So poor Maui is also threatened with its recurrent troubles.

While the new San Francisco is rising, the walls of the old city are still falling.

Wherever the primary law is tried it ultimately results in abolishing the political boss.

It is said that the planters had a very enjoyable dinner last night with a fantastic finish.

There is no more difference after all between ballots and the fa. It is all gambling on results.

Having fined the New York Central Railroad and the Sugar Trust for breaches of the law, the next thing is to collect the fines.

By the way, was it not Colonel Parker who talked about a conversation he had with the President. But the Colonel never became Governor.

It is well to see the liquor men getting together to discuss legislation. If other business interests would be equally prompt, the result would be a short session and better laws than we sometimes get.

San Francisco also has its election troubles, the validity of the recent election there being under discussion on the ground that the voting machines were inaccurate. Here the trouble has been that the machine was regarded as too accurate.

It would seem that the Island of Oahu is not the only place where steamers get into trouble. Serious marine fatalities were heard of yesterday from Oregon, France, and two places in Canada. We cannot equal this for a day's record.

Estimates for appropriations in Hawaii are not so large as reported by cable. For the construction of batteries at Honolulu and Pearl Harbor the Federal authorities ask $350,000; for fortification sites, $276,100, and for Honolulu harbor, $400,000.

New corporation laws are proposed in California. The intention being to first eliminate all surplus phrases and verbiage. If this can be done and the laws be made understandable to the ordinary layman, the Golden Gate State will be worthy of more universal commendation than it is acquiring through the rapid reconstruction of San Francisco.

Tariff work in Washington will need watching during the recess. Immediately after Congress convenes, Senator Cullum intends to introduce a joint resolution in the Senate for the appointment of an expert tariff commission to treat the subject in accordance with the needs of business and labor. The Senator wants to take the tariff out of politics and make it a practical business proposition.

As a warning to our young men, we would suggest that they carefully examine the dresses of their best girls for semi-concealed needles. In Pennsylvania a young man was recently killed by being pierced through the heart with a long needle that had been stuck in the front of a young lady's dress. He embraced her with disastrous result, the needle entering into the cavity between his protruding and the heart, resultant hemorrhages causing death.

GOVERNOR CARTER.

George R. Carter has just closed the third year of his incumbency as Governor of the Territory of Hawaii, and today enters upon the final year of office under his present commission. Whether the Governor would accept a second term should it be offered to him we are not aware, nor do we believe that the Governor himself has given the matter any consideration. The office is one not entirely free from care and in Governor Carter's case it has been accompanied by ill-health, though he never appeared to be in better physical condition than he does at the present time. Family ties may induce him to retire to private life. On the other hand, he may be urged by President Roosevelt to continue his administrative work here because, and we have reason to believe this, the President has the utmost confidence in his executive officer in the Territory of Hawaii. Should he desire to retire, however, there is no doubt that his recommendation will have great weight in the naming of a successor. The people here, however, may desire to express their sentiments and, if their wishes in this respect be strongly presented to the President, he will certainly give them his consideration.

With the Governor's policy the Bulletin has not, as our readers well know, been always in accord. There is one thing, however, for which he is entitled to credit and that is in keeping the people informed through the press of what transpires in the executive department and being generally accessible to newspaper men, while under his predecessor the public was excluded almost entirely from a knowledge of affairs that interested and concerned them. To the Governor himself perhaps the results may not always have been pleasing because it has subjected him to more criticism. This, however, he has survived and we believe that he appreciates an honest critic. The Governor is an indomitable worker, his integrity has never been questioned, and he is a man of force and vigor. There is one thing that his name will always be associated with and that is, his financial policy. He has brought our monetary condition from one of debt to one of stability, and bonds have been floated upon the security offered by these islands upon terms that, a few years ago, would have been regarded as impossible.

For the coming year we hope that the legislative and executive branches of the administration will work in harmony for the best and most progressive interests of all of us, and that when the Governor rounds off his term of office, next year, he may do so with the commendation of his fellow citizens.

COLONIAL LAND LAWS.

