

THE Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party, But established for the benefit of all.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 9, 1890.

In reference to remarks in a communication in another column, signed "Observer," regarding the importation of school teachers for the public schools, it may be said that the Board of Education makes use of all the local talent available for teaching purposes, and only has recourse to the foreign market when compelled by necessity.

In the matter of the contested election of J. N. Paikuli, for the district of Koolan, before Chief Justice Judd, the Court's decision, rendered yesterday, adjudges the election to be invalid and declares the seat to be vacant.

P. C. ADVERTISER LOGIC.

EDITOR BULLETIN:— In this morning's P. C. A. an editorial branded "communicated" and signed "A. Z." starts out to demolish your arguments of Saturday last against the proposed treaty with the United States.

He intimates, however, that a number of the members of the Sugar Guild, whom he names, "understand their business interests."

That invocation of his reminds me of the way in which a very young miss once settled a dispute, as to facts, with a companion.

That writer makes the further very effective point that the opinion of "one who never raised a pound of sugar or rice, nor owns an inch of Hawaiian soil" is very small beer as compared with the sentiments of the purse-proud magnates of the cane field and the rice patch.

Our rain still keeps up and we do not see the "cloud with the silver lining" yet. It is not however accompanied with any surf.

OFFICES AND OFFICIALS.

EDITOR BULLETIN:— One of the laws of this kingdom prevents any person from holding any office under the Government without taking the oath of allegiance and to perform this act certain conditions have been prescribed.

ALL persons are hereby notified that shooting over the lands of Ka-hauihi, Moanalua, Halawa, Aiea and Kalaheo is strictly prohibited, and any one violating this notice will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

backer of Mr. Thurston and his schemes. The experience which the Maui people has had of the Postmaster-General satisfies them, that there is no prospect of any regard being taken to them or their wishes as long as this autocratic gentleman holds his high office.

That letters of denization are granted in certain instances as to professional men is both correct and necessary, as long as the country has not got medical colleges or law schools, and the supply of competent men in these branches must come from abroad; but we do believe that postmasters for second rate postoffices in second rate villages can be found without calling on strangers.

The schools seem also to be greatly used for the importation of aliens. That, for instance, it may be advisable to engage foreigners to fill positions as principals of the more important schools we will admit, but that the school teachers' positions and pay should be used for a number of ineptuous and certainly not always capable men who wish to try the effect of the climate on their broken-down health, is not exactly a method to be further encouraged.

It the climate does not agree with the delicate health—why the teacher hangs on for some months, draws his salary—always the double of that paid to the native teacher—resigns, and his place is filled with another importation, who stands as helpless as his predecessor not understand him and of whose in a household of children who do language, intellect, and manners he is ignorant, as he is of most other things.

That this does not improve the standing of the schools is obvious, and it is worthy of notice that, although the Government schools do not charge for tuition, many poor protestant parents rather pay a small fee and send their children to the Catholic schools, the superiority of which we believe even the Inspector-General will admit, at least, as far as the country districts are concerned.

The last-mentioned official always goes into ecstasy over the improvement which he finds in the Government schools, when he for half an hour, twice a year, listens to the pupils singing hymns or in chorus answer some few before appointed questions. It is undoubted that, with a good will and a little show of patriotism, the Board of Education could find sufficient material in this country to give the growing generations this needed learning, and it is to be hoped that the coming Legislature will make the board work in that direction.

Observer.

HILO NOTES.

From the Hilo Record, April 1.

The U. S. S. Nipsic visited our port on Wednesday last and leaves this evening. This is one of the war vessels that went ashore in the disastrous hurricane at Samoa and was got off and repaired. Her experience was something to be remembered a lifetime.

Quite a large party of tourists visited our town by last Kinau, and professed to have enjoyed their two days' stay very much.

Among them we are glad to meet Mr. Noyes, editor of the Evening Star of Washington, D. C., and Miss Sweet, the "live" reporter of the S. F. Examiner.

The Chinese steward of the Lelua was arrested at Pepeekeo last week with 11 tins of opium. The policeman took him in charge and let him go while on his way to town.

Our rain still keeps up and we do not see the "cloud with the silver lining" yet. It is not however accompanied with any surf.
