

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS OPENING MEETING

The Woman's Club of Williams held the opening meeting of the year 1921-22 at the Parish House on Saturday afternoon, October 1. Business was transacted and delegates were chosen to attend the Northern Arizona Federation at Flagstaff on October 14-15. Three new members, Miss Duncan, Miss Jaggard and Miss Hoffner were received into membership.

After the business was transacted, Mrs. Montgomery illustrated the Evolution of Dress with living models. From 1776 down to today, a bewildering array of beauty and charm! Williams can be proud of her many beautiful women who in graceful bearing and personality would enthrall the brush of a painter.

There were several real old lace shoulder draperies, of rare beauty, a Paisley shawl, quaint tight fitting bodices of a day gone by, with still quaint bonnets and modern creations which owed their daring coloring and inherent dignity to old Spain. It was an afternoon of unalloyed enjoyment for the beholder.

The Woman's Club can boast of artists in almost every line of endeavor. The designer of wearing apparel and the cook took honors at this meeting for the afternoon ended with delicious refreshments prepared by a master hand.

THREE BOYS GET BIG MOUNTAIN LION

Raymond Rupe, of Maine, accompanied by two friends, Frank Lasater, of Fowler, Kans and Vern Walters, of Glendale, were hunting on the north slope of the Sitgreaves, Monday. It was near sunset when Frank came upon a large lion asleep on a high ridge. He fired at the animal and badly crippled it but it got away in the gathering dusk.

The following morning Frank and Vern returned to take up the trail. They tracked the beast by the trail of blood which it left until they came to a rocky cliff. The boys were a short distance apart when Vern ran upon the wounded cat hiding under a rock. He was within a few feet of the wounded beast before he saw it. He pulled up and fired just as the cat made for him. The ball struck the animal just below the eye, passed through the head and buried itself in the neck, but did not stop the animal's advance. Another shot from the 30-30 struck him in the back and stopped him in

COUNTRY ITEMS

Work has been started on the building of a fine big monument and sign at the junction of the Canyon road with the Highway, north of Maine. The sign will be a whopper in size, so that it is thought that even the blind cannot get by without seeing it. It will be set upon a pyramidal concrete base, six feet in diameter, and will cost in the neighborhood of One Thousand Dollars. The Board of Supervisors evidently believe in signs, but it may be that they are afraid that some of the tourists might sneak by and get to Williams; hence the sign.

Ernest Scholz of Garland Prairie was arrested last week upon the charge of cruelty to animals. It is said that he shot his milk cow in the udder during a fit of anger. The charge was preferred against him by his sister-in-law, Miss Councilman. In addition, Mrs. Scholz and the children left him, due to alleged hardships, which goes to prove out the old maxim, that troubles never come singly.

S. W. Menarey had to close down his sawmill last week, account of having to serve on the jury, which delayed several people in getting their timber sawed, as well as the threshing. Menarey promised to let his 40 H. P. Case Tractor furnish the power to run the thresher.

Two threshing outfits are working overtime in Garland Prairie to get the oats and wheat threshed before the storms set in.

William Coleman of Garland Prairie hauled his old faithful Lizzie to town last Tuesday to be doctored up. While the Fords do good service, oftentimes like the one-hoss shay, they seem to go all to smash at once, as in this instance, when Mr. Coleman had to use horse power to get her into Williams to be overhauled.

On Friday, September 30th, a cut estimated at 500 to 100 head of sheep arrived at the Lyons Place, on the east side of Garland Prairie, without a herder. Bankhead and Henderson are now dipping their sheep at their ranch at Nevin. It is thought that the sheep in question got wind that they were to be dipped and tried to make their get-away, in the hopes of evading the bath.

On Monday, the 2nd, there were 121 head of sheep short in a band of Yaeger and Bly that were leaving the Forest. Evidently these 121 head liked the Forest and objected to leaving.

The most promising suggestion that has come to light yet for the consolidation of the country schools is to have a large central school, say in the vicinity of the junction of the new Canyon road with the Highway, north of Maine. The children from Spring Valley, Pittman Valley, Government and Garland Prairies and Bellemont could all attend, by being carried back and forth in cars. Due to being on the Highway, travel would be open the entire school season. If the County has the necessary coin to erect the buildings, it may be a very good move.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS MEETING IS POSTPONED

Mrs. F. O. Polson, president of the Woman's Relief Corps of Williams wishes to announce that the meeting which should have been held today, has been postponed to November 4. This postponement was made due to the illness of some members and the absence of others from town.

Very important business is to come before the November meeting and the President urges members to bear this in mind and to make a special effort to be present.

his tracks just before he reached the boy.

The cat was a male and measured seven feet from tip to tip. It is probable that its mate is still in the neighborhood.

SULLIVANT A SINCERE BELIEVER IN EDUCATION

That Mr. C. R. Sullivant, candidate for the office of School Trustee of the Williams schools, is a sincere believer in education is demonstrated in his own life. After finishing his schooling, he took a correspondence course in engineering. After completing that, he bought additional books with which to continue his studies. Not content with this he took up yet another correspondence course which he is now working on. Mr. Sullivant is a very competent engineer. He is employed by the Saginaw and Manistee Lumber Company, at the saw mill. If elected, he will take a deep interest in the work of the Williams school.

