35 a young man was seen coming north on the west side of Broadway. He walked fast and directly to the water plug. When he reached it he looked down, and then, a moment later, crossed the street and went south on the east side of the street. A few minutes later Mrs. Brown came from her house, which is on the north side of Sutherland avenue and fronting Broadway. She waded through the mud in the street with the little box in her hand and deposited it at the foot of the water plug designated by "L." A few mo ments later a young man was seen walking hurriedly north on the east side of Broadway. He crossed the street and went directly to the water plug, stooped over and picked up the little box. He tucked his "find" under his coat and started away, but did not get far before Holtz and Gerber stopped him.

Boyer formerly lived at 2512 Broadway. only a short distance away, and when questioned claimed he was there to call upon a young woman who lived near the end of the street. He was taken to police headquarters, and two of the detectives went to investigate his story. The mother of the young woman upon whom he claimed he was to call said she knew of him, but that Boyer never made any calls and had only been at her house once, and that was before Christmas. He had made no appointment for last evening, and the young woman named was preparing to retire. When asked about going to the water plug and picking up the box he said he had been on the opposite side of the street and saw Mrs. Brown, whom he recognized, drop something beside the plug. Being a little curious to know what it was, he went over and picked it up. Before he had time to examine it he was accosted by the detectives. He claimed that he was directly opposite the water plug when Mrs. Brown dropped the package. HARD TO RECOGNIZE. The streets at the intersection are poorly lighted and it was quite dark, so that it would be almost an impossibility for any one person to recognize another across the street unless there was some previous knowledge of the costume worn. Mrs. Brown wore a shawl over her head and her face could not have been distinguished even at that distance. Holtz and Gerber said that Boyer was not opposite the water plug when Mrs. Brown deposited the box there, but that he was fifty or seventy-five The officers discussed at some length feet south, on the opposite side, and with his face turned from her. Even had he turned around and seen her he would have been unable to recognize her. Mrs. Brown is the widow of James W. Brown and is possessed of considerable erty are of considerable value. The land extends into Fall creek and there she has a large bed of the finest lilles of the valley grown and sells them to many of the leading florists. The detectives said they were told by her that she had on several occasions received letters of a similar character and had before received letters signed "L' and with the admonition. "A word to the Mrs. Brown could not be seen last night, having either spent the night elsewhere or not being inclined to respond to the ringing of the door bell. Boyer is given in the directory as a colector and it is said was for a short time employed by Mrs. Brown while he lived on

CHAPLAIN ARNETT'S LECTURE

He Discusses the Condition of the Colored Race.

Chaplain Benjamin W. Arnett, of the Eighth United States Volunteers, colored, and one of the leading negro educators of the country, lectured in Allen Chapel last night on "The Negro as a Soldier and a Citizen." The audience was small and so slow in gathering that the lecture did not begin until 9:20. It was preceded by a musical programme furnished by the church choir. The chaplain's wife, Mrs. Agnes Arnett, who is a soloist of considerable ability, having been educated in music at Harrisburg, Pa., and New York city, and who is now taking a course in Chicago, sang for Chaplain Arnett said it was rather late to begin his lecture, and that there was a time when people thought a negro could tell all he wanted to in a very short time. but it is now different. His discourse was along the line of development of the race and its present standing. He said: "In the movement and progress of races there is a power at work which cannot be explained or estimated by man. Heroes are of slow growth in all races, and it takes a certain amount of time to develop them. With the general movement of man in the progress of freedom his destiny cannot be determined. We speak of the spirit of freeiom. It is a problem to be solved by races of less distinction than our own. No man can be free without its having an influence upon other men. Whatever affects one race affects another. Slavery in South Africa and the oppression in any nation is felt by every man that walks upon the face of the

"It is the development of thought that will solve these problems. There was a time when the negro was considered a nondescript; now he is a puzzle to the best thinkers and the scientist. He is indescribable, and no one is able to define him. Thought is the solution. Men who have spread thought demand men who can think, and the negro is responding to the
