WEDNESDAY JUNE 30, 1909

Necessity is the argument of tyrants; it is the creed of slaves. — William Pitt.

Louisa Andrews, Deputy Attorney General of Hawaii, is it to laugh? This will undoubtedly meet the approval of President Taft, whose grand old father had a rounder face with Andrews when reformer's Standard.

ADMIRAL IJCHI

It Admiral Ijchi made a good impression on the occasion of his first visit to this city. He has completely won the people of Honolulu during which he called his farewell speech here.

The Admiral has dropped in at this post at a time when the presence could be made the source of much sensational talk that would keep this community and perhaps the people of these countries not without interest.

There was the hope for great good in his visit, and the Admiral of the Imperial Japanese Navy has made good on all points. He has not only pleased things to the people of Honolulu, and he has taken sides in some of the national differences among the residents of the city in which he naturally has more than a passing interest. He has throughout his stay attended strictly to business and conducted himself as becomes an agent of good will.

The great influence exerted by Admiral Ijchi has been such as to win the highest respect from the Americans of Hawaii as well as the Japanese residents in the Territory.

The personality of the Admiral is the most striking feature of his visit, and his character is usually associated with the commanders of navies. He has lots of blarney supplemented by common sense, that sometimes passes under the name of diplomacy. This paper believes that he has not uttered a word that might be interpreted as bearing on local affairs. The fact remains, however, that his reiteration of the cordial sentiments of friendship and respect that exist between the two countries whose people are so well met in these islands has not failed to make its impression on our population.

If the Bulletin were to pass an opinion, it would be that the representatives of the Japanese navy believe that the common good of all people is more material than petty differences that retard the prosperity of any country. This is plain common sense.

THE SUFFRAGETTE'S WAR.

At this distance the exhibition furnished by the Suffragettes and the Government in London is ridiculous. One hesitates to decide whether the women are more amusing in their public antics than the Government in trying to hold them down.

First thought on this side of the world is that the dear girls should be allowed to present all the petitions they please. There would be far less danger than the half-pulling raids started as a result of the refusal to accept the petition. Steam unrestrained is harmless; bottled up, it is dangerous.

It is possible, however, that we shall take a different view of the matter when the contagious enthusiasm of the cause strikes our own fair women and they go upon the war path.

A forecast of what may happen is contained in a statement made in New York early this month by Mrs. Anna Howard Shaw when appearing with Mrs. Corrie Chapman before the International Women's Suffrage Association.

"The time has come," said Mrs. Shaw, "to introduce some of these methods into our work in America, and when I go to Seattle to the National Convention next month, I am going to urge that we work for the men in public places who have worked for us. We must strike the man who has worked against us in his most delicate nerve—the ballot box. I want to see a distinct relation between the thing I do and the thing I seek, but, had as soon as I can see that good can come to the cause in sensational methods. I shall be tooting a horn on a boat in the Hudson, fighting with policemen, and doing all the other things our English sisters have done."

Mrs. Catt, it seems, is not in such a warlike mood for the present, and covets much of her public addresses by the difference between the "Suffragettes" and the "Militant Suffragettes" of England.

The most significant feature of the whole episode is that the women have decided that the ballot box is man's most delicate nerve. The time was when women found they could do as they pleased with a man by giving him good things to eat. Can it be that man has changed or is it that the kitchen and the cook book are no longer attractive to womanhood?

JUVENILE THIEF CAUSES TROUBLE

Law Is Working Out In A Peculiar Manner

Kupuna, a youthful sneak thief, is being Chief Levi a lot of trouble lately, and as it is against the law to hold the boy at the police station, the sleuth hardly knows what to do. The boy has confessed to half a dozen robberies, and has dipped into everything from a church poor-box to a chicken roost. He has stolen no less than $50 worth of goods since he started out at the game. He looks about eight years of age, and has a most precocious manner. His mother is half denuded, and on a previous visit to the police station caused some trouble when she got excited.

