END OF ETHICAL REVIVAL

THREE MINISTERS HEARD AT ME-RIDIAN-STREET CHURCH.

Revs. C. C. Rowlison, H. C. Meserve and Joshua Stansfield Talk Briefly -Dr. Kellogg's Last Lecture.

The closing services of the ethical revival were held last night in Meridian street. Three ministers made addresses-Rev. C. C. Rowlison, of the Third Christian; the Rev. H. C. Meserve, of Plymouth Congregational, and Rev. Joshua Stansfield, of Meridian-street Church. The music was also more elaborate than for the other meetings. Last night the quartet of Meridianstreet Church was augmented by the full the world is not the Garden of Eden, nor the promised land and the holy city, nor is it the cave in Bethlehem, nor even the open tomb-it is the cross of Calvary. Life is not judged by its beginnings, nor its joys, Passion. Special Easter music morning and evening by chorus and quartet. Baptism at each service. The public is cordially invited. Him. There is in all literature nothing finer than this fifty-third chapter of Isaiah. It is not the expression of a single man's interpretation of life and of his prophetic vision. It is the utterance of the soul of Israel after centuries of faith and of unheadstrong resistance to God's will, of lying prostrate at His feet until at last the redeeming power of the fires of purification are recognized and joyfully accepted. This suffering servant is primarily Israel; but we rightly interpret these passages as phophetic of the Coming One, who him-Evensong, 8 p. m. Preacher in the morning, the Rev. Henry Nodder. In the evening, in the place of the sermon, will be sung "The Daughter of Jairus," by Sir John Stainer, Mus. Doc. whom all prophecy was fulfilled, as He was set forth for the world's redemption. By Israel's stripes, no less than by the stripes of Jesus, has the world been healed. those terrible experiences through which Israel passes when her people were divided, when first one and then the other faction of the little nation were carried far away into captivity, when her holy city was laid waste and her temple utterly destroyed; it was through these desolations that Israel learned to know God, and became the revealer of Him to all the world. And so we are told that Jesus was perfected through his sufferings. The world always tries to avoid the cross, and it blindly pursues its pleasures. With it the unselfish life and the life of sorrow are the characteristics of a fanatic. Yet the world's way always ends in disap> gladly submits to be smitten, stricken of God, shall see of the travail of his soul, and be satisfied." REV. H. C. MESERVE'S TALK The Rev. H. C. Meserve followed Dr. Rowlison. His theme was "Jesus-The contered in the crucifixion. The atonement, so called, belonged to this dramatic scene. All the life faded into insignificance before this consummation on Calvary. To-day we are gaining a full perspective. The backnever take our eyes from the consummation, but we shall never appreciate the con> summation till we appreciate all that pre-"The cross was the logical outcome of that life. Without the years of preparation, the years of study and the years of service Jesus could not have come to the cross. But with all these back of Him there was no other issue for his life. His teaching had ever been that he who would save his life must lose it; that is, he who would stand for truth and build on truth and labor for truth would certainly be slain by the sin and selfishness of the world, but in that very failure lay salvation, for he had built an eternal truth for the race, while he who served the present time, shifting his position to every wind that blew, as certainly lost his character and betrayed his allegiance to the eternal truth

"Jesus' relation to God was vindicated by his life and death. His sonship required no dogma of the church, no defense on the part of men. By the eternal standard of righteousness and love he established himself as the Son of God and introduced men into the possibilities of such sonship. "We do not need a doctrine of the atonement when we have the giving fact of the reconciliation. By Jesus' direction we make our appeal to life. No hypocrisy can stand this test; no theory unlived can issue satisfactorily. "It is life and life alone, lived in Jesus" spirit and unselfishly as his was, that can establish the relation most desired-the relation of the father and his child.

"So Jesus, by calling the world to life, to the true principles of life, inducted men into the eternal life here and now; the kingdom that is and shall be.'

