THE STATE CONVENTION AT ALLENTOWN
last week is a credit to the democracy. Some of the best men of the party represented the people and harmony and good-will prevailed throughout its session. It resulted in its almost unanimous choice of Mr. Randall as Pennsylvania's candidate for President—a selection which is heartily indorsed by the democratic people—and in the adoption of a plain and concise platform, based on economical principles favoring abolition of the internal revenue system of taxes and a reduction of the tariff duties, condemning the electoral fraud of 1876 and the refusal of the republican legislators to agree to an honest and fair apportionment of the state. The resolutions contained in the platform bear the closest scrutiny even of the opposing party and look the questions of the day square in the face.

Space does not permit us to give a full account of all the proceedings of the convention nor a list of all the electors and delegates chosen.

The delegates-at-large to go to Chicago are: B. F. Cox, W. A. Wallace, W. F. Harrity, James P. Barr, B. F. Meyers, W. H. Sowden.

Among the electors who will help to make the next President we notice the name of Hon. A. H. Dill, of Union county, to represent this, the 20th district, while W. W. Rankin of Lock Haven and Harry A. Hall, of Elk county, are our delegates.

General W. W. H. Davis, of Doylestown, Bucks county, is the nominee for congressman-at-large.

THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION AT CHICAGO, IN JULY NEXT, WILL CONSIST OF EIGHT HUNDRED AND TWO DELEGATES, AND UNDER THE TWO-THIRDS RULE IT WILL REQUIRE FIVE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIVE VOTES TO NOMINATE. THE CONVENTION AT CINCINNATI, IN 1880, WAS COMPOSED OF SEVEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIVE DELEGATES.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15, 1884.

The end, aim and object of the Democratic party is to protect labor from the reaction of enormous and grinding monopolies. The argument that is urged against tariff reduction is that it will tend to reduce American labor to the condition of the "pauper labor" of foreign countries, which if true should put an end to any debate on tariff reform. But, see if it is true.

To-day the spinners of Fall River, to the number of 30,000, are working on two-thirds time, while every loom in England is running on full time, and while our cotton manufacturers enjoy the protection of average fifty per cent duties, the wages of American operatives are no higher than those of the English spinners. Mr. Shaw, the consul at Manchester, England, in his last report says: "Operatives here are the best paid and most comfortable working class in England, and their influence and wealth are increasing at a rapid rate." Mr. Shaw is a Republican, and yet he gives this unbiased evidence in regard to what we are to call "pauper labor" in free trade England. The Manchester operatives are happy and contented, while the Fall River spinners are fighting, and fighting continually, against a reduction of wages that has aggregated in three years more than sixty-seven per cent, and more now threatened. The contrast is one worthy the study of the politician as well as the political economist. When properly studied out, it is possible that the American operatives may desire to shake off a system that robs them of their earnings under the swindling pretense of protecting them.

Everybody remembers that when the old public functionary, James Buchanan, was President, his beautiful niece, Harriet Lane, presided at the White House, and never, since the days of Mrs. Madison, have the honors of the Executive Mansion been administered with more grace. She at once became so popular that a revenue cutter was christened after her, and once upon a time she accepted an invitation to take passage in the vessel from Washington to New York. This simple act, which was in violation of all precedent in the history of the Republic, called forth a most stern rebuke from the President, about whose ears came animadversions from all parts of the country. How different things are in these days, though hardly two decades have passed since this simple social innovation! The successors of Mr. Buchanan, with the exception of Mr. Johnson, have used the vessels of the navy for purposes of pleasure without regard to time, season or expenditure. Grant led off in the business, Hayes followed it up and Arthur has out done them both by using one vessel for himself during the summers of last year and the year before while he sent his daughter on a juking tour in another. Nor is this all of it, nor the worst of it, for three weeks ago the U. S. man-of-war Yantic was dispatched to the Bahamas by Secretary Chandler to bring home the family of Mr. Edmunds, the upright, the incorruptible and accomplished Senator from Vermont, and who expects to be in a position next year to reciprocate these hospitalities from the Executive Mansion. While it may seem odd that Mr. Edmunds, under the present stress of circumstances, should take a hand in this sort of business, the tax-payers may well pray for a little less of the Edmunds method, and a little more of the Buchanan style of perpetuating national integrity.