The youthful burglar was taken into custody on Monday afternoon, but could not be held overnight according to law. Levi allowed the lad to go home for the night, on promising to return this morning, but the youthful Sykes failed to turn up on time. If he is found before 120 today the boy will be taken before Whitney, but if discovered later in the day will have to be let go till tomorrow. The juvenile law is working out in a peculiar manner, and it is difficult to handle youthful offenders under it.

VALUABLE RELIC OF HONOLULU FAMILY

Calabash Once Was Used By Lunaliho And Princess Ruth

Event Nymnover of Honolulu has lately had the good fortune to become the owner of a very ancient calabash, made of kou hardwood. It was once the property of the Panawa family of Kau. Mr. Moi, a grandfather to the Panawans, made at about 90 years ago, King Lunaliho and Ruth Keelikohani, a sister of Kamehameha IV and V, a pool out of this calabash. It was soaked in water for two years before it was been out with a stone. Mr. Moi and his wife Kanaawa, lived for years with the high chiefs in Honolulu.

TO EXAMINE SCHOOL CHILDREN.

New York, June 9.—Ten thousand public school children of New York City will be examined by the health authorities in a general endeavor to ascertain whether there is any basis for the assertion made by Dr. T. C. Nicholl before the American Medical Association at Atlantic City that 78 per cent of the pupils are victims of the alcohol habit.

LANE BELIEVES CONKING ALL RIGHT

Interest In Hawaiians Shown In Ways Practical

John C. Lane has words of praise for D. L. Conking, the new Territorial Treasurer. Lane stated this morning that Conking in a quiet way has been and is still spending a portion of his earnings for the education of the Hawaiian youths in whom he is interested. He believes that the new Treasurer will not only treat the Hawaiian boys under his jurisdiction fairly, but that he would give them promotion as they are deserving and opportunity presents itself.

Conking, who was purser on the Mauna Loa for some time, has been very popular with the Hawaiians. He treated the poor and rich alike, and on this account the aged Hawaiians who traveled on the popular liner with Conking as purser have remembered him with hookups, which usually come from their little tracts of land in Kona.

TRIED HARD BUT FAILED TO DIE

Kauai Murderer Could Not Commit Suicide

Though he first drove a knife through his wind-pipe, followed that act by committing hari-kari, and ended up by jumping into the water, a Kauai Japanese was unsuccessful in his suicidal attempts and is now in a Kauai Hospital, waiting until he shall be well enough to stand trial for murder.

The Japanese in question, whose name is unknown to the Kauai man who brought the report of the tragedy, learning that his mistress was about to desert him for another man, assaulted her with a knife so viciously that she died within a few minutes. Fearing the consequences of his deed, the murderer then plunged the knife into his own throat, severing the wind-pipe. He then committed hari-kari, making a horrible gash in his abdomen. As death refused to follow, the man rushed out and plunged into a lake, determined to make a thorough job of it.

But a Portuguese happened along about then, and, seeing a man struggling in the water, plunged in and brought the would-be suicide ashore. The Japanese was hurried to the hospital, where the surgeons performed such operations as were necessary, and is now on the high road to recovery. It is prophesied that he will soon be well enough to stand trial for murder.

GET TICKETS TODAY FOR HILO EXCURSION

Tickets are in demand today for the big excursion to Hilo and the Volcano next Saturday. A long line of excursionists besieged the office of the Inter-Island Steamship Co. this morning to procure accommodations and many more are expected this afternoon. There are still plenty of good rooms and those who intend to take them up should do so at once as no booking will be reserved after today.

Rate to Hilo and return $15; to the Volcano and return, including board and lodging at the Volcano House, $25. Mauna Loa leaves Inter-Island dock at 3:30 Saturday afternoon.

STOLE STRIKE FUND

The Treasurer of the Higher Wage Association at Waiolua is alleged to have been robbed of the sum of $600, which he had on hand for the benefit of the strikers.

High Sheriff Henry, although skeptical of the truth of the report, sent his deputy, Chester Doyle, down to investigate the affair. It is a peculiar business altogether, and Doyle's return will probably clear the matter up.