DR. STANSFIELD'S REMARKS Dr. Stansfield closed the meeting. He said in part: "If it be true that Jesus came from heaven to earth, and we believe it is, | 'as He was in the world so are we to be in there was nothing He brought with Him ried men, between ages of 21 and 35; citizens of which a cross could be made. If it be habits, who can speak, read and write English, true, as we believe, that He was holy, lives of His own. This is what He meant in harmless, undefiled and separate from sin- | that strange paradox He gave to His dis-WANTED-Men to learn barber trade; thorough- ners, there was nothing in His human life cross as it reached Jesus was made out of the world's wickedness, sin and wrong. It became Christ's cross because of His in- | to the Father.' The 'because' of Jesus in finite love. As has been observed, the these utterances is very significant. Beweight of the cross was inevitable. From financial standing; straight, bona fide weekly cash | the wickedness of human life it became the | spirit 'whom the Father will send in my cross of Christ. Because of His own self- name' shall come upon men and abide with giving the cross of Christ became glorious, them forever. Thus the risen Christ, alive not as a tragedy, but as a triumph-the for evermore, is not limited in His presence triumph of divine human goodness and and activities to Nazareth or Galilee or love. As Jesus affirms, 'Therefore doth Judea, but 'Wherever two or three are improved in health. my Father love me that I may take it; gathered together in my name, there am for no man can take it from me. I have I in the midst of them. All power is Vandalia, who has been in Mexico for sevpower to lay it down and I have power to take it up again.' There is much human suffering that should never be character- that His power He vests in the church ized as 'our cross' in the highest and truest sense of that word. It is true that | filleth all in all, and it is thus that He is such suffering, under the blessing of God. is often used to create that bond of sympathy that belts the world, for without such personal suffering there would be little sympathy for men in the deepest sorrow of life. Yet there is nothing of the essential elements of the Christ or Christians' cross therein. The wickedness of this world ever creates a cross or crosses; and the wreck of time. If the cross were to explain itself it would take us into the proundest secrets of nature's laws and show us how God has been at work by its method from the beginning for the creation of highest products. It would tell us that the universal law of 'the struggle for the life of others' had been contributing to the best results. From the dying of the corn of wheat to the self-sacrifice of motherhood, its noblest expression, it has been a perpetual influence. But this raised to its loftiest action in voluntary offering for a needy and degraded world crowns all with unique and divine significance. The cross is no accident in God's universe. It was provided for in the original plan and while the builders have rejected it, 'it has at last become the head of the corner. It now occupies the most conspicuous place in the eternal superstructure. "What would it teach us? It proclaims a God of Love. The cross is love's best expression. Not because it symbolizes suffering, but accepted voluntary suffering for love's sake. Suffering is not the cross. But suffering which is purpose, full and deliberate and sympathetic. It declares to us God's design for a degraded race. Other voices, and many, may tell us of the power, majesty, and wisdom of the Infinite, but we draw near to the cross when we wish to know His love. 'He so loved the world as to give his only begotten Son.'

"Again it tells us of God in human history and it is the best interpreter of this n ysterious problem. The ascent of man is by its law and power. THE LARGER CHRIST.

Subject of Rev. Joshua Stansfield's

Last Lenten Lecture. The Rev. Dr. Stansfield gave his last lenten lecture yesterday afternoon. His strong desire to speak of the 'Larger Christ' as theologically, socially, humanly, divinely considered, but fascinating as this would be, we must leave it and to-day give ourselves to this one thought or truth, Christ magnified and enlarged in His own.

"The opening words of the Acts of the pointment, and its devotees are overwe to-day consider; they are these: 'A whelmed at last with despair. But He who life was! How incomplete; and He was cut | circles that there is no question of the inoff out of the land of the living, for the transgression of my people was He stricken, and who shall declare His generaestimation of the fathers Jesus' life work | tion? To measure His great life by years you do injustice; you would then need to erect a broken column over His grave, and in the truly Christian conception of life there is no place for such. He was not ended by death; He conquered death and is must not be measured by the few years He ground of the cross is the life. We will lived in Judea, for such is the vitality of His being that 'He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, and the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand.' There are several things quite noticeable in the life and teaching of our Lord as bearingupon this truth.

'There were many things He gave His disciples they could not then understand.

'Ye cannot bear them now,' but they should should bring to them His Holy Spirit, and He should lead them into all truth. He as a possible explanation.' should bring all things to their remembrance whatsoever Christ had said. So that the words of Jesus were germinal, and the years of growing experience should amplify and make clear their meaning. His going from the earth was expedient for them, for His going to the seat of power in heaven meant that the Divine Spirit should come into their own lives and they should be witnesses of Christ. 'Witnesses of me,' He says; that is, witnesses of the great truth of the divine indwelling in human life. It is thus that the church is His body, the fullness of Him that filleth all in all. And the 'Larger Christ' then is this: The Christ spirit and life so formed in the lives of the redeemed ones who are members of His kingdom and His true church, that with Paul, they may say, 'I live, yet not I, Christ liveth in me." thus that Christ 'sees of the travail of His 'prolongs His days' and the 'pleasure of the Lord prospers in His hands.' is His generation and 'of the increase of His kingdom there shall be no end." With this truth in mind I heard a person pray once 'that we might become little Christs.' The brother meant right-and the Lord knows the meaning of every honest prayer-but it was badly worded. There is but one Christ, the 'sent of God' and 'the only begotten of the Father,' but what we need to pray for and seek to realize is not to be 'little Christs' but large Christians, because of His spirit in our life, and then the world.' And this verily is 'the larger Christ,' the Lord who 'is alive forevermore,' rehabilitated or reincarnated in the ciples in the closing hours of His life. 'A a little while ye shall see me,' and 'Because | from a trip to St. Louis and Cairo. I go to the Father,' and 'Because I live ye | With the additional $1,016,000 general mortworks than mine shall ye do because I go the company has a bonded debt of $15,650,000. cause He has gone to the Father, His given to me in heaven and in earth,' there- eral days on a health-seeking trip, is exfore, go ye and teach and disciple all, so which is His body, the fullness of Him that with us, even unto the end of the world."

Good Friday Programme. A very beautiful and impressive song service was given last night in St. Paul's Episcopal Church by the full vested choir in celebration of Good Friday. The services divine human love of those in the kingdom consisted in singing of "The Seven Last of God will take the crosses and make Words of Christ." The seven words of them their own.
