PROMOTION COMMITTEE HOLDS SHORT SESSION

A meeting of the Promotion Committee was held at the headquarters of the committee at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Mr. McCandless presided. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Acting Secretary F. L. Waldron and approved. Those present at the meeting were Messrs. McCandless, Morgan, Waldron and Smith.

In reference to the matter of various members taking turns in doing the work of Secretary Wood during his absence, Mr. McCandless reported that he had been in the rooms four days out of the six during the week.

The suggestion of Mr. Wood regarding the exchange of correspondence between the teachers and pupils of the Honolulu schools and those of the mainland was discussed informally. Mr. Wood was present, but as the committee was not ready to act on the matter, he did not remain. He was requested to be present at the next meeting of the Promotion Committee.

Mr. Morgan stated that he had made application to the shipper's what committee for $2000. No reply had yet been received. In all, he said, $6000 would be required.

Regarding expenditures, Mr. Waldron stated that the Promotion Committee is in a better shape now than ever before.

There was no particular business to come before the Committee, so, after some general discussion, the meeting adjourned. Mr. Morgan will be acting secretary for the ensuing week.

SHERIDAN'S VOYAGE

not equipped with a towing machine. To tow a vessel of the size of the Sheridan, especially in any kind of a sea, the towing vessel should be able to take the tow line pretty well forward. Otherwise she will not have storage room.

"What is really needed is a powerful ship like the Rosecrans, which is equipped with a special towing machine and which is much heavier than the Slocum.

"The Buford is not better off in this respect than the tug Slocum. She is big enough and heavy enough, but she is not equipped for towing. With the tow line fastened where it would have to be on her, she would not be very steerable. She might get along all right in a smooth sea, but in the event of bad weather, she would be unmanageable."

Aboard the Sheridan nothing in particular is being done in the way of repairs, pending the conclusion of the examination now being made by the diver. The latter is going over the vessel's bottom carefully, foot by foot, charting the injuries which he finds.

Some work has been done toward cleaning up, but not much can be done at present. Captain Peabody says that he expects to be in readiness to proceed to the Coast in about ten days.

The Sheridan will probably go on the dry dock at Mare Island when she reaches the Coast. The dry dock there is plenty large enough to accommodate a vessel of her size. The Logan was docked there some time ago, and the Logan is about the same size as the Sheridan. The transport could also go on the old dry dock at Hunter's Point, as it is large enough for her.

In view of the accident to the Sheridan it is regarded as unfortunate that the Government disposed of the transport Grant. The latter vessel is now being used as a dredger on the Colum

Saleswomen's Peril

GRAVE DISEASES, DUE TO STANDING. Facts About Miss Merkle's Dangerous Illness and Complete Cure

Have you ever thought why so many women or girls rather walk an hour than stand still for ten minutes?

Miss Margaret Merkle

It is because most women suffer from some derangement of their delicate organism, the discomfort of which is less trying when they are in motion than when standing.

In some states laws compel employers to provide resting places for their female employees.

But no amount of law can regulate the hard tasks of these women. They must get the strength which this work demands or run the risk of serious diseases and the surgeon's knife.

Read the experience of Miss Margaret Merkle, 375 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— Gradual loss of strength, nervousness, bearing-down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said I had diseased organs and ulceration, and advised an operation if I wanted to get well. I objected to this and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I soon found that all the good things said about this great medicine were true. The green sun headed, backache, headache and nervousness disappeared, and in a short time I was strong, vigorous and perfectly well. I wish every working girl who suffers would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and strengthens the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the cases of other sick women as with Miss Merkle.

HOW CUBAN'S FEEL EDITORIAL UTTERANCE ON AMERICAN INTERVENTION

CUBAN PAPER PAINTS MOST DISTRESSING PICTURE OF WHAT WOULD HAPPEN TO THE CUBANS THEN

The prospect of American annexation, so attractive to Cubans with sugar to sell, is not universally welcomed by the people of the island republic. "La Discusion" of Havana paints this distressing picture of it in its issue of September 1, as translated by the Havana "Telegraph":

"Do Cubans understand what American intervention means, that intervention which those now in arms are asking, and which, even if they ask it not, would be the logical consequence of the incredible spectacle which we are now offering to the world?"

