A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

The Japanese steamship Takasago Maru will leave Honolulu for Japan and China on the 2nd January, 1889, returning to Honolulu in the following March. This will afford an opportunity that rarely occurs to people on these islands for visiting those countries and getting back home again. The steamer will remain in China and Japan ports about four weeks, thus giving time to see something of those countries. The round trip will cost, first cabin $250, second cabin $120. The accommodation on the Takasago Maru is excellent, as anyone can see for himself by a visit to that vessel, which is now at the Pacific Mail Company's wharf, Messrs. Irwin & Co., are agents, and will gladly furnish any additional information that may be sought by intending passengers.

AT LAST. A LONG-SUSPECTED GAMBLING HOUSE RAIDED

George Hons a fashionably dressed young German, was arrested this noon by Capt. Larsen on a warrant charging him with keeping a disorderly house contrary to chapter 42 Section 2 of the Penal Code. Hons was taken to the Station House and after the charge had been entered against him, gave bail in the sum of $100 for his appearance in the Police Court Friday morning. Geo. Houghtaling went his surety. Hons lived upstairs in a house on Union street opposite the Fashion Stables. The police had had for a long time past a strong suspicion that gambling was carried on there. Complaints have been lodged at the Station House about the place. Capt. Larsen has been on the lookout for sometime for a way to get into the house in double quick time. This morning between the hours of one and two o'clock he accomplished his object with very little trouble. Taking along two native police officers as eye witnesses, Larsen approached the house and working his way to the back of the premises in a careful manner found a window open. With club in hand he shot through the open window into a room where was Hons and half a dozen of Honolulu's young bloods shaking dice for half dollar corners. "It was the worst scared crowd I ever saw," said Larsen to a reporter this morning. Larsen put on one of his sweet smiles and told the young men he was very sorry to disturb their game but he thought he would just like to see how they were getting along, and was preparing to leave by the window when Hons politely let him out by the door. If the names of those found in the room were made public there is no doubt it would cause quite a little sensation in town. For the present they are withheld.

ABOUT WASTE PAPER.

EDITOR BULLETIN.—One of our prominent Fort street lawyers is evidently not in the possession of a waste paper basket, for every morning on the corrugated iron awning directly in front of his window may be seen large pieces of waste paper and other things. Sometimes the wind blows the paper on to the street and in its descent frightens horses. Then again it does not look nice from the street to see a heap of rubbish in such a place.
