Adventures of a Female Sailor.

Fifteen years ago a fair and ardent girl of fourteen, residing in a certain part of New York State, became so fractious under a parental dtscipline that accorded ill with her irrepressible nature, that her maternal undertook to bring her to reason by the aid of that presentment of leather which little boys regard as capable of communicating rather more temporary warmth to the system than an ordinary cooking-stove. The maiden bore the infliction with commendable heroism, but improved the first opportunity thereafter to elope from the scene of her sufferings. Going to Boston, she there purchased and donned a complete outfit of masculine attire, cut off her hair, and sauntered to the wharves with a marine determination. Adventures of a Female Sailor.

her hair, and sauntered to the wharves with a marine determination.

It was not long before she found a captain of a China-bound ship, who willingly agreed to take her a voyage with him as a cabin-boy; and to the Celestial Kingdom she went, without betraying her sex or her ship. The voyage was a long one, lasting no less than five years; and when the vessel re-appeared in Boston harbor it was as mate that our distinguished heroine trod the decks. Her good conduct had won promotion for her, through all the intermediate grades. Upon receiving her appointment she could no longer keep her secret, but with true womanly confidence informed the good-looking next-highest officer of her womanhood. Like a sensible man and sailor, this officer at once fell in love with her, and the twain were privately married, having previously determined, however, that the disguise should still be kept up.

The happy couple occupied the same stateroom, on the next outward passage, without exciting suspicion. The voyage was a long one; and on the arrival of the vessel at Marseilles, the young mate, having been prompt in her sailor, duties as before received comission.

one; and on the arrival of the vessel at long one; and on the arrival of the vessel at Marseilles, the young mate, having been prompt in her sailor-duties, as before, received permission from the captain to go ashore for two weeks. At the expiration of this leave, she came aboard again; but not until she had committed to the care of an honest French couple a wee bit of humanity in her own image.

The ship sailed again for America, and once more furled her sails at the wharves of the City of Notions. During the absence of the craft, the owners had built a new and larger vessel, the command of which they conferred upon our heroine's husband. He accepted the position gratefully, and at once appointed his still disguised wife first mate of the vessel.—The new ship made a prosperous trip around Cape Horn to San Francisco, where a contract was made for her to go out to the Sandwich

The new ship made a prosperous trip around Cape Horn to San Francisco, where a contract was made for her to go out to the Sandwich Islands for a cargo, and back. She made the trip, and then, after cruising about from one port to another, started once more for home, Half the passage was accomplished, when the captain died, and his wife took command, and brought the vessel safely to Boston, when the owners offered her half-ownership, and the captaincy of the ship. Wishing to visit her child at Marseilles, she was obliged to decline this handsome offer, and took passage immediately in a steamer for Europe.

Arriving at Marseilles, she visited the spot where she left her babe; but, to her horror, the house even was gone, and she could get no intelligence of her missing babe. As a last resource, she enlisted the aid of the police, who finally succeeded in discovering that, some three years before, the husband of the woman to whom she had entrusted the child, had died, leaving his wife without means of support.—She had relatives living at Belcastre, in Naples, and thither she had gone for help, taking her youthful charge with her, using for her travelling expenses the money that had been forwarded, just previous to the death of her husband, by the mother of the child. To Belcastre, accordingly, the anxious mother took her way, and on her arrival there, learned that forwarded, just previous to the death of her husband, by the mother of the child. To Belcastre, accordingly, the anxious mother took her way, and on her arrival there, learned that the woman and child had been there, but that the relatives of the former would give her no aid, and that she was obliged to go elsewhere in search of employment; where she had gone and what had become of her none could tell.

Our heroine still refused to be discouraged, and continued the search perseveringly and vainly for two years. At last she was repaid for her labor of love. One day, while passing through a ward in a hospital at Florence, her attention was attracted by the groans of a poor woman who lay dying in one of the rooms, with a handsome boy weeping over her. She approached and heard her own name murmured by the sufferer. In another moment she was on her knees beside the bed, clasping the sick one's hands in her own, and asking her the question she almost dreaded to hear auswered. The answer was in the affirmative, and with her last breath the dying woman restored to the mother the child as hed. and with her last breath the dying woman re-stored to the mother the child she had been so long looking for. Scarcely was the faithful creature dead when the impatient mother undid the jacket of the weeping boy, and discovered about his neck a little trinket her own hauds had placed there years before. Mother and son immediately proceeded to Havre, from whence they sailed for this country, and are now residing in the city of Detroit.

