THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

Part of the draft of a new Constitution prepared by the Provisional Government to submit to the Convention was laid before the Convention this afternoon. Article 1, relating to rights of the person, is similar to the old Constitution, excepting that it contains a provision empowering the Legislature to regulate, restrict and limit immigration and term of residence of any class or nationality. Article 2 prescribes religious freedom as of old.

Article 3, on "Freedom of Speech and of the Press," is a "work" for the "royalists." It prohibits the advocacy, by writing, printing or speaking, of the restoration of a monarchical form of government; and the advocacy of the use of force to change the new system of government, and the seeking or advocating the action of any foreign power for such purpose, except by treaty duly made in accordance with the provisions of this Constitution.

Article 4 gives the right of meeting and petition. Article 5 enacts habeas corpus, excepting to aliens unlawfully entering the Republic. Article 6 gives the right of trial to accused persons, but defendants may waive jury trial except in capital cases.

Article 7 protects a person against a second trial for the same offense after acquittal. Article 8 saves one from witnessing against himself. Article 9 prohibits slavery. Article 10 gives security from unreasonable search and arrest. Article 11 relates to the taxing and appropriating power, and 12 to the right of eminent domain. Article 13 restricts the military similar to the old Constitution.

Articles 14, 15, 16 and 17 make the form of government a Republic, its territory that heretofore constituting the kingdom, its ensign the same as that of the kingdom, and its citizens persons born in the Hawaiian Islands or naturalized according to law.

Article 18 relates to naturalization. An alien to become a citizen shall be able to read, write and speak the English language, and in that language be able to explain, in his own words, any part of the Constitution. He must also be a citizen or subject of a country having treaty relations with the Republic of Hawaii.

Article 19 provides for making denizens. Article 20 divides the supreme power of the Republic into the Executive, Legislative and Judicial, making them distinct "except as herein provided." Article 21 treats of the Executive Council. The executive power of the Republic shall be vested in a President and Cabinet. The Cabinet shall consist of four Ministers designated as at present. The President and Cabinet sitting together shall constitute the Executive Council, its majority to rule.

In Article 22 a person whose name is left blank shall be President until the 31st day of December, 1900, and thereafter until a successor is duly elected and qualified. The presidential term is six years. The Senate and House of Representatives sitting together elect the President by ballot, and the majority to elect shall include a majority of the Senators. No President shall immediately succeed himself.

Article 25. The President, with the approval of the Senate, shall appoint the members of the Cabinet, the Judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts, the Auditor General, and all Diplomatic and Consular representatives. The President may fill a vacancy by a commission to expire at the end of next session of the Senate. In Art. 26 the same power has the power to remove any of the officers enumerated except the Auditor General and the District Magistrates, who shall be removable according to law; the Judges of the higher courts, removable as herein prescribed; and the members of the Cabinet, who shall be removable only with the consent of the Senate.

In Article 33 the President is relieved of the obligation to follow the advice of the Cabinet, except in instances where the Constitution makes the approval of the Cabinet a prerequisite to his action. Article 35 makes the Ministers act as President in case of his death, disability or temporary absence, in the following order: Minister of Foreign Affairs, Minister of Interior, Minister of Finance, Attorney General, after the first-named each to act in case of incapacity of the one preceding him in the above order.

Representatives, sitting separately except in certain cases provided for. The Senate shall be composed of fifteen members elected every six years. A Senator must own property in the Republic worth $5000 or have received an income of $1800 the year preceding his election.

The House of Representatives shall be composed of 15 members. The part of the draft thus far printed does not reach the qualification of Representatives. Members of the Legislature shall receive $400 for each regular session, besides mileage of 5 cents a mile, and $20 for an extra session, excepting to elect a President, when they shall only be allowed traveling expenses.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Third Day.

FRIDAY, JUNE 1.

The Convention met at 10 o'clock. President Dole in the chair. The session was opened with prayer by Rev. J. Waiamanu, chaplain.

Secretary Rodgers read a communication from himself, as Secretary of the Executive and Advisory Councils, announcing the election of J. A. McCandless as a member of the Advisory Council, making him a member of the Convention. Mr. McCandless was introduced and sworn in by Chief Justice Judd.

Councillor Brown promised a report from the committee on rules after the noon recess. Delegate Carter moved a resolution to the effect that the President lay before the Convention the draft of constitution referred to in his address opening the convention. Seconded and carried.

President Dole said the draft was being printed and would be laid before the Convention after noon recess.

At 10:20 the Convention adjourned till 1:30 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

President Dole called the Convention to order at 1:30. A petition from Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt in favor of prohibition of the liquor traffic was read and, on motion of Councillor Brown, laid on the table for further consideration.

Councillor Brown reported from the committee on rules, submitting a set of rules almost identical with those of the Executive and Advisory Councils.

The rules were adopted and ordered printed in English and Hawaiian. Delegate Baldwin reported from the finance committee, recommending payments to officers as follows: Secretary, $8; Interpreter, $8; Stenographer, $5; Chaplain, $3; and Messenger and Janitor, $3, per day.

Councillor Brown moved to make the pay of Secretary and Interpreter $10 each, which carried on a close vote after considerable discussion.

The pay of Stenographer was left blank, Minister Smith believing competent services could not be had at the price named.

