The total eclipse of the sun on May 28 next will be visible in our Southern States, and, as Professor Bigelow, of the United States Weather Bureau, says in an article in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly for May, "we are fortunate to have the show at home in our own country this time.' Many foreigners will come to the United States to make observations. The track of the eclipse on May 28, Professor Bigelow states, enters the United States in southeastern Louisana, passes over New Orleans centrally, over Mobile, Ala., which is on its southern edge, over Montgomery, Ala., on the northern edge, over Columbus Ga., passes twenty-five miles south of Atlanta, Ga., passes near Macon, Miledgeville, Augusta, Columbia, S. C., and Charlotte, N. C., over Raleigh, N. C., which is ten miles north of the central line, and over ter. The track is about fifty miles wide in all parts, and the duration of the eclipse varies from one minute and twelve seconds near New Orleans to one minute and fortyfour seconds near Norfolk on the central

Out of about seventy eclipses of the sur which have occurred somewhere in the world within the nineteenth century, says Professor Bigelow, there have been only eight total eclipses of more or less duration visible on the North American continent. The others happened in places often remote from civilization and sometimes in totally inaccessible localities, as over the ocean areas. The difficulty of transporting neavy baggage to the remote parts of Asia, Africa or South America is such as to preclude all but a few scientists from any effort to observe eclipses. In 1889 the United States government sent an expedition to Cape Ledo, West Africa. This expedition carried a complete equipment of scientific material to be used for observations- such as telescopes, spectroscopes, polariscopes and photographic cameras. The party was prepared to observe the eclipse in its totality after the most approved methods, but unfortunately lost the sun entirely during the critical moments by the temporary obscuring of the sky through local

While the cloud observations suggest that Georgia and Alabama have the best sites for the eclipse the duration is but one minute and twenty seconds in Alabama, while it is one minute and forty seconds in North Carolina Stations for observing the eclipse will be therefore, selected in the latter State, although the probability for minimum cloudiness is twice as good in Georgia and Ala-path of the total eclipse of May 28 900, after leaving the United Staes, crosses the North Atlantic ocean to Coimbra, Portugal, and continues over North Africa to its end at the Red sea. Stations which are not situated on the path of totality, says Professor Bigelow, will see the sun partially eclipsed in proportion to the distance of the locality from the central line to the northern or southern limits. New England, New York, the Ohio valley and the southern Rocky mountain district will see the sun about nine-tenths covered; the lake region, the lower Missouri valley and southern California will see an eight-tenths eclipse, and the northern Rocky mountain region about six-tenths or seven-tenths. The best way to view the partially eclipsed sun is to secure three strips of thin colored glass, one and a half inches wide by five inches long-red green and blue-bind them over the eye end of a good opera glass and adjust focus on the sun. No other eclipse track will occur in this country until June 3, 1918, when one will pass from Oregon to Florida, two minutes in duration. Another will occur in New England on Jan. 24, 1925, Eclipses seven minutes in duration will be visible in India in 1955 and in Africa in 1973 | The meeting will take on -the longest for a thousand years.

CONUNDRUMS.

The Rev. L. P. Marshall performed the They Relate to Gov. Allen, of Porto Rico, and the Constitution.

> Washington Post. It seems that the Hon. Charles H. Allen, Governor of Porto Rico, saw fit on the occasion of his inauguration at San Juan, two days ago, to address the natives as "fellow-citizens of Porto Rico." He also congratulated them upon the fact that they dwelt "under the same institutions of freedom, equality and education" as their fellow-citizens in this country. Most significant of all, however, he wound up the proceedings by taking an oath "to support and defend the Constitution of the United States."

