THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,
But Established for the Benefit of All.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 27, 1893.

When the Star, the paper that did the booming for the Boston ball, charges the management with starving the guests, and guests with attempting to steal the cooked chickens, the "political significance" that the same authority insisted on bestowing upon the event in advance takes on a weird complexion.

There was more significance in the list of those absent from the Boston reception Monday night than in that of those present. Responses in person were made to not more than about twenty-five percent of the invitations. "Political significance," pigheadedly thrust on the event, materially marred the fruition of sanguine expectations.

In a telegram to the San Francisco press the omission of some words made it appear that the editor of the British Colonist had written to the Dominion Premier, protesting against the Australian recognition of the French cable scheme. A Vancouver paper since received shows that the protest in question came from the Government of the colony of Victoria, Australia. This fact is interesting in connection with the trip of Mr. Sanford Fleming to Australia, about which some information is given in an interview with that gentleman in this paper.

Mr. Bowell's caution about care in the selection and packing of fruit for export will scarcely be needed by our fruit raisers of any experience. There are many new producers, however, coming into the business to whom the advice may be useful. When it comes to marketing the extensive growing crops of coffee the putting forward of the best qualities will be of vital importance. The best Hawaiian coffee in San Francisco would mean the capture of that market at a premium. In the Californian Magazine a few months ago was a description of the coffee industry of Nicaragua, in which it was stated that the San Francisco market did not get better than the "seconds" of the product.

The Hawaiian Americans.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—

It is always refreshing to examine the Advertiser's attempts at twisting statistics for the benefit of his lost cause. Accordingly, this morning when editor John-stung assumed to correct Mr. Marques' Statistical Table, I made it a point to verify the argument. John-stung says that "two-thirds" of the Hawaiian-born foreigners are "Americans"—(I suppose he means of American extraction) "who, if added to the alleged American contingent of 1928 will make quite a respectable showing, both in present politics and future taxes." Hawaiian-born foreigners number 7495, two-thirds of whom are 4997, this being the number asserted by John-stung. I consulted on the matter Dr. Rodgers' Census—an indisputable authority for the Advertiser, and find (page 17) that the Hawaiian-born foreigners are composed of 4117 Portuguese, 1701 Chinese and Japanese, 60 various, and only 1617 white foreigners, including American, English, German and French descendants. If one half of that amount is allowed to American families—which is an exceedingly generous supposition—the Hawaiian-born Americans (as John-stung calls them) will number only 808, instead of 4997. And added to 1928 Americans from America this makes only a total of 2425, or 1 Yankee to every 14 natives, and 1 out of every 40 of the whole population. So much for John-stung's boasting! Go back to school, Dear John—not as a teacher though—and learn to write only about the few things you do know, unless you wish to be called a scribbler, not even a "poor" journalist. KAMAHAHA.

Australia claims to have 11,000,000 kangaroos. As no one can have counted them she has probably just jumped to this conclusion.

DISTINGUISHED CANADIANS.

Minister Bowell of the Dominion Cabinet and Mr. Fleming, the Eminent Engineer.

British Columbia papers received by the steamer Warrimoo had items referring to the departure for Australia of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Dominion Cabinet, and Mr. Sanford Fleming, the eminent civil engineer who directed the surveys of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The two distinguished travelers were on board the Warrimoo, where Major Wodehouse, British Minister, took lunch with them Sunday afternoon.

It was mentioned in a Vancouver paper that Mr. Fleming was going to Australia to investigate the feasibility of laying a cable from there to British Columbia. A BELLETIN representative met Mr. Fleming on the deck of the steamer, and was received by him with quiet cordiality. Mr. Fleming, on a reference being made to an item in a Vancouver paper about his going to Australia on Pacific cable business, said he held no public commission. He had been working hard for many years, and was traveling for rest and pleasure.

