

To the Inspectors of Election in the several Districts of the Kingdom:—

Inquiries having been made whether persons who are exempt from the payment of personal taxes by reason of being clergymen, teachers, pupils in High Schools, firemen, &c., or by reason of being over the age of sixty years or whose taxes have been excused by the Assessor on account of infirmity or poverty, are allowed by law to vote at the Election for Representatives.

It is my opinion that all such persons are entitled to vote. The Tax Collector should issue to each such person a tax receipt with the words "Qualified to Vote" upon it, which he must sign and in place of the amount of taxes he must write "exempt" or "excused." On the presentation of this Tax Receipt to the Inspectors of Election at their sessions previous to the election, the name of the voter must be put on the list of voters and the Receipt returned to the voter.

At the general Election to be held on the 3rd February, 1886, the votes of such persons must be received, unless challenged for other reasons.

THE DUTY OF THE DAY.

Touching the coming election we feel that foreigners should have something to say and something to do. This applies particularly to the foreign born who are entitled to vote. First, let every such person have his tax receipt in his pocket when he goes to the polls. Voters should not wait to have some one in the interest of the candidates remind them of their duty. One of the candidates for election in 1884 assures us that it was with the most strenuous efforts only that foreign born voters were persuaded to vote. The issues to be considered by the Assembly this year are too weighty to be trifled with, and it is the duty of every voter to cast his ballot.

The white candidates upon the Independent or Citizens' ticket consented to be put forward and make no small sacrifice in consenting, and they are entitled to the best support that can be given to them. Every person who can vote must vote, and after voting should use his influence to cause others to vote. We feel warranted in saying that if our citizens will make a strong pull and a pull together the Ministerial ticket can be beaten in part if not altogether.

The candidates have made a laborious canvass of this voting district and, although they know that the most unscrupulous means are being used by the Ministers to beat them, they are not without hope of seating two or more candidates.

No citizen needs to be told that such a result is worth everything to the country. Hawaii expects every man to contribute some effort to bring about a better administration of government.

THE DEATH WARRANT.

On Wednesday next the Hawaiians will have an opportunity of either endorsing or cancelling the death warrant of the native race. That this Kingdom is under a prohibition which cuts off indiscriminate access to the "Devil's drug" is due, not to those representatives who, ought to be first in vigilant solicitude for the welfare and preservation of the native, but to the determined front fortunately presented against them at last session of the Legislature. The object of those now howling for repeal is but too well-known. But, apart from motive, it is sufficient that the fact stands patent to the public that the abortive attempt made at last session of the Legislature, to sweep away the prohibitory legislation at present on the statute book, will be renewed at next session, provided the death warrant presented by Lilikalani and strenuously prosecuted by Kaulukou at last session is endorsed by the electors on Wednesday next. "Self-preservation is the first law of nature," and self-preservation ought to be the first law of the nation. That freer access to opium would be fatal to the native population, has been amply proven in former years, previous to the existence of the present law. And the like cause will again produce the like effects. The question before the patriotic native voter is one of life or death to his race. Nor is there any getting away from the fact that to support candidates of the Kaulukou stripe, is one and the same thing as to repeal the opium law. The policy of restriction of the traffic by stringent prohibitory measures has proved itself to be a wise one; and the folly of retrograde measures will soon appear if opium repeal candidates are tolerated on Election Day. Extermination versus preservation is one of the great issues before the electors. The death warrant of the Hawaiian only awaits his own ballot endorsement to become a fixed fact. To cancel the warrant and preserve themselves, they may have to slay several political aspirants. Who those aspirants may be, whether Government supporters, independents or opposition, is not of the slightest consequence. It is the plain duty of the native to vote against any candidate whose platform does not include rigid prohibition of the drug. Every Hawaiian who votes for the opium repeal ring or any member of it, simply attaches his signature and seal to the death warrant of his race.

EXTRADITION TREATIES.

Washington, Jan. 5th.—In the Senate to-day a resolution was offered by Mr. Hoar, as his request referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, requesting the President to take measures for revising and extending our extradition treaties so as to cover cases of embezzlement and other breaches of trust. In offering his resolution Mr. Hoar made special reference to the number of defaulting bank officers who tried to escape punishment by flight to Canada.

As communications have been passing between the United States and Canada on the subject, the above despatch looks as if it had been concluded that an end should be put to the anomaly of friendly neighboring nations giving safe refuge to each other's known rascals. Now is a good opportunity for our Minister of Foreign Affairs to instruct the Hawaiian Minister at Washington that this kingdom desires to be included in the proposed extension of extradition treaties. This country has been gaining a bad reputation on the Coast lately on account of the dishonest refugees from thence who are harbored here.
