We opine, that whatever claim the Grand Jury may have—for the reasons we have stated—upon the gratitude of His Honor, the Judge, they have small right to expect, under the circumstances, any "thanks" from the community.

Our pious and philosophical contemporary of The American, has lately turned philanthropist, and is devoting itself and its columns, with great enthusiasm, to the discussion and elucidation of what are called social problems. Like other philosophers, our neighbor proposes to begin at the beginning, and has accordingly commenced at the beginning. Within the past few weeks it has favored the world with disquisitions upon "Marriage," "Paternal Gorerment," "Maternal Influence," and "Boys."
Two more articles—on "Girls" and "Nurses," it is supposed,—will complete the series. In the most recent of these lucubrations—that on "Boys," published yesterday—our contemporary pathetically bewails the gradual disappearance of that "species of the genus homo" from the face of the earth. We do not suppose that our contemporary literally means what it says. We take it for species of the genths American from the face of the earth. We do not suppose that our contemporary literally means what it says. We take it for granted, that when it asserts that there are no 'boys''—it is only joking, or, at least, speaking figuratively—a form of expression which it is sometimes known to affect. Neither can we acts passed. off $10,000 worm.

not. For the sake of Religion and Humanity, and for the honor of our City and State, to say nothing of the Nineteenth Century—we hope not. We shudder at the bare possibility of the thing, and leaving a subject which has become too painful to contemplate, turn to consider the closing portions of our contemporary's article. From them, we learn that The American has a "Reform Association" of its own—not like a certain other Association" of its own—not like a certain other Association.

STATEMENT AND BUY SLOAT & Co.'s "and business community" of Baltimore—but one which it takes pleasure in assuring us, "is entirely "free from sectarian influences and political pro-'clivities.'' In other words, it is an Association for the reformation of boys, which, in a quiet and unobtrusive way, seems to be doing a good work in our midst. We cordially wish it success, and doubt not but that it deserves, and will receive that "sympathy and countenance" which our contemporary bespeaks for it. Still-The American is not satisfied. "Boys' Meetings" and "Girls' Meetings" may be useful auxiliaries in their way-but they are not all. The American wants further assistance. It wants-what do you suppose?-ingenuous reader, would you-can you imagine it?-it wants the assistance of the "partizan press''--that fly in the ointment of The American that thorn in the flesh-about which it has been so grievously exercised these many months, and which it has so frequently and ineffectually called upon the citizens of Baltimore to discountenance and punish. It says—we quote its words for the satisfaction of the incredulous—"suppose the con"ductors of the partizan papers of this city" meaning thereby, we presume, all papers which do not belong to the same party with The Amerin-"would lay aside for a short time, their party bitterness, their revilings, open and covert, their slang phrases and polished sentences-all "equally abusive and all equally insipid and "tiresome"—well—we hope we shall be pardoned if we stop to take breath. ANNUAL STATEMENT OF THE TRADE AND The American had the reformation of its contemporaries not less seriously at heart, than that of the "boys." Of its good advice, as we have seen, it is lavish. We only regret that it should be so chary-of what might go farther-its good example; that in an exhortation to "lay aside bitterness." it should have betrayed so much bitterness itself,ents, the other day, in a place where courtesies benevolent and Christian enterprise, there should
