HENRY WATERHOUSE AGENT.

Col. Whyte Looks Over the Steamship Field in Hilo.

Colonel Albert Whyte of Tacoma, Washington, representing the British-American Steamship Company, arrived in Hilo by the Kinau, to arrange for the arrival of the large number of tourists by the Garonne on Thursday next and also for the permanent business of his line at this port. Mr. Whyte has spent a couple of weeks in Honolulu where he very carefully looked over the field for possibilities of an opening, and finally appointed Henry Waterhouse as agent.

In coming to Hilo he has a new problem to deal with as he very truly says. In Honolulu there is the business; the thing is to get it here. Here there are the possibilities. The thing is to develop it. The cost of running the Garonne, which is a 4000 ton vessel, is $17,000 per round trip.
