A SALUTARY WARNING

ALL SORTS OF VEHICLES LIABLE TO CONDEMNATION

Horses May Haul Illicit Liquor Only At the Peril of Forfeiture--- Reasons For Severity.

Judge Estee, in his decision of which the news was briefly given yesterday, shows that ignorance of the owners of the schooner Kawailani regarding her use in carrying illicitly distilled liquor could not avail them under the law. It had been claimed that John Moses Udunahele, master of the vessel, was acting as lessee of the owners, Hong Quon and L. Apana, under a verbal lease. The court quotes Section 3450 of the Revised Statutes, which provides that "in every case" where any taxable goods are "removed or are deposited or concealed in any place with intent to defraud the United States" of the tax, "every vessel, boat, cart, carriage or other conveyance whatsoever, and all horses or other animals and all things used in the removal, or for the deposit or concealment thereof, respectively, shall be forfeited."

A decision of the Hawaiian Supreme Court is quoted to show that okolehao, conclusively proved to have been found in the Kawailani, "is a well-known spirituous liquor distilled from the ti root and very intoxicating." It is pointed out that in defending cases of this kind the burden of proof is on the claimants of the property sought to be condemned. Judge Estee says: "A consideration of the facts that influenced Congress in the passage of these laws apparently so harsh in their nature enables us to appreciate the necessity for the same. The many opportunities afforded to evade the internal revenue laws and the numerous violations thereof doubtless induced Congress to pass these stringent measures so as to not alone punish the guilty trespasser against the law, but also to impress upon the owners of property the necessity for a vigilance in the selection of their agents or lessees or those to whom they intrust the same, that the said property may not be put to illegal purposes."

In this line the court cites a Federal decision condemning two horses, which says: "The reason why this express provision was made in respect to the forfeiture was made in respect to the forfeiture of things used in removing spirits contrary to law was to link the fate of the vehicle with that of the article conveyed in order to deter parties from putting their vehicles at the disposal of those who would be likely to use them for purposes of fraud.* * * It is expected that the owner of property will see to the uses made of it at his peril."

ORPHEUM TONIGHT

There will be a matinee performance at the Orpheum this afternoon commencing at 2:30, regular prices prevailing. The program tonight, strengthened by the talented Warsaw Brothers, is sure to draw a packed house. Cogill and Alea have one of the cleverest sketches ever presented here. Cogill's songs have made a decided hit and he is nightly recalled for more. Caston's eccentric songs and clever dancing has achieved success also, the combination being particularly strong in dancing specialties with Male Arlea and Aquinaldo's graceful twisting still remains a feature of the show, as does the juggling of Altro in his tramp make-up. Mlle. Sauma is well worth seeing on the trapeze and pendant rope.

The whole entertainment is eminently attractive and is drawing much well merited applause.

Among the arrivals from Hilo and way ports in the Kinau today were the following: Col. W. H. Cornwell, T. S. Lippy, Mrs. F. B. McStocker, J. M. Coulsen, Dr. Sloggett, L. A. Thurston, Judge Gilbert F. Little, C. Notley, C. Creighton, Rev. S. W. Kekuewa, E. P. Low, Judge W. McKay, H. Miki, Miss A. M. Cooke, J. L. Cooke and R. S. Steele.

There was a fine rehearsal of the combined choirs of St. Andrew's Cathedral and St. Clement's Chapel in the former place of worship last night this rehearsal being in preparation for the coronation service.

Proceedings have been instituted against D. H. Lewis of Lovejoy & Co. for selling liquor at retail without a valid license. The warrant was issued by Judge Humphreys on the information of C. H. Brown, returnable on Monday morning. It appears that the complaining witness surrendered his license of the Maile saloon, King near Nuuanu street. Treasurer Wright transferred the license to Lewis, who forthwith proceeded to conduct the saloon under the original document issued to Brown. The case will turn upon the question of law as to whether a license may be transferred.

NICHOLS HOME SOLD

The auction of the property of Dr. Nichols, which was sold by order of H. T. Marsh, trustee, and which took place at J. F. Morgan's auction rooms at noon today, brought very good prices.

The Makiki homestead was bought for $11,500 by Clarence H. Cooke, but it is not ascertained whom Mr. Cooke represents. The equity in a Manhattan Life Insurance Co. policy on the life of Dr. Nichols, face value $20,000, was not offered for sale, inasmuch as it was not saleable, its value being only such sum as the company will pay for its surrender.

Of the two cows, one brought $85 and the other $65. Two calves brought $15 and $6, respectively.

A horse and buggy brought $200, while Hon. John Emmeluth bought a golfing outfit for $4.50. Mr. Emmeluth stated in making the purchase that politics were so dull at present that he needed some kind of sport.

The order on the Wahiawa Sugar Co. for 750 shares to the value of $75,000 was not bid on.

COME TO THIS PORT FOR THE FIRST TIME

barkentine than any other kind of a wind machine.

The Georgina occupied seventy-one days on the voyage from Newcastle with a full cargo of coal. Three weeks of the roughest kind of weather on the Australian coast are responsible for this long passage.

During the nasty weather in Australian waters the Georgina acted well and came through the disagreeable experience none the worse for her trouble. After twenty-one days of ugly weather the barkentine had light, variable winds to port.

Captain Brandt is accompanied by his wife and two children. He was formerly master of the schooner Carrier Dove.

The Georgina was built at Eureka and made her maiden trip to Sydney from that port. She is now on the backward trail for the first time. She is as pretty as a picture. She is painted white and is a comfortable as well as a fast sailing craft.

The American bark Oregon, Captain Parker, sailed from the Likelike wharf at 9:30 o'clock this morning for Puget Sound in ballast. There were numerous people on the wharf to bid aloha to her captain and passengers. These latter were "Denver Ed" Smith and Mrs. Smith.

For a week previous to the departure of the Oregon, Captain "Stickeen" Janes, of first Alaska gold discovery and re-incarnated viking fame, had been engaged in painting the cabins of the bark. He took particular pains in ornamenting the quarters of the Smiths, painting a strip of emerald green, instead of gold, around the top of the cabins.

"Where is the O'Ragen docked?" asked 'Denver Ed' when he drove down to the waterfront this morning to go aboard the Oregon. A sailor, of whom the inquiry was made, had some difficulty at first in determining what "Denver Ed" meant by the "O'Ragen." He finally "tumbled" that the Oregon was the vessel wanted and forthwith pointed her out. The Smiths were accompanied by their big Irish retreiver, "Dublin Bay."

The Oregon was towed to sea by the tug Fearless. She goes to Port Townsend for orders and will probably go thence to Seattle.

Early this afternoon the Fearless will tow the American bark Pactolus, Captain Dart, out to sea. The Pactolus has been in port nearly two months. She takes a full cargo of sugar to San Francisco. While Captain Dart is not yet certain of the future movements of the vessel, it is probable that the Pactolus will go up the Sound from San Francisco and load lumber for Australia, taking a cargo of coal in Newcastle for Honolulu again. There is also the possibility that the Pactolus might get in on the San Francisco-Honolulu run.
