

MARQUIS DE MORES.

Treacherously Murdered by His Own Escort in the Soudan.

The Marquis de Mores and several of his companions were massacred in the Soudan on June 8 by his own escort of Tueregs.

The man thus treacherously done to death lived in the United States some years after his marriage in 1882 to the daughter of Baron Louis von Hoffman, banker, who brought him a large fortune.

The stores did an immense business, but there was little profit, mainly because of the active opposition of other ranchmen, commission merchants, slaughterhouse owners and cowboys.

After the ranch failure the Marquis and his wife went to Paris, where he became a Boulanger crank until that craze was over. He lost an election and nearly killed an editor in a duel.

He was on his way to the seat of war, with prospects of having a formidable body behind him by the time he neared Dongola, when he met his cruel fate.

PURIFINE

In the disinfectant that the world is talking about. In the United States its merits are becoming known.

Those who use it speak its praise in convincing language. Here's one from the Department of Medicine in the University of Michigan.

"We use Purifine and find it very good for deodorizing sinks and boxes, etc., and for washing sponges used about subjects for dissection."
