

PLEASANT DAYS AT DEER PARK

How the Summer Residents Enjoy Themselves at This Favorite Resort.

Correspondence of THE SUNDAY HERALD.

DEER PARK HOTEL, July 9.—The almost unprecedented continuance of moderate weather for the past few weeks has prevented Deer Park and her sister mountain resort, Oakland, from filling up as rapidly as they usually do. At the present writing there are nearly two hundred visitors here and almost as many at the Oakland hotel. Hosts of young people enliven the grounds by day, and add their cheering influence to the ball-room at night. The daily-growing alacrity and appearance of healthfulness of worn-out visitors are patent recommendations of Deer Park as a healthful place to spend the summer.

Every hour of the day bracing mountain breezes pour down from the hills upon the hotel and neighboring cottages, mornings and evenings are cool, and any possible mid-day heat is dissipated in the evening by summer showers of short duration. Deer Park, to the stranger alighting from the train presents a scene of enchantment; high mountains on all sides; a large and handsome hotel surrounded by beautiful grounds and with a background of hills covered by forest trees, in the midst of which nestle beautiful little cottages and over all a pure sky whose blue is seldom clouded except possibly for an hour or so in the afternoon. At night, the scene is equally entrancing, as lights illuminating the trees, and buildings and causing them to shine forth from the darkness of the mountains behind and above most beautifully.

The amusements at Deer Park are various. Those who seek health alone may confine themselves exclusively to the mountain drives, the bowling alleys, and the inevitable plunge or Turkish bath at the conclusion of every form of exercise. For those who do not wish to entirely forget their clubrooms or city environments, billiard-rooms for one twelve hours and cardrooms for the other furnish every opportunity for their respective amusements. A branch of the famous Tally-ho stables of Washington is located on the grounds, and their stylish turnouts are to be seen on the drives around at all hours of the day. Washington influence extends even to the mountains, as evinced by the impetus given to horse-back riding during the season or two in which it has been a fad in the Capital City. Ample opportunities for trout fishing are offered by the streams in the mountains around. For those more turbulent spirits who can be satisfied with nothing but honest, what parties, nor billiards, an excellent baseball diamond and tennis grounds lend chances for more violent exercise. As yet good tennis players are scarce, and we will probably not have that class until they are wearied of the bustle and crowds at the seashore. The summer girl is omnipresent, and there is already enough of her here to add some little spice to the life of the base summer man, who has long since ceased to be in the majority at summer resorts. She adds a quiet pleasure to life in the mountains, which the writers of the comic press never aspire to depict, and her influence is encouraging in the extreme. The swell is not here, male or female; occasionally a straggler pays a fleeting visit, but the environment is not encouraging and he soon leaves for other climes. The temperature is too cool for his or her summer clothes, and since he would never be caught in last spring's outfit and hasn't long-sightedness enough to devise a good fall one, he is between two fires with only one way out. We are sorry to lose the swell, but we haven't time to miss him very much.

An excellent band lends pleasure to the hours whiled away on the hotel corridors or on the porticoes by selections from modern masters, and at night plays dance music for the benefit of the cottagers and hotel guests who gather in the ball-room. The occupants of the cottages, always wealthy and with a large circle of friends, have visitors during the season and their presence adds greatly to the general attractiveness of the place.

Quite a number of Washingtonians find health and pleasure at Deer Park and doubtless more will be here later in the season. The beauty of the scenery from Washington is almost unrivaled and the five hours spent in making the trip is as short as that time could be made in railroad traveling.

Among Washington visitors at the hotel of recent arrival may be mentioned P. E. Chapin and family, Mrs. General Misher, the Countess Esterhazy, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Queen, Colonel W. R. Remey, Mrs. Dr. L. M. Taylor, Lieutenant Brown, of the Navy, Dr. James Taber Johnson, Mrs. Phillips, G. B. Hoge, Mrs. Audenried and family, Colonel Robert I. Fleming and family, Mrs. A. F. Macraider and family, Mrs. W. G. Harris, Mrs. E. L. Cohen and family, Mrs. L. V. Miles, Miss Ida Thompson, C. A. Stone and family, Mrs. Sarah Uterchick, and Mrs. Samuel Norment and family.

The Wall Street of Washington.

