THE

Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Sex nor Party,
But established for the benefit of all.

THURSDAY, DEC. 31, 1891.

Time the Bush-Wilcox organ was beginning to give some news about the Wilcox progress through Hawaii. The Hawaiians up country seem to have gauged the capacity of the self-elected liberator. Wilcox stock is very low at present. Latest quotations, 98 percent discount.

A letter has been received giving an account of a row that occurred on the deck of a steamer just before sailing for the other islands. The correspondent says the scene made him question whether it was customary or allowable for the employees of the steamship company "to wilfully assault private citizens who go on board departing steamers, to bid farewell to lady friends." A more satisfactory if not quicker answer to such a query could be got, probably, by having the offender brought before the Police Justice, than by accusing him to the public through a newspaper. It is time enough for newspaper interference when an injured person is refused redress in the proper quarter.

The Hawaiian Annual for 1892 is a distinct improvement on former issues, admirable even as they have all been. First to be noticed is a new cover designed by Mr. R. C. Barnfield of Honolulu and engraved by the Electro-light Engraving Co. of New York. It contains the title on a tropical vegetation background, also well-executed views of Kealahou Bay, with Captain Cook's monument, and Diamond Head. Another improvement is an index in addition to the table of contents heretofore the only guide to the different subjects. The almanac, statistical and directory parts are about as usual, including a summary of the census of 1890. The list of societies is not so complete as it should be, as proved this morning when it was referred to, without success, for the name of a national benevolent society. Among the contributions to this number are the following: "The Educational Work of the American Mission for the Hawaiian People," by Rev. Dr. Hyde; "One Day at Molokai," anonymous; "A Few Hawaiian Land Shells" (illustrated), by Prof. A. B. Lyons; "A Visit to the Spirit Land—the Strange Experience of a Woman in Kona, Hawaii," by C. E. Haley. An extract is given from Mr. W. R. Castle's previously published essay on "Taxation in Hawaii." A picture of Iolani Palace is given, in connection with which the cost of its construction and, largely, its furnishing is stated to have been $343,595. The editor furnishes the usual "Retrospect" of the previous year. This issue has 154 pages, besides many pages of advertisements. Mr. Thos. G. Thurston, compiler and publisher, does a conspicuous public service in maintaining the Hawaiian Annual at a creditable and improving standard.

THE CLOSING YEAR.

The year 1891 hurries to a close. This is the last issue of the DAILY BULLETIN for this year. It is therefore meet that we should greet all our readers with a cordial "Happy New Year." The public have been very kind to this journal and, although probably knowing our shortcomings better than our most exacting critics, without dissimulation we can say that we have tried to reciprocate a generous patronage in the best way possible, viz., by being worthy of it. There has for months been a steady gain in circulation, even with the drawback of great difficulties in the delivery service which is being gradually overcome. It is not a promise of the pie-crust order, made to be broken, when we assure our readers that it is the intention to make material improvements in both the DAILY and WEEKLY BULLETIN the coming year.

The past year has been a most eventful one for these Hawaiian Islands. Scarcely had the echoes of happy and hopeful New Year greetings died away before the body of King Kalakaua, one of the most striking and potent figures that ever filled the Hawaiian throne, was landed in the capital from the United States cruiser Charleston. His visit to the great Republic on whose shores he died, it was generally understood, was undertaken largely for the purpose of securing improved commercial relations with that nation. This fact gave a pathetic interest to his death, especially in view of the fact that His Majesty in person negotiated the existing treaty, under which this country advanced in prosperity by leaps and bounds. Queen Liliuokalani succeeded her brother with general acceptance, passing through a mild constitutional crisis, on her accession, caused by her claim, ultimately supported by the Supreme Court, of the prerogative of choosing a new Ministry. While Her Majesty was preparing for a series of moderate inaugural festivities, she and the nation suffered a second bereavement. John O. Dominis, H. M.'s Consort, just raised to the dignity of a prince of the realm, succumbed to the great leveller of all mankind. Still another loss from the royal family has been averted by the rallying of Queen Dowager Kapiolani from a stroke of paralysis. Many notable persons have fallen—General and Mrs. Marshall, in their lives beautiful and in death not divided; Hon. H. A. P. Carter, long the kingdom's representative at Washington; Rev. Dr. Lowell Smith, followed by his only son, A. L. Smith, Mrs. J. I. Dowsett, Mrs. J. T. Waterhouse, Hon. J. P. Parker, H. N. Greenwell, and several others of long residence and useful records.

In the matter of material prosperity the country has not had a very happy old year. While the course of business has received no violent shock, the loss of value in the sugar crops, through the destruction of our reciprocal advantages by the advent of free sugar in the United States, has made capital tighter and more timid than for long before. Still there has been an immense increase of acreage under the main staple product, three huge plantations having been added to productive capacity. The case is not hopeless for a living profit still coming from sugar, through increased efficiency and economy in cultivation and manufacture. Honolulu itself has shown anything but a backward trend, so far at least as appearances go. The additions to business architecture have been great, to wit: the new Brewer, the Cummins, the Children and smaller buildings—all a credit to the builders and the town. In ecclesiastical architecture the Central Union Church congregation are rearing a noble edifice, the peer of first-class churches in America.