County Agent Back

County Farm Agent Chisholm, who recently went by horseback to Fredonia and other points north of the Canyon, returned the first of the week, and spent Thursday in the vicinity of Williams. He is endeavoring to get a line on the number of potatoes that will be marketed from this section this year, and to aid in connecting the farmers with the market. One trip across the Canyon each year, is quite enough, according to Mr. Chisholm. He crossed the Canyon on the suspension bridge recently erected by the Government. This structure offers thrills enough for most anyone, in his opinion. He walked across leading his horse and, as he expressed it, the bridge swayed and rocked perpetually and rose to meet his foot at every step. County Supervisor Campbell accompanied Mr. Chisholm and he declared that once across the bridge would do him for a lifetime.

Two days were required to reach the North Rim. From that point the party was driven by auto to Fredonia. A good road now leads from Utah to the North Rim, and there is a station with accommodations for visitors at the head of the trail on the North side. Mr. Chisholm stated that the view from the north side excels that from the south, if such a thing is possible. There, from an elevation higher by 100 feet, Bill Williams and the San Francisco appear to be connected by a continuous chain of mountains.

The crops across the Canyon are excellent. It is a wonderful country, according to Mr. Chisholm and for the most part still awaits development.

FIRST MONTH OF SCHOOL CLOSED FRIDAY

The first month of school of the term 1921-22 closed last Friday. The school is running smoothly and excellent work is being done in all grades. The enrollment for the first month reached 372, as compared with 345 for the first month last year. Of this number 210 are girls and 162 boys. The white race predominates with 193 as against 179 of Mexican descent.

Prof. Britt, athletic director, is training two basketball teams one a girls' team and one a boys' team. The girls practice two nights, Monday and Wednesday, from seven to eight, and the boys on Tuesdays and Thursdays from seven to eight.

NELLIS-ROBERTS

John Nellis and Mrs. Roberts are reported to have been quietly wed last week. So very quiet were the nuptials that even close friends were all in the dark for several days afterward. Mr. Nellis is an old resident of Williams. He is a carpenter by trade and has built many houses in Ash Fork, Glendale and other towns as well as in Williams.

Mrs. Roberts is a niece of Henry Ritter. She spent the summer in Williams. She was very much taken with the climate here, and now it develops that she was even more taken with one of our citizens. Congratulations and best wishes.

To All Nurses of Arizona:

The Third Annual Convention of the Arizona State Nurses Association will be held in Tucson, October 20th and 21st, 1921.

Do you realize that within eighteen months our association was completely organized? The State organized in December, 1919; then four District Associations organized and came in, followed by the two Alumnae Associations of St. Mary's Hospital, Tucson, and St. Joseph's Hospital, Phoenix. Last but not least we drew up and put through the Nurses State Registration Bill.

If we can do this kind of work, scattered as we are over this big State of Arizona, what couldn't we do at one big joint meeting?

COME and lets get acquainted. Make reservations through Mrs. James Glover, 548 E. 8th St., Tucson.

Respectfully,
Katheryn McKay Sec. A.S.N.A.

WOODS FULL OF HUNTERS SEVERAL BUCKS BAGGED

The woods have been full of hunters since the deer season opened on the first of October, and a number of fine bucks have been killed. It is to be hoped that all of the bucks worn horns. It appears that a much larger number of hunters were out during the first few days of the open season this year, than on any former year. In addition to the local huntsmen, many drove in from Phoenix and other parts of the state.

The first buck reported was killed by Dr. P. A. Melick. This is not much of a surprise for there is a common saying that "Doc always gets his."

One of the parties that got wet and got glimpses and had a very fine time, but did not get anything for the pot, was that composed of C. B. Williams, Albert Lebsch and W. H. Allison. The greatest excitement of their hunt was experienced on the first night, Friday night, when Mr. Allison lost his way and failed to appear at camp. Messrs Williams and Lebsch built a big fire on the highest mountain around, and fired off about fifty shots in an effort to direct him to the camp. At about ten o'clock he dragged in soaked to the skin and hungrier than a bear. This party got several glimpses of turkeys but did not get a shot at them nor did they find any deer.

Another party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Shaul and Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield was more successful. Both of the women bagged a deer and so did Mr. Shaul.

Andy Smith and N. K. Hall both succeeded in bringing down their season's buck.

Mr. G. H. Spellmire, accompanied by his old time friend, Mr. Murphy, from Indianapolis, accompanied another party of huntsmen. Audrey Spellmire was a member of this party also. Up to Thursday night, when copy was closed for the paper, no word had been received from this party. It is anticipated that they will bring in their share of game.

ARE SORE AGAINST THEIR OWN ROAD

Pat Moran, of Babbitt Bros. in Flagstaff, and Charles H. Heisser, postmaster of the same town, attempted a flying trip to Grand Canyon over their pet hobby the Maine Grand Canyon highway. The gentle rain of last Friday and Saturday had done its work on the road and these gentlemen, after countless difficulties, gave up in despair when about fifteen miles out from Grand Canyon. It was enough to make them despair for their machine was resting snugly in a bed of mud—nominally a road bed. Profanity and planks proved equally inefficient and the two gentlemen finally did the best they could to make themselves comfortable for the night. They had neither blankets nor food and the night was cold. They spent a miserable night to put it mildly.

Had these gentlemen had the good judgement to take the Williams-Grand Canyon road, they would have reached the Canyon on schedule without hardship or mishap. They did take the Williams road the following day and came through in short time. As they stopped in Williams, they had nothing good to say for the Maine-Grand Canyon highway.

If an auto party should break down on the Williams-Grand Canyon road and find themselves in a plight similar to that of these two Flagstaff gentlemen, they would need but to flag a train on the railway nearby, and ride to town to spend a comfortable night.

Yet the county is putting up an expensive sign at the junction of the Maine Road with the Williams-Flagstaff highway, for fear that some tourist might fail to follow in the path of Messrs Moran and Heisser.