Among the various localities in the City of Washington which have sprung into prominence as business arteries and centres none is more noticeable than the square on G street northwest, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. It is a nest of banks, trust companies, newspaper offices, real estate agents, insurance men, and architects. Situated at the terminus of the electric road connecting the Treasury with the Patent Office, Pension Office, Eckington and the Catholic University, and immediately between the Metropolitan road on the east and the Avenue line on the west, it is the absolute heart and centre of the business part of Washington. On the south side stands the Riggs House, soon to be reopened on a splendid scale by Mr. O. G. Staples, of Willard's Hotel. No less than four banking institutions have their homes on the north side. The powerful American Security Company with its millions, the sound and growing West End Bank, in its beautiful new granite building, the elegant real estate offices of John F. Waggaman, the spacious and complete establishment of the veteran insurance firm of Robertson & Blackford, the real estate office of General B. H. Robertson, the architectural suite of Barry, Simpson & Andrews, the splendid banking room of the Industrial Investment Association and the busy newspaper reporting offices above, the favorite art and bric-a-brac auction house of Latimer & Sloan, the well-known real estate offices of C. C. M. Loeffler, George M. Myers, and John B. Wright, and the magnificent granite structure now building for the Trust Company combine to render this short block what the caption of this paragraph calls it—the Wall street of Washington.

EDISON'S LATEST WONDER.

With the Kinetograph a Horse Race or An Operatic Scene Can Be Reproduced. Correspondence of THE SUNDAY HERALD.

New York, July 11.—"The wizard of Menlo Park" is still working wonders. Edison's brain is forever busy with new schemes of invention, and the latest result of his activity is called the kinetograph. It is an instrument that in combination with the phonograph enables the exact reproduction, on a miniature scale at present, of the movements of any speaker, singer, or actor, the actual tone of the voice being heard. By its means the representation of any theatrical performance, meeting, scene, opera, horse race, etc., can be exhibited. It records and reproduces motion as the phonograph records and reproduces sound. It has already been exhibited in the presence of some 200 persons. In Edison's own words, "You can sit in your parlor and look at a big screen and see Chauncey Depew come on the stage and bow and smile and take a drink of water and start off with his oration. Every time your eyes see him open your mouth your ears will hear what he says." The kinetograph is a photographic camera arranged on the principle of the zoetrope. The zoetrope or wheel of life is a card on which are represented the same figure, man or horse as the case may be, in a number of slightly different positions. On the wheel revolving the single figure or figures appear as one, making a perfectly natural movement. The revolution of the wheel is too quick for the eye to see each variation in the figure, and consequently a unit picture is the result. The interior of the camera has gelatine strips unrolled from one spindle and rolled on the other which in passing are carried before the lens of the camera. It is so arranged that forty-six perfect photographs are taken in the lightning time of one second. The result when reproduced is pure motion.

The Coming Performance of "Fanchon."
The last of this summer's theatrical representations, "Fanchon," for the benefit of the General Spinner Memorial Association, promises to be a very interesting event. Besides having Mr. Eberle, Maggie Mitchell's successful stage manager, at the helm, a novel feature will be introduced—the presence of lady ushers. Much interest is manifested in the new departure.

Notes of the Stage.

Ada Dyas thinks of starring next season. Zelle De Lossan is expected to retire from opera during the coming season.

"The Grand Duchess" will be revived at the New York Casino to-morrow night, with Lillian Russell in the title rôle.

Joseph Murphy has decided to go out in "The Kerry Gow" again next season. This does away with the rumors that Mr. Murphy has retired.

Francis Wilson is adapting a comedy for Frank Daniels. The piece is one that Mr. Wilson bought for his own use some time ago. He has made Mr. Daniels a present of it.

The royalties on a comic song that is popular in London music-halls became the subject of a law suit recently, when it was discovered that the owner of the ditty made more money by it than is cleared by the composer of a successful oratorio.

The souvenir issued by Manager Harry Askin to commemorate the fiftieth performance of "The Tar and the Tartar" at Palmer's Theatre, New York, is a very beautiful pamphlet containing the songs of all nations as played in the opera.