It is hardly necessary for us to say that we entertain for Mr. Allen the very highest respect. During his term of service here as assistant secretary of the navy he not only reconciled us to the loss of Roosevelt, but established-if such a thing were possible-an even higher claim to our confidence and admiration. As a matter of fact, a great many thoughtful and observant people have regretted that Mr. Allen was sent to Porto Rico. It seemed to the children who are to take part in the them that men of Allen's caliber were needed much more urgently in Washington. In this we quite agreed with them. That he will prove a boon to the island and a tower of strength to our policy of expansion we do not doubt. It seems to us however, that the administration might better have retained a force of such energy where-unless we be egregiously mistakenthat force was in most imminent demand. We are moved to say, nevertheless, that Mr. Allen's oath to support the Constitution of the United States, in his capacity as Governor of Porto Rico, opens up rather wide field of speculation. We have been told, upon the very highest authority, that the Constitution is not in force in the island, and that the Porto Ricans are not in any sense our fellow-citizens. The tariff bill just enacted into law treats Porto Rico as a foreign country. Why, then, should Mr. Allen have imported the United States Constitution into Porto Rico? Why should he have sworn to defend and support an institution which is

Application was then made to SHELBYVILLE, Ind., May 9 .- The City have him admitted to Plainfield Reform Council met this afternoon and completed school, where he will be given an educathe work of removing the Republican appointees. The four Republican councilmen were absent last night and one of the Democrats, Elijah Ballard, was sick. Mayor Roth issued summonses for the Council to meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock and all were present. The Democrats have had several days' squabble over the new appointees, but by resolution they were able to elect the following: Street commissioner, John Dobbins; market master, Joseph Hock; sexton of cemeteries, Henry Courtleyow; chief of fire department, William H. Robinson; electrician, Sherley Caruthurs. The office of city attorney was abolished in order to remove the Republican incumbent, Ara E. Lisher, and James H. Philippi, the Republican civil engineer, was not disturbed. Police committee elected were John Day DePrez, Charles P. Hale and Henry Emerick. Fred Kennedy, a Republican, was elected a member of the board, but he refused to serve in this way, thus making the Democrats entirely responsible for the future conduct of city affairs. Some months ago slot machines and other gambling devices disappeared from the saoons, but since the election of the Democratic Council they have again made their appearance. It is not known positively, Council will be a gerrymander of the city. George M. The selections are a sore disappoint ment to nine-tenths of the Democrats in Shelbyville. However, councilmen, like others, soon forget their friends and are subject to taking on an air of contempt for those who do the work and furnish the money. The appointment of a street commissioner lost the city to the Democrats in 1892 and will lose it to us again in 1902."

Capt. Myers Is Not a Candidate.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., May 9 .- The Democrats of Anderson and Madison county are a divided household on the question of allegiance to Capt. W. R. Myers for Governor or B. H. Campbell for lieutenant governor. The old timers are with Myers, but the young blood is for Campbell and the machine forces here are giving Capt. Myers little genuine support. Captain Myers is kept very busy with his mail, as letters are pouring in on him from all quarters of the State, urging him to announce himself for the place. This morning Mr. Myers said: "There goes about the hundredth letter in which I have said will not be a candidate for the nomination for Governor. I have made a frank statement, simply saying that I am not financially able to go into a campaign such as the race suggested would require. FIFTH DISTRICT CONVENTION.

Plans for the Big Republican Meeting at Greencastle Next Week. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., May 9 .- The coming Fifth district congressional convention, to be held in this city May 15-Tuesday next-is exciting the keenest interest here. The meeting will be held in the opera house and already the demand for room exceeds the supply. Chairman Daniel V. Miller will be here this week and make all the preliminary arrangements. There are six candidates, and a protracted struggle probably will result. Indications point to a large attendance. The Terre Haute delegation is in advance heralded as 500 strong. and Clay county is promising to send over three hundred. These delegations will bring bands and a general whooping up for the several candidates will be the result.

Banker Irvin and the officers of the telephone company had trouble in the summer of 1898. On the plea of nonpayment of dues his residence, No. 29, was cut off. Irvin claimed he owed the company nothing, and made a demand that his telephone be reconnected. Each day, as the telephone company failed to connect his 'phone, he filed a suit for $100 damages under the provisions of a state law governing such matters. Ten of these suits were field in all before Mr. Irvin's 'phone was reconnected. The trial of the suits before Judge L.