BOYS RUN AWAY; TRUSTY ALSO

Reform School Lads Desert Their Abode

There seems to be an epidemic of running away among the Reform School boys, and at present there are at least six of them missing. The last bunch to get away were accompanied by their guard, who is minus one leg.

It appears that the guard became overcome by the drowsy afternoon and laid down to sleep. Half a dozen boys took advantage of his napping and made a break for home. When the guard awakened there were no boys to be seen, so the vigilant amateur cop, who himself was a trusty, thought that the best way to avoid punishment was to do a duck for home also.

His welcome at home was not very warm, and his people only waited long enough to telephone the fact of his being there before hauling him back to the school.

The rest of the boys are being slowly gathered into the fold, and unless another trusty snoozes, the lads will probably remain within bounds for a while.

CHANGES AT STATE HOUSE

There are several changes going on today in the old Palace, now the State House of the Territory. By the consolidation of the Land Office with the Board of Public Works, the rooms now occupied by Road Supervisor John Wilson will be given over to the Land Department. Mr. Wilson and his force of men will seek other quarters down town.

High Sheriff Henry has completed moving over to his office at the Oahu Prison, and it will be turned over to License Inspector Pennell. Other changes relative to the executive offices and those of the Attorney General are under consideration.

SHERIFF JARRETT NAMES OFFICERS

Sheriff Jarrett has named Julius H. Asch as jailer at the Honolulu Jail, the institution which will come under the control of the City and County on July 1.

Mr. Asch is the father of Julius W. Asch, the well-known clerk in the Sheriff's office. He has for some time been acting as special officer at Pawa Junction and is a well-known resident of this city.

George Kala has also been named by the Sheriff as his deputy at the jail, and is considered a good man for the position. There are several other appointments to be made in connection with the jail, and the Sheriff will probably announce some of them today. Quite a number of the county deputies have been summoned to town, and the Sheriff is interviewing them today as to the suitable men in their districts who are available for the positions of jailers. Five are to be appointed, besides the turnkeys and six guards for the Honolulu jail.

CITING AN EXAMPLE.

"Hope," remarked the mere man, "is certainly a wonderful thing."
"It is," rejoined the wise woman, "Why, one little nibble will keep my husband fishing all day."

SCOVILLE TELLS

Witness: "Yes, he was making speeches to the crowd."
Lightfoot: "You don't know what he said to them."
Witness: "No, sir."
After a cross-fire of arguments between Lightfoot and Kinney, Scoville finally reiterated his direct testimony that the crowd threw a shower of sticks and stones at the Splinters. Lightfoot declared that the witness contradicted himself, having once testified he saw but one or two sticks or stones and heard missiles hit the building.

IS APPROVED TRUSTEES REDUCED

By the new amendment to their charter, the application for which was approved by Governor Frear this morning, the number of trustees of Queen's Hospital will be reduced from twenty to seven members. The responsibility of the government trusteeship will also cease with the new articles of incorporation. The application was filed last week, but it has been under consideration by the Governor and Acting Treasurer Hemenway as to the legality of the application.

TWO JUDGES ATTEND TRIAL

United States District Judge S. B. Dole occupied the bench with Judge Robinson this morning, an interested spectator in the riot trial which is in progress there. Another notable personage who attended the trial was Hon. Thomas Fitch, the "Silver Tongued" orator from the Coast, who has just arrived in Hawaii for a visit.

HAS MANY INVITATIONS

Governor Frear has just received an invitation to attend the National Irrigation Congress to be held in Spokane August 9 to 14 of this year. Great interest is being aroused by the Promotion Committee, and large delegations are preparing to attend. It is understood New Mexico will have 500 people in attendance. Hawaii is urged to contribute a large number to the Congress.

The Governor is also invited to attend the Forty-Third National Encampment of the G. A. R. to be held at Salt Lake at the same time as the National Irrigation Congress meets. Special trains will run from Salt Lake to Spokane after the encampment. The Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress meets at Denver in August and the First National Conservation Congress at Seattle August 26 to 28. Governor Frear is also urged to attend the last two if possible.