"What independence and a republic we have all seen. They have meant prosperity, wealth, advance in culture and civilization, the coming of foreign capital, and a dazzling future. Cubans have been the directors and the governors of all this; the administrators of justice, and the owners. Our country has been a great nation, with elections, good or ill, with all capable of steadily improving and approaching perfection. It has been Cuba for the Cubans, with honor, pride, dignity, and pride of country—our ideal transformed into a splendor or reality."

"And the intervention, what would it be? Ah, blind, indeed, must be he who does not see.

"In the first place, it would mean a permanent occupation, a rectification of what some Americans call the evil hour in which 'the joint resolution was approved, which a Quixotic sense of honor compelled them to fulfill.

"Our country's glories, ideals, heroes, martyrs, blood, and tears—who, then, would talk of these? The existence of a permanent intervention would wipe them all out as with a sponge. Ignominy would leave us naught to do but hide our faces, and those among us who are blameless would be ashamed even of their tears before the grave of our young nation, and the faults which are pushing it to the abysses.

"The mere thought of intervention freezes the blood in our veins. What a deathly silence! What eternal sorrow! What deep shame! Fallen, because incapable, again into foreign servitude! The country which good fortune placed in the happiest and most brilliant of situations, with 'I am happy' for her device and emblem, again upon her knees, her face in the mire—and forever. What a hideous prospect! What a leaden weight and sombre tombstone upon the hearts of Cubans! And what a leaping for joy and a clapping of hands among the unquiet Yankees of the Isle of Pines!"

"To true national sentiment, to the Cuban soul and spirit, permanent intervention is worse than death itself; it would be better that the waters of the Caribbean Sea should swallow the Pearl which is their pride than that this should become their stain and their reproach. For people, as for men, infinitely better is it to die than to live contemned.

"And in the material order, what would intervention mean? For the negroes, persecution and extermination; for the whites, servitude, not merely political, but personal servitude.

"With white gloves on their hands, the Americans came first; they intervened; but, nevertheless, they made themselves sufficiently felt to let this country know what it may expect. What would be their coming now, then, when, instead of offering us the white-gloved hand, they would give us the point of the boot?"

"Well may the colored race tremble before the prospect of permanent American intervention. The Americans hate and despise the negro; two hundred years of living side by side and in liberty have not sufficed to draw the races together, nor even to prevent the colored man from being treated like a dog, whom they lynch and look upon not even as a human being. And this is the negro of their own country, their own language, and their own customs; what, then, would be the treatment of the poor Cuban negro? Ah, when we think of our fraternal treatment of the colored race, of how we esteem them and they serve us and love us, and are on an equality with us in all places, even in the corporations and in the halls of legislation, we feel a horror to think what would be the fate of the noble Cuban colored race in the hands of its formidable and implacable American conquerors!"

"And the whites? In the place of our gallant Cuban rural guard, the heavy tread of the blue-uniformed patrol; in place of our amiable comrades in the public offices, the classic type represented by Mr. Bliss in the Customhouse, without the courtesy to ask any one to be seated, and obliging all to speak in English; in place of our polite and dignified judges, the ten dollars or ten days' of Mister Pitcher.

Annexation suggests suicide to the Editor of 'La Discusion'.

"Lands, business, official influence, and representation, all for them!"

"Strangers in our own land, we would look upon our glorious sun and its rays would be pale to our eyes. Our balmy breezes would burn our cheeks. Our rivers would seem to tempt us to a peaceful tomb. The murmur of our seas would seem to call us to flee the adored land in which we were born.

"Beside us would pass with jangling spurs and heavy leers the American officer, master of all, and drawing all to himself, even the smiles and glances of our adorable virgins.

