McClintock Song.

BY W. F. R.

When rifles crack and words are flashing,
And bullets through the ranks are crashing,
Where cannon roar and muskets rattle,
Little Mac, from cause and sternly battle,
Cries—Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

Rally to arms at the roll of the drum!
Up with the stars, the women come!
We'll give them round with a whack,
And stand by our gallant Little Mac.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

When Little Mac, in his warlike mood,
Sings a song of the olden good,
Hark! ye rebels, your speed's not slack;
Charge! onward, boys! sing Little Mac.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

Liberty's standard—the Star-Spangled Banner,
Emblem of Union—the Union's banner,
No man ever conquered a snail,
When proudly extended by our Little Mac.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

The Constitution, religion, liberty and laws,
The laborer's rights, and the Union's laws,
Fine speech, free press, and equality of state,
Are democracy's cause and sternly battle.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

Antislavery made Lee such a noodle,
When Little Mac played Yankee Doodle,
And made the rebel's cause and sternly battle,
To meet the foe always ready.

On the firm old Constitution rock,
Safe from traitors' or age's shock,
He'll plant the old flag of the nation,
The Union redeemed—democracy's salvation.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

He'll rid the States of speculators shoddy,
Redden the greenbacks of everybody,
And give us a currency as old,
As the pure metal of the old.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

He'll by the Monroe doctrine firmly stand,
Bring peace and plenty to the land;
While every man under his vine and fig tree,
Enjoy "Equality, Fraternity and Liberty."

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

Our glorious flag, that's never covered,
Our country's life, that's never everted,
Our country's honor, that's never stained,
Our gallant Little Mac, never surrenders.

Little Mac, be brave and steady,
To meet the foe always ready.

RELIGION IN IRELAND.—During the late Fenian Fair at Chicago, quite a number of interesting relics were on exhibition from the "grand old island."

Mr. Thomas Redmond, the energetic and patriotic Head Center of Ireland, purchased a number of these relics, and they have duly arrived in this city.

Among the most interesting and valuable of these relics, are the "Fatherland," our Irish friends will have the pleasure of seeing the following:

Irish Turf, with Moss and Heath growing in the center.

A piece of Irish Moss with a splendid specimen of green Shamrock sprouting therefrom.

Picture of the far famed Blarney Castle.

Picture of the Church of St. Ann Shandon—one of the most romantic spots in Ireland.

"The bells of Shandon"

"The peaceful waters of the river Lee"

Likenesses of Thos. Helen McManus, Daniel O'Connell, and the good and patriotic Priest Father Laville.

Portraits of the massacre at Waterford Cross, 1649. This view is enough to make the Irish blood quiver for vengeance.

Some of the clay from the grave of Wolfe Tone—a martyr to the cause of Irish nationality.

Irish Hay, Wheat, &c.

Irish Lough, not least, is an exquisite gem in the way of an oil painting, entitled the "Tipperary Boy." This painting was executed by an Irish youth, of good age, and is really worthy of an old head and more experienced pencil. Upon the frame we find attached the following: "Presented to J. J. Bingham, Esq., by his friend Thomas Redmond."

These relics will be treasured by the Fenian Brotherhood as above, and the "Tipperary Boy" will be for the friendship that dictated its presentation by the donor.

We have never seen, in any establishment of the kind in our largest city, a richer assortment of goods than are upon the shelves of Morris & Brother, merchant tailors, No. 3 East Washington street. Their stock is general and complete, embracing every variety and style of gentlemen's wear. We direct attention to their large stock of light cloths for spring and summer wear, and especially to their varieties of Scotch cassimeres, which take the lead in the fashionable world. Messrs. Morris & Brother have not only the choicest of goods, both as to quality and style, but the most experienced workmen to manufacture them. If a gentleman cannot be suited at this establishment, it will be useless to make the attempt elsewhere. ap3-d1w

At Jones, Vining & Co.'s—Ladies can fit themselves in any style they may wish—children's shoes, in a dozen new styles.

Gentlemen can have the satisfaction of selecting any kind of a boot or shoe they want, boys' and men's boots and shoes in any and almost almost all styles.

General shoe customers need go no further than this establishment for good work and all the possible styles and kinds, and at prices the lowest in the market. ap4-6t

Capt. Orr of the 70th Indiana, Col. Ben. Harrison, will leave for his command, near Chattanooga, on Monday next. Capt. Orr has been stationed here some time on the recruiting service, and has been most efficient and successful. Before he had departed he had been a brave officer in the field, and he will hereafter do the same thing. He is one of the best known and most popular young men of Indianapolis, and has made the whole city proud of him, and we predict will make us all still prouder.

THE VALUE OF GREENBACKS.—Gold is worth a considerable amount. Paper money not so much. The way to ascertain the value of paper money is to state the gold value of the paper in this form: 1175 cents in paper will buy 100 cents in gold, what will 100 cents in paper buy? Multiply the 21 and 34 cents together and divide by the first and you have the answer. This is a correct and unfailing rule.

SCRUBBING RESIDENCE FOR SALE OR TRADE.—We have for sale or trade for residence property within the city, one of the finest country sites in the vicinity of the city, consisting of 16 acres of good improved land with a two-story brick dwelling of 11 rooms, bath, and all the necessary appurtenances. Price $15,000. WILEY & MARTIN, Real Estate Brokers.

The Grand Jury convenes six times a year. That is during the four terms of the common Pleas Court and during the two terms of the Circuit Court. The Circuit Court is now in session. We mention these facts for the benefit of all parties concerned, and especially for the benefit of those who are anxious to have their cases tried at the earliest possible date. It is a fact that those who have living claims, retail it contrary to law, on Sunday, sometimes called the Sabbath day.