Harriet Avery Strakosch, wife of Mr. Edgar Strakosch, manager of the Carleton Opera Company, has made a big hit in Milwaukee, where she has been singing in summer opera. She has decided to abandon grand opera altogether for the light sort.

At Kieff, a Russian town, all the musicians and singers are Jews, consequently when the Czar's recent order of expulsion arrived the theatres and music-halls had to be closed. At the Opera House the only one concerned who was a Christian was the leader of the orchestra. As he was unable to give a performance of "Robert le Diable" all alone that establishment also shut its doors.

The spectacular farce comedy, "A High Roller," which will be seen at the Academy of Music, in this city, September 14, will include no less than sixty-one people in the organization. Alexander Comstock has arranged to show therein some electrical effects in dances, marches, and ballets, all of which are devised by Barney Fagan.

It is in Great Favor.

Physicians employ Speer's port grape wine in their practice and do all in their power to encourage its production. It is in great favor among the most wealthy in New York and Washington cities as a family wine and for evening entertainments. The Claret and Climax Brandy are unexcelled. Sold by druggists.

By direction of the Secretary the regulations of the Army in regard to roll-calls have been amended so as to provide for two roll-calls daily, viz., at reveille and retreat. The order also authorizes commanding officers to order roll-calls in special cases and at such times as they may deem necessary. By the order the "roll call" is ordered to be sounded fifteen minutes before 11 p. m. The change in roll-calls was brought about by the Walla-Walla affair, and it is expected that it will decrease the absenteeism by a large per cent.

The battalion of the Atlanta was presented at Boston on Monday last, with a magnificent stand of colors, the gift of Mrs. Mason, wife of Lieutenant T. B. Mason, the Atlanta's executive officer. The battalion was paraded on the quarter-deck and the presentation was made by Lieutenant Mason in a neat little speech, conveying to the officers and men Mrs. Mason's pleasure in the gift. Both the national and battalion flags are of silk heavily fringed and mounted on eagle tipped stands. On the battalion flag is emblazoned the ship's motto and crest, "Always Ready."

NAVY AND MARINE CORPS.

The Department has authorized the fifteenth payment of $89,500 on armored cruiser No. 2, built by Cramp & Son, of Philadelphia.

The Marlon arrived at Port Townsend, Wash., yesterday. She will take aboard Professors Mendenhall and Merriam, the Government seal agents, and proceed to Bering sea.

The Chicago sailed from Norfolk for New York yesterday, having completed the repairs to her machinery. She will join the Squadron of Evolution, which is under orders to be at New York next Wednesday.

Passed Assistant Engineer W. C. Eaton has been detached from duty at the Madison University, Hamilton, N. Y., and ordered to the Palos, per steamer of the 30th instant from San Francisco, relieving Passed Assistant Engineer Henry T. Cleaver, detached and ordered home.

Acting Secretary Soley has received applications from three States—New York, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island—for allotments on account of naval militia. Massachusetts heads the list with 238 men under organization. California has already passed a naval militia act, but is having some difficulty in effecting their organization. To aid the State officials in the task, the Navy Department has placed at their service the old wooden man-of-war, Independence, now at Mare Island, and has instructed the commandant of the navy-yard to assist the movement in other ways.

The Secretary has ordered Naval Cadets Henry G. Smith and H. G. Gilmer to special duty in the Department of Construction in the New York navy yard, and Naval Cadet R. M. Watt to similar duty in the Norfolk navy yard. Cadet Lawrence Spear will also be ordered to the Norfolk yard as soon as the Pensacola, on which vessel he is now serving, reaches the Mare Island navy yard. This is an entirely new departure, and is preparatory to sending these same young men abroad for a two or three years' course of instruction at one of the great European schools of naval architecture.

Ensign Joseph Oman has been detached from special duty at the New York navy yard July 11 and ordered to the Coast Survey; Ensign Henry B. Wilson, detached from duty on the Coast Survey and ordered to the Fish Commission steamer Albatross; Naval Cadet Henry G. Smith, detached from the Bennington and ordered to special duty in the department of construction New York navy yard; Naval Cadet R. M. Watt, detached from the Bennington and ordered to special duty in the department of construction, Norfolk Navy Yard; Naval Cadet H. G. Gilmer, detached from the Newark and ordered to special duty in the department of construction, New York navy yard.