"And is it for this that Cubans are fighting against Cubans?"

"The survivors of our heroic and holy struggles for independence rendering one another opening the way for the entrance of Finns, Germans,

OBSERVE FREAKS OF EARTH AND HEAVEN

Astronomers and Volcano Investigators Were On Ventura

PARKS VISITED SCENE OF VOLCANIC OUTBREAK

FREDERICK ESTABLISHED NEW ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY—RYSAVAIL—SAVAH LAVA MAKING LAND

C. J. Parks, who is connected with the judicial bench of the Navy Department and is leaving for the States on the Ventura, is one of the only two Americans who have visited the volcano on the island of Savail in the Samoan group, which has recently been causing so much disturbance, and when seen yesterday by a Bulletin reporter showed many interesting pictures, which he has taken of the volcano and the surrounding country.

"The volcano formed in a valley between two hills," said Mr. Parks, "and has gradually increased in height till it is as high as the hills, about 700 feet. I suppose, a tunnel 50 to 75 feet wide has been formed and through this there is a small discharge of lava into the sea, a distance of nine miles, and there is a small discharge all of the time at the top of the crater. The crater is probably 400 yards across. I was at the top and looked down into the crater and saw the boiling lava, but it is barely hot there and the gases are such that one cannot remain there more than a few moments. The wind there is strong and my hat blew over into the crater as I looked over. The lava is filling in the sea and fast making territory for Germany, and great change in the water line. The volcano is ruining all of the plantations; three villages have been blotted out and several churches have been ruined, and the people are fleeing to Upolu and other places."

Mr. Parks showed pictures of the volcanic mountain which has been formed but says even since those pictures were taken the walls of the cone have broken down considerably. One picture showed the lava pouring into the sea from the tunnel and great clouds of spray and steam were ascending. He says the gases and fumes are so poisonous that all vegetation is ruined in the vicinity, even when the lava itself does not overflow.

When making the trip Mr. Parks was accompanied by Dr. Faunleroy, a Navy surgeon, Captain Allen, a British resident of Pago Pago accompanying them as guide. The ravages of the volcano are confined to German Samoa.

Also returning to Washington via the Ventura is C. W. Frederick, assistant astronomer for the government, who has spent the past two years in Tutuila establishing a branch of the government observatory. He said: "At Apia observatory the Germans caught the records of the Valparaiso earthquake on the seismograph and for some time it was feared that this was a second and more terrible shock at San Francisco. On September 14 a still more serious shock was registered and it would seem to have been somewhere south of New Zealand and it is supposed that this was a submarine disturbance as no reports of a shock on land were received. We have had several earthquake shocks on the islands since the San Francisco disaster but we did not feel any effects of that."

Members of the party say that it is very cloudy where the observatory has been established and that most of the time it will be impossible to make astronomical observations, one count having shown but five clear evenings in a month. They say, however, that when it is clear it is marvelously so and that good observations ought to be made at those rare times. The work is completed now and Mr. Frederick, accompanied by his wife and two children, has taken his final leave of the Samoan islands.

Americans, and the Spaniards, who shall come to enjoy the fecundity and richness of our soil, the freshness of our air, the murmur of our rivers, the sweetness of our pale moonlit nights, the caresses of our seas, and even the love of our women.

"Can the negroes wish themselves to bring the knife to cut their throats?"

"The whites, are not they like the frogs asking for a master and a hard master, who will stay forever?"

"This republic, so rich, so youthful, so beautiful, so envied by all, is it to be cast out and delivered to the Yankees, merely because elections were carried out well or ill?"

"Are there not to be after all, more elections, and are there not other means to make these elections be as they should than the placing of our neck under the heel of Uncle Sam?"

"This war can have but one end: intervention! Cubans! look the truth straight in the face and realize its horror! Throw down all your weapons and clamp your protecting arms around young Cuba!"
