LOCAL & GENERAL NEWS.

The usual church services to-night. Mr. J. Lyons' regular cash sale will be at 10 o'clock a.m. to-morrow. PRINCESS Liliuokalani's monthly reception will be held at her Palama residence to-morrow afternoon. At 2:30 this p. m. the barkentine Mary Winkelman was reported 15 miles off to the north-east from San Francisco. EARTH is being excavated for the foundation of a small brick building on the upper side of Hotel street, between Nuananu and Konia streets. At 12:15 this noon the fire at the Louvre of Brussels broke out again among the dry goods. A hose being at hand and firemen close by, the slight flame was put out. THE Honolulu Rifles will meet at the armory this evening at 7:30 o'clock, to hear the final report of the new armory committee, and to be introduced to the new captain. THE Hawaiian Band will play at Kakaako Branch Hospital this afternoon, at H. R. H. Princess Liliuokalani's reception at Palama to-morrow, and at the Queen's Hospital Friday afternoon. THE Board of Commissioners to appraise damages by widening streets in the burnt district—Messrs. Justice Bickerton, S. M. Damon and Mark P. Robinson—is in session this afternoon. RUMOR says that Mr. Bartlett, Manager of the Hawaiian Hotel, and Mr. Jones, bartender, have drawn a $10,000 prize in a late Louisiana lottery, and that Mr. Bartlett has gone to San Francisco to get the prize. THREE sick sailors of the bark Birmah have been in the Hospital for several days. Two of them are yet very ill, while the other has sufficiently recovered to leave with the vessel to-morrow for Portland, Or. MR. Geo. C. Stratemeyer having entered the employ of the Honolulu Planning Mills, those wanting house or sign painting done in workman-like or artistic style, can be satisfied if they leave their orders at Mr. Lucas's office, Fort street.

BRITANNIC CRUISER, AND WAS ANSWERED BY THREE SHOTS FROM THE PELICAN.

A BIRTHDAY party was held on board the German bark Furst Bismarck last evening. There were present about 15 invited guests, who had a glorious time dancing on the smooth deck of the vessel, to the music of a well-handled accordion and tambourine. Refreshments were served during the evening in true German style. The party broke up at about 11 o'clock.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

Yesterday at noon a man named Ed. Dunn was severely kicked by a horse at the training stable of Mr. Alex. Arthur, Punchbowl street. Dunn was helping the proprietor to harness the animal, which was being broken, when it kicked at him three times in succession, striking him in the abdomen the first time. He crawled out of the way, and Mr. Angus, of the Hawaiian Carriage Manufacturing Company, ran out of his house to the injured man's assistance. Finding him badly hurt, he called Dr. J. S. McGrew by telephone. Appropriate remedies were administered by the doctor, who knew the patient as a former servant of his own. This morning he found him worse, and, there not being proper accommodation for him on the premises, he had him sent to the Queen's Hospital. Dunn is past middle age and said to be a native of New York. He is very low this afternoon.

LILIUOKALANI EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY.

"Liliuokalani Educational Society" is the name of an association of Hawaiian ladies. Its founder and president is Princess Liliuokalani, the Crown Princess of Hawaii. Its other officers are a secretary, a treasurer, and five directresses. None but native Hawaiians, with aboriginal blood in their veins, are admitted to active membership. Others may become honorary members. An entrance fee of fifty cents and a monthly subscription of twenty-five cents are the conditions of membership. Honorary members are admitted on the same terms. The object of the society is the care and education of needy orphan children. As yet the society is young, having been started only about three months ago, and the principal work done is the collection of funds and the arrangement of preliminaries. It is the intention to gather up destitute orphans, place them in boarding schools, and furnish them with a plain English education. In the case of girls, they are also to be instructed in needle work and household duties. Two young girls are now being cared for, and others will be added as the funds increase. The society numbers in all a little over one hundred members.

MISS PRESCOTT'S READINGS.

