

THE Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party; But established for the benefit of all.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1890.

An article from the Hilo Record, on "Home Manufacturers" reproduced in the last issue of the Bulletin, contains food for thought.

Vineyard street, a public thoroughfare leading from Nuuanu Avenue, near the first bridge, to nowhere, has cost the Government for making and repairs but little, if anything.

Thanks, many thanks, for the attention given by the road authorities to the new street—don't know its name—between Beretania and Hotel streets, and connecting Nuuanu with Maunakea street.

That white American or European labor is not suited to these islands is largely, if not purely, an assumption.

Here is a quotation from the Advertiser: "The National Reform party formally, definitely, and publicly, through one of its leading representatives, places itself on record as being in favor of ousting the Board of Health for no other reason than that it has faithfully executed the segregation law, and in cold blood proposes to turn 1,200 lepers loose on this community, and it asks for votes to carry this policy into execution."

THE BASEBALL GROUNDS.

The Advertiser makes out a plausible case against the baseball people surrounding their new ground by a high board fence. The strongest points against the fence are its unsightliness and the probability of its being an obstruction to the circulation of cooling breezes.

AN INSIDE VIEW OF CHINATOWN.

The public is indebted to Miss Emma R. Cable, well known as a missionary among the Chinese, for the first really inside view of Chinese life in San Francisco.

But speculations of that kind lack the force and power of actual observation made on the spot. It should be known to Senator Hoar and other Chinophiles of the Senate, the gushing philanthropists of the New York Chamber of Commerce and those great metropolitan journals which always know a great deal more about other people's affairs than they do of their own.

These numerous wives do not impose any very heavy burden on the Chinese polygamist. There is no deep trouble on his mind on the subject of Easter bonnets. Miss Cable says that the purchase money is the first and last expense of Chinese wives. The model husband makes them work as seamstresses for the Chinese stores from twelve to sixteen hours per day.

But this polygamy business could not be easily proved in court. If proceedings should be instituted to bring any of these foreign polygamists to justice, witnesses without number would be brought forward to prove that the women were seamstresses and not concubines.