Other indications of promise may be briefly catalogued:

The deepening of the harbor entrance about to be begun;

An increasing and practical interest in promoting diversified industries;

President Harrison's cordial recommendations for closer commercial relations between the United States and Hawaii;

An evident determination on the part of active local capitalists to make the best of circumstances altered by the American tariff;

Visible development of hitherto waste lands by railway extension and irrigation;

Prospects of an agreement of views among the conservative elements, native as well as foreign, regarding the election and direction of the Legislature on lines calculated to promote the common welfare;

The survey in progress by the United States steamer Albatross of a route for the projected cable between America and Hawaii;

The promise of the not distant completion of the Nicaragua Canal, hoped to be of great benefit to the maritime importance of this group.

Casting the eyes abroad over the earth, the retrospect is of an eventful year. Russia, the great bugbear of Europe, the only Western nation that submits to autocratic rule of an absolute cast, closes an unhappy year, with prospects of a more gloomy one being ushered in. Famine is decimating the teeming thousands of her peasantry, its fangs being aggravated by outrageous official blundering. Baron Hirsch's colossal scheme of philanthropy on behalf of his suffering Hebrew brethren in Russia pierces the dismal scene with a mighty beam of glory. Politics in the United Kingdom have been as engaging a study as ever. The downfall of Parnell, the great Irish leader, caused by a moral lapse, followed by his sudden death, has for the time utterly confused and entangled the Irish question.

The renewal of the triple alliance for preserving peace—Germany, Austria, Italy—with the supposed approval of Great Britain, was one notable event. It was followed by France's coquetting with Russia for a counter alliance, which although seemingly effected would appear to be fastened by but a rope of sand. The Australasian colonies, excepting New Zealand's holding aloof, have made a promising advance toward the goal of united government, destined eventually to be a new and powerful nation under the Southern Cross. The triumph of insurrection on the ostensible behalf of constitutional government in Chile, marked by the untimely death of the defeated President, is followed by difficulty of that republic with the United States, occasioned by apparent indignities to American sailors and affronting demeanor toward the American representative, and the issue of this trouble is yet surrounded with uncertainty. Trouble in Brazil was suddenly robbed of the menacing contingency of an attempt to restore imperial rule by the death of the deposed Emperor, Dom Pedro, in Paris. The United States and Great Britain have once more presented a great object lesson of humanitarian policy, by submitting a great and long troublesome international question—that of the jurisdiction in the Behring Sea—to arbitration instead of appealing to the dread arbitrament of war.

SAIL NO! SAIL NO!

EDITOR BULLETIN:—
It was not the convivial season of the year, people "might take" a serious view of a top-al schooner being seen off Waikiki. If "one who was there" had stayed much longer in the vicinity of the bathing establishments out there, there is no telling what might not have been done more than A WHALE.

BANCO CASES SUBMITTED.

The following cases, with the exception of the last one, have been argued and submitted before the Supreme Court in banc:

L. A. Thurston et al., exrs. of the will of John N. Robinson, vs. the heirs of James Robinson, submission in relation to the will of John N. Robinson. Carter for plaintiffs; Hatch for defendants. This case occupied three days, winding up yesterday.

Mary Sutherland vs. James Sutherland. Suit for separation. Appeal from decree of separation, J. Magoon for plaintiff; Smith for defendant-appellant. The suit was heard yesterday and continued till today, when it was submitted.

Al. Loring vs. Yon. Repetition, appeal from lower court, at chambers. Magoon for plaintiff-appellant; Johnson for defendant.

James L. Duncan vs. Wilder Steamship Co. Damages. Exception from decree of lower court. Peterson for plaintiff; Ashford for defendant-appellant.

REASON WHY

The New Drug Store is being so well patronized, is very easy to understand.

It is well known that drugs and medicines do not improve with age, especially in this climate.

Hence, everyone who stops to think a moment on the subject concludes immediately that, if it is necessary to take medicine, it is an important point to be sure and get the FRESHEST medicines that can be obtained.

For instance, if there is an infant in the family and it is desirable to feed it on Mellin's Food or Ridge's Food, why not get the FRESHEST in the market?

Scott's Emulsion is far more palatable when fresh, and if you are taking it for general debility, or any other trouble, you will find it better to get it as FRESH as possible.

Then again, Pills, Cough Medicine, Liniment or any one of the many Patent Medicines, if they are FRESH, you can expect to get beneficial effects.

The ENTIRE stock at the New Drug Store can be relied upon, for everything is NEW and of the BEST quality.

Moreover HOBSON, NEWMAN & Co. guarantee that their Goods are just as they represent them.

As you pass their way drop in and look at those Tooth Brushes which they claim to be the best in Honolulu.