The distribution of land among bona fide settlers and homeseekers has been effectively settled in the British colony of New Zealand, where the government has the right to throw open not only its public lands, but also private lands, whenever it deems such a policy to be advisable and necessary for the best interests of the colony. There, as well as elsewhere, large areas of lands have been acquired by individual owners. These blocks have been used for agricultural and pastoral purposes, and sometimes even for mere pleasure, when a land owner desires to acquire an estate and become the owner of all he can survey and more. But this does not conduce to the best interests of the greater number and, when the New Zealand Government determines that the opening up of an estate, or parcel of land, under individual ownership, will be of advantage to the colony, it has power to acquire and dispose of it. Notice is given to the owner of the Government's intention. He sets his price upon it. The Government states its idea of the valuation and, of course, there is a disagreement. Then a Board of Arbitration is appointed, one member being selected by the owner of the land, one by the Government, and a third by these two. They fix a valuation which is final, and which the owner must accept and get out. He has no appeal. He gets his money. The Government gets the land and disposes of it just as it may see fit, in small or large parcels, to settlers and homeseekers, who will use it for pasturage or for raising crops, from whichever they can get the best results. In this way land that has been idle, and practically unoccupied, becomes settled upon and a gain results both to the settler and to the Government.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction, and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge. Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great. Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation. Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private ills to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

PLAINTIFF WINS IMPORTANT POINT

Bonhichi Case Still On Before Jury In The Circuit Court

The damage suit of Bonhichi vs. the Rapid Transit Company is still going on before Judge Robinson and from the present outlook will take several days. The plaintiff won an important point this morning in the decision by Judge Robinson refusing to allow certain testimony in regard to the legal speed of the cars at a switch to be admitted. At the time the accident occurred the street car company had obtained from the Legislature permission to increase the speed of their cars at such a point, provided they obtained the approval of the Superintendent of Public Works and the consent of the Governor in writing. The verbal consent of the Governor had been obtained but not the written consent, when the accident occurred, and upon the objection of Attorney General Peters, representing the plaintiff, Judge Robinson refused to allow the evidence as to the verbal consent to be introduced.

CABBAGE PATCH PERFORMANCE A GREAT SUCCESS

The first public performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" was a dramatic success in which Honolulu playgoers have a lively personal interest. In spite of the rainy night the Hawaiian Opera House was comfortably filled, and the audience was keenly appreciative of the humor and pathos of this well-read play. Mrs. W. L. Howard deserves unstinted praise for her artistic and painstaking rendition of Mrs. Wiggs. Her interpretation of the homely philosophy and kindly humor of this rich character was a work of art, and by means of her great familiarity with the entire play. Miss Mowbray as "Miss Hazy" was another star performer, and her clever work was deserving of the greatest appreciation. The other actors, Miss Nellie McLain as Miss Lucy, Mrs. H. T. Moore as Mrs. Schultz, Mrs. Sharp as Mrs. Eichorn, W. D. Adams as Stubbins, W. L. Warren as Billy Wogga, W. R. Pittinger as Chris, Baby Durfee, Stella McAllister and Master Harrison and others too numerous to mention all did so well as to show to the satisfaction of everyone that when it comes to amateur theatricals Honolulu is able to produce a row of talent which is nothing short of marvelous.

GRAND JURY RAID

The Grand Jury with the assistance of Sheriff Brown raided a gambling resort near the corner of Hotel street and Maunakea this noon, capturing 49 Celestials busy at the game. The Grand Jury telephoned down to the police station that they wished officers to make a raid and Sheriff Brown at once detailed men for the purpose and broke in the doors of the resort, catching the gamblers in the act. There were not many gambling utensils captured as the games being played were pai kau and fan tan. The information which led to the raid was furnished the Grand Jury by Frank B. McStocker. Bail was fixed at $50, and up to 3 o'clock this afternoon only three of the Chinese arrested had been able to give it. The rest of them were still abiding with Jack Melanphy. Members of the Grand Jury state that they have plenty of evidence to convict the prisoners.

GRAND JURY TRIES TO HURT SHERIFF

District Court Officer Questioned In Regard To Gambling

The Grand Jury is still looking into the cases of Chinese gambling. The whole work being done is very evidently an attempt to find out whether the Chinese gamblers are being, or have been, protected by Sheriff Brown. This is denied most vigorously by members of the Grand Jury and by Deputy Attorney General Prosser, but the tendency of all the questioning seems to be in that line. From all that can be learned the inquisitorial body has been unable to locate any evidence whatever of protection. They have found houses where they believe that gambling has existed and they have found men who have gambled, but that is as far as their work has gone. There were not so many Chinese witnesses before the Grand Jury this morning as there have been for the last two days but those taken before the jury have been kept for longer periods and are evidently being sweated closely. The various members of the police department who are prominent in catching gamblers have been called in to testify and then beyond that members of the District Court have been called on the carpet. Judge Whitney spent nearly two hours undergoing interrogations from the Grand Jurors and when he came out was, as far as looks go, just as happy as when he went in. The Grand Jury adjourned this morning without making a report, to meet Monday morning.