He was asked if the French cable now being laid from Queensland to New Caledonia was part of a larger scheme. "I think not," he replied with a new gleam of interest kindling his features, as if a subject close to his heart had been touched. "How is it, then, that the Governments of New South Wales and Queensland have given it recognition by sending representatives with the cable steamer?"

This question aroused the latent fires of the quiet gentleman's nature still more.

"It is a silly piece of business, a most unfortunate proceeding. Nothing could be more foolish and unpatriotic. The idea of British Colonies thus playing into the hands of the French Government! Between you and me," the famous engineer said, lowering his tones, "that is just what is taking me to Australia."

This admission was regarded as made in confidence, until the departure of the mail steamer due next day for San Francisco. Now that the mail has gone the information here given cannot reach the outside world until Mr. Fleming has divulged his business in Australia. Something is bound to drop before he is many hours in Sydney. It is believed that he is in intimate relations with the Canadian Pacific Railway and its telegraph line, the latter being connected with the Mackay-Bennett Atlantic cable. Mr. Fleming need not carry an official commission, nor be traveling for aught but his own pleasure—as he said—to enable him to do effective work for the cause that is known to be near his heart, that of a cable across the Pacific to complete an electric circuit of the globe under British auspices.

Mr. Fleming expressed his pleasure at having met the interviewer, who recalled having seen him at an interesting point in his career twenty-six years ago. "You must have been very young then," and "I had a hard row to hoe," he said, the reference being to his engineering of a railway line the opening of which the writer witnessed at that period. He said they (Mr. Bowell and himself) had called on Queen Liliuokalani. The subject of politics was not broached on either part during the visit. Mr. Fleming said the Queen was a very intelligent woman. He had seen her in London at the Victoria Jubilee in 1887. As he had letters to finish before the steamer's departure, and the advertised time being only a few minutes away, Mr. Fleming excused himself.

The steamer having been delayed several hours, however, Mr. Fleming, accompanied by Mr. Bowell, Mr. Sydney Clementson, a prominent wool factor of Boston who spent some time here on a previous journey, and other passengers by the steamer took occasion to visit the U. S. flag ship Philadelphia. After their return Mr. Fleming met our representative again and put many questions to him regarding the islands. He took a great interest in the swimming and diving of a crowd of native boys in the dock, and asked if it did them any harm to be in the water so much. Mr. Fleming was made a commander of the order of the garter by Queen Victoria, entitling him to carry C. M. G. after his name, in recognition of his distinguished services in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was President of the Royal Society of Canada, founded by the Marquis of Lorne, and is Chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston, Canada.

On being asked by the writer if he was not the inventor of standard time, now in use on the principal railways of North America, Mr. Fleming modestly replied that while he had had a great deal to do with it, there were others entitled to a large share of credit of which he had no desire to deprive them. When the interviewer took final leave of him, Mr. Fleming expressed the hope of again visiting Honolulu. His intention on this journey was to return home by way of England. He is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Fleming, a handsome and healthy-looking young lady.

Mr. Bowell after lunch spent some time conversing with Major Wodehouse and other friends on deck. Later he was eagerly enjoying the nautical antics of the young kanakas by the side of the ship. As he turned from the rail to speak to a fellow passenger about snapshots with the kodak the latter carried, he was greeted by the BELLETIN interviewer and cordially responded by inviting him to a convenient settee for a conversation. Mr. Bowell is a well preserved gentleman of about 70 years, with a brisk carriage and general appearance reminding one instantly of Col. Sprackels—the resemblance being accentuated with a white plug hat jauntily balanced.

Mr. Bowell talked eagerly about the telegraphic line. He confirmed the telegraphic advices of a ten years' contract made with his Government, at $125,000 per annum, and added that South Australia had come into the arrangement with a subsidy.

"You may say that the line has come to stay," he remarked. He was going to Australia to promote trade between the Colonies and Canada. The latter country was a large consumer of wool, one of the principal staples of Australian export.