The Shakespearean readings, announced for to-morrow night in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, promise to be interesting and pleasing. The lady, whose advertisement will be found elsewhere in our columns, has had a great deal of experience as a teacher of elocution in the United States, and her purpose in giving the readings advertised is to give those residing here who are desirous of cultivating the art of speaking well, some idea of her qualifications as an instructor in elocution. It is to be hoped Miss Prescott will be encouraged by the presence of a large audience who will, there is little doubt, be pleased with the entertainment.

GRANT'S MEMOIRS.

General Grant's Personal Memoirs, of which the local agent, Mr. J. E. Wiseman, has now both volumes on hand, constitute in many respects one of the most remarkable literary works of the age. Written by a soldier who had never made any pretensions to, or harbored any ambition to shine in literature, the work is yet a most agreeable one to read. A record of bloody wars, yet details of the horrors and human suffering belonging to war are not there, further than general references and bald figures of army losses. More than all, the man himself is portrayed by one who seems to have almost superstitiously striven, all his life, to obey the injunction of the ancient philosopher—"Man, know thyself." The Memoirs are, moreover, the last work of America's hero—a labor of love to him, because undertaken and bravely carried out through his dying days, in order to obtain the comforts of life for his wife and family after he should be gone.

A CORRECTION.

Some injustice was unwittingly done to Mr. Julius H. Smith, Superintendent of Public Works, in our description of the new Police Station the other day. Mr. Smith supervised the construction of the building throughout, the persons named in that capacity in the description having only had a minor part in the work. Another inaccuracy, caused by taking the information from the original plans, was in locating the Marshal's office in the building, as that functionary will remain quartered in the Government Building. Exception has been taken to some of the figures in giving the cost, but these were all taken from official sources. It was an omission worthy of supplying, that the Honolulu Planning Mills supplied the blinds and a good deal of the other internal fittings and finishings. Mr. Oremba, carver, made the rope moulding of the main entrance. A mechanic has called the writer's attention to architectural defects in the front of the building—faulty alignment in the entablature (or upper works) with relation to the pilasters.

A HONOLULU MERCHANT TALKS.

The following is taken from an account of the recent change of Ministry here, in the San Francisco Call, after the arrival of the S. S. Australia with the news:— A representative of The Call waited upon a prominent and wealthy resident of Honolulu who has just returned from the Hawaiian Islands. The gentleman informed the reporter that among the business men of Honolulu there was a general expression of regret at the change of Ministry, and especially that two comparative strangers were called from obscurity to be the King's advisers.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE.

ANOTHER 18TH OF APRIL ADVERTED BY THE PROMPTNESS OF FIREMEN. The jangle of the fire bell roused many of the citizens from their slumbers this morning at about 1:45 o'clock. The startling announcement "corner of Fort and Merchant streets" answered back by the Central office to those who enquired through their telephones, suggested the possibility that what was left undone on the 18th of April might be the business on hand by the fire fluid to-day. The fire was discovered to have made considerable headway in the interior of the store on Fort street, near the corner of Merchant, occupied by Mr. Charles Michiels, and known as the Louvre of Brussels. The stock consisted of dry goods. Police officer No. 6 is said to have first noticed it and given the alarm. The Volunteer Boys of Engine Co. No. 2, were first on the spot, and to their prompt service is largely due the success of the fire brigade in preventing a grand conflagration. They connected with the hydrant at the corner of Fort and Merchant streets. The hose was handled by Messrs. Frank Godfrey, J. P. Bowen, Willie Ramsey, and Geo. Bruns, who got water on the fire by breaking panes in the south window. Having a good stream, they soon extinguished the flames on that side. The operation was repeated with the like success at the other window. The front door was broken open by Ramsay, and the hose taken inside. Those who first entered say they could plainly smell kerosene oil and some other substance similar to tallow or axle grease. Company No. 1 placed their engine at Hall & Son's corner. The men mounted the building with their hose and prevented the fire reaching other buildings. Company No. 2 connected at the corner of Fort and Merchant streets. No. 4 took water from the hydrant in front of Hackfeld & Co.'s. The Pacific Hose Co. connected with engine No.