A communication was read from the E. & A. Councils, transmitting petition of the Schuetzen Club against extending the franchise to the Japanese. Laid on table for further consideration.

The President announced part of draft of Constitution received, and read it momentarily expected from the printer.

After a short recess President Dole stated that there would be 20 more pages of the Constitution, and he requested members to return the first part to the Secretary at the close of the session, so as to have the document bound complete.

A petition from supporters of Henry Klemme, candidate for delegate, was read, alleging that he had been legally elected and praying for a scrutiny of the election returns. It had many signatures.

Del. Kalua moved to be laid on the table until the rules of Convention were before them.

A petition from Mr. Klemme himself, of the same purport, was also read and the same motion made.

Minister Smith thought there was no necessity for delay. He moved to refer petitions to a special committee to report to the house. Seconded by Com. Emmeluth and carried.

President Dole appointed Messrs. Allen, Lyman, Kalua, Robertson and Emmeluth.

Del. Kalua declined in favor of Minister Smith, who he thought should be on the committee. Allowed.

Del. D. B. Smith moved adjournment till 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Del. Robertson moved for Monday. Del. Kalua thought they should go on considering articles of the Constitution before them. Much of the document would be referred to committees.

Del. Young objected to proceeding without a native version. He would favor adjourning till 9:30 Monday.

Del. Rice raised the point of order that a motion to adjourn was open to debate.

A general discussion ensued, having reference to when the draft would be ready. The motion to adjourn till 9:30 Monday morning carried at 2:45.

One Day in Honolulu.

Just open your eyes and your ears for one day. As you wander through fair Honolulu, and the things that you read and the things that you say, will but puzzle, perplex and confuse you.

First, the Island has sailed from this port. The Necker to take from Great Britain. While bold Johnnie Bull crows a grin at the sport, For he knows Uncle Sam here is strong.

Then, second, some genius would import the Sweden. "To Americanize," says the Fleet; While California at home is overrun by the breed, And their non-U. S. ways paralyze her.

So, third, says the Steeler, "Whatever we do, In the way of a government keeping, Our new Constitution must keep in its view, Annexation's the die we are casting."

Fourth, says the Member, "But the thing we need most, And the U. S. alone can supply it, Is a government strong, 'twill smile at the boast, For you've seen 'Covey's no-workery' try it."

Comes fifth, and your smile to a laugh ripples out, When a Solon says: "We're a free people, Though even while he's speaking he glances about, So to tack with the wind from that stepple."

Sixth, hear of a tonight where coffee is served, And old maunions the only soul trusted; Where there's not a shred of your good name preserved, Then you listen to slumber disgested.

If the Government has sent a representative to Johnston Island to hoist the Hawaiian flag he will find he had been preceded several years not only by the British but by the United States. Years ago an enterprising American, a party by the name of Johnston, hoisted "Old Glory" on the Island and reported the fact to the State Department. This was so long ago as to be forgotten when the commander of the "Champion" was ordered to go there two years ago and hoist the flag of Great Britain. Nearly everyone remembers the correspondence published as having passed between the United States and England and the Hawaiian Government. If our memory serves us, as it did in ante-bellum days it was settled that if for any reason England should want to use the island for a cable station it had permission to do so and the same privilege was held by the United States. Just what complications may arise from this governments taking a slice out of the Johnston pie no one can say. Turn about is fair play and the Executive at the "big house on King street" may spring the Monroe Doctrine on the people at Washington and Downing street. Nothing definite will be known of the mission until the "Iwani" or the "Champion" returns. In the meantime keep your eye on our Bean Pots, direct from Boston, and guaranteed to cook beans about as well as you can get them in Boston.

We have a lot of Wire Screens for windows that we are willing to sacrifice to free the rooms of Honolulu from mosquitoes, or at least decrease the number. These screens are sliding so that they will fit any window. We have, also, frames upon which you may tack wire netting for the same purpose. These are made to slide and to fit almost any size window. They are well finished and will be sold cheap.

Prohibition and woman's suffrage seem to lock arms in most communities and Hawaii is not an exception. It has never been demonstrated anywhere that the right of suffrage granted to women has ever led up to demoralization or crime. Wherever it has been withdrawn it has been on the ground that it was unconstitutional. Women are like men, and have been since the Garden of Eden episode. Let them know they cannot have a certain thing and they turn the world upside down to get it; tell them it's free and they will turn their noses up at the bare suggestion. It will be the same with the voting privilege, let the women have it and at the first election perhaps three fourths of the eligible females will exercise their right and at the next election the number will dwindle out of sight. As to prohibition, no intelligent man believes it prohibits; they simply object to licensing evils. Has the law forbidding the use of opium decreased the evil? A reference to the police court records will show that it has not, while the receipts at the Custom House have not been augmented, nor the government recompensed by the increased amounts collected or fines worked out. The average drinker in Honolulu and elsewhere on the group believes in temperance, and he practices it. There are some few, of course, who will take a "rid" at every opportunity. You can see some of them every day soaked full of bitterness and wrapped up in red flannel remorse. As men they are depressing failures; as specimens of ram-soaked rags they are tropical triumphs. They call their habit an inherited gift, but instead of wrapping it in a napkin they use a water soaked towel. Their thirst began on a three percent basis and high license has developed it into something that a Kentuckian would travel miles to see. By the way, our $4.00 Cocktail Mixers are immense.