"You have made a good beginning in trade with these islands, judging by appearances on the wharf there?" the reporter observed, pointing to the steadily growing rows of barrels of lime and the piles of prepared lumber and shingles from the hold of the Warrimoo.

Mr. Bowell replied with an expression of gratification at the relations between the two countries by the inauguration of steam communication. On the suggestion that a great deal of Hawaiian products ought to find a ready market along the Canadian Pacific Railway and its tributaries, he said: "Undoubtedly. Your fruits are having a good sale there now. But in sending us fruit you must be very careful. Nothing but the best quality should be shipped, and it ought to be carefully packed. You have to meet competition in this line from Louisiana, Florida and Mexico, so that nothing but the first quality will do." Mr. Bowell referred to the lesson Canada had learned from experience in exporting apples to England.

He had given a resident of Honolulu whom he named a copy of the Trade and Navigation Returns of Canada, which would show the lines of produce in which the Dominion was a large buyer. She would buy millions of pounds of Hawaiian rice, for one thing, if this country could supply it as cheaply as China and Japan.

Mr. Bowell asked many questions about the trade and tariff of this country. He said a cable was bound to come here before very long. On a reference being made to the issue of the Bering Sea arbitration in which his chief, Sir John Thompson, Premier of the Dominion, took an active part as a Canadian representative at the tribunal in Paris—Mr. Bowell said the decision must have been about right, because none of the parties involved were quite satisfied with it.

While cordially bidding goodbye to the BELLETIN representative, Mr. Bowell uttered his earnest desire of seeing more of Honolulu and its institutions on his return from Australia.

Hawaiian Hardware Co., Ltd

Saturday, Sept. 23, 1893.

Since this business was established and the people noticed that a little above the ordinary amount of energy and enterprise were among the attributes of the management, it has been a pleasure to a few persons to put upon the Hawaiian Hardware Co., the title, "the fresh young firm." In order to please every one, even those who look upon our success with a jealously inclined eye, and to remove imaginary appearances of freshness we have completed arrangements whereby we control the entire product of a certain salt producing company in this district, and offer to the people of these Islands a pure white salt of superior grade at a shade less than they have been accustomed to paying under the Salt Monopoly. Our arrangements are such that we can furnish either one bag or a thousand on short notice.

Hendry's Ready Mixed Paint is making the buildings on Merchant street look like new. The building occupied by C. O. Berger and Robert Grieve is the latest to take the newest and best remedy for premature decay. Private residences throughout the city are being touched up to such an extent that when the old residents return from their World's Fair jaunt they will think there has been a building boom in Honolulu during their absence.

Toilet sets are not often broken and when they are it is generally at an inconvenient time. We have a large stock of them suitable for these times when people require the maximum quality at the minimum price. Our sets, handsomely decorated, go to you at prices ranging from three dollars up. The handsomest are in the makai window. You'll smile when we tell you the price.

The difference between good and bad sporting ammunition is demonstrated every season. It is unnecessary for us to say that the good article comes from our store. For the season which opens October 1, we have selected cartridges of the sort used by the sportsmen in the States and if you use them you will not have to buy your game from the natives. By the return Australia we will have an assortment of canvas hats for use in the hunting field. In addition to our stock of cartridges we have a full supply of cleaning rods and other necessary shooting utensils.

Our San Francisco Agents sent us, the other day, a preparation for mending broken crockery, wood and leather that is destined to accomplish great results in its line. We have applied it to broken promises of some of our debtors and it worked like a charm. We have plenty of it in stock and if you want some of it for that or mending broken articles of virtue we will be pleased to supply you.

The Keystone Beater will do other things than beat eggs. It whips cream better than by any other means; it will reduce fruit to a fine pulp for almost any purpose more effectually than by the old style of mashing; it can be used in making puddings and almost anything else used as desserts, and it's cheaper in the end and better at all times than the dozen other egg beaters that have been on the market for the last ten years.