A CANDID DEACON.—Deacon H. was an honest old codger, a kind, obliging neighbor, and a good church-going Christian believing, in the Presbyterian creed to the fullest extent; alackaday! this pillar of the church was, at times, a little "shaky"—in fact, the deacon would, occasionally, get exceedingly "mellow;" and almost every Sunday at dinner he would indulge in his favorite cider-brandy to such an extent that it was with some difficulty he reached his pew, which was in the broad aisle, near the pulpit, and between the minister's and the village squire's. One Sunday morning the parson told his flock that he should preach a sermon to them in the afternoon, and the vinage squire's. One Sunday morning the parson told his flock that he should preach a sermon to them in the afternoon, touching many glaring sins that he grieved to see so conspicuous among them: and that he hoped they would listen attentively, and not flinch if he should happen to be severe. The afternoon came, and the house was full; every-body turned out to hear their neighbors "dressed down" by the minister, who, after well opening his sermon, commenced upon the transgressors in loud voice, with the question—"Where is the drunkard?" A solemn pause succeeded this inquiry; when up rose Deacon H., with his face radiant from copious draughts of his favorite drink at his noontide meal, and steadying himself as well as he could by the pew-rail, looked up to the parson and replied, in a piping and tremulous voice—"Here I am." Of course, a consternation amongst the congregation was the result of the honest deacon's response; however, the parson went on with his remarks as he had written them, commenting severely upon the parson went on with his remarks as he had written them, commenting severely upon the drunkard, and winding up by warning him to forsake at once such evil habits if he would seek salvation and flee the coming wrath.—
The deacon then made a bow and seated himself again. "And now," out spoke the preacherman in his loudest tones, "where is the hypocrite?" A pause—but no one responded.—
Eyes were turned upon this and that man; but the most glances seemed directed to the 'squire's pew, and indeed the parson seemed to squint hard in that direction. The deacon saw where the shaft was leveled, or where it should be aimed, and rising once more leaned over be aimed, and rising once more leaned over his pew-rail to the 'squire, whom he tapped on the shoulder, and thus addressed: "Come, 'squire, why don't you get up? I did when he called on me."

Borrowers.—I detest a man or woman who is forever borrowing from his or her neighbor; but of all borrowers I despise newspaper borrowers the most. There are hundreds of men who like to read the papers, but are too mean to pay for them, and depend entirely upon their neighbors for their reading-matter.

There are men and women who can well afford to furnish their kitchens with every necessary article, yet who, week after week, month after month, borrow some article for cooking-purposes from their neighbors.

There are men and women who borrow every book they read, and return them to their owners, oftentimes, soiled and dilapidated, without a blush of shame.

There are men who are constantly borrowing

There are men who are constantly borrowing money, and sometimes forget to pay it back. For my part, I consider an habitual borrower little better than a thief.

A fellow, one of the volunteers to the 16th Regiment, being under medical examination at Augusta, was refused because of a rupture. He was a stout double-fisted fellow, and terribly anxious to enlist. Unable to contain himself, when the sad news of his rejection was nimeti, when the sad news of his rejection was announced, he strode blubberingly across the rotunda articulating as well as his grief would permit him: "Marm told the recruiting officer I was BREACHY as the d——I, and she knew they wouldn't take me, Oh dear, Oh dear," and the agonized accents of the tearful patriot died away on the ears of the dumbfounded officials.

"STONEWALL" JACKSON.—In view of the facility with which this famous Rebel moves himself from field to field, it is suggested that his sobriquet be changed from "Stonewall" to "Portable Fence Jackson."—[Vanity Fair.

PORTLAND DAILY PRESS: EDITED BY

JOHN T. GILMAN, recently of the BATH TIMES.

9 00 @ 8 75 8 25 @ 8 50

JOSEPH B. HALL, of the AROOSTOOK HERALD. The PORTLAND DAILY PRESS is intended to be an enterprising, vigorous and live Daily Morning Paper, containing the latest and fullest news by mail and telegraph. THE MAINE STATE PRESS Is a large, well-filled, carefully edited, and neatly printed weekly paper, intended specially for general circulation throughout the State.

Both of the above named papers will labor to inculcate, in no dictatorial spirit, sound political principles and to promote the material interests of the State, and of the City of Portland as its interests twine with, and are inseparable from, those of the Politically, the PRESS will give an earnest, cordial, and generous support to the administration of Abra-HAM LINCOLN, who in little more than one year, has indellibly impressed himself upon the nation's heart as an incorruptible patriot, an inflexible Chief Magistrate, and an honest man; the ability of whose ad-ministration is most signally exhibited, not only in the matchless operations of our army and navy, but in the unparalleled fact that, in the midst of this in the unparalleled fact that, in the midst or this gigantic rebellion, our Government securities are selling at a premium. It will zealously labor to ex-hibit and defend sound Republican principles, and, inasmuch as political organizations have become a necessity in carrying into effect great principles of political economy, and inasmuch as the Republican party which, in the brief chapter of its history already written, has successfully refuted the allegation of its enemies that its designs and tendencies were sectional, and triumphantly vindicated its claim to a just and liberal Nationality, has remained steadfast in its devotion to the Union while other organizations have so generally become infected with a disloyal spirit, and inasmuch as it is the only party which at present seems competent to conserve the great principles underlying all free Governments, the Press will cordially sustain the organization of that party, not with a design to foster a mere partizan spirit, but in the full coniciousness that it embodies the true principles upon which our government rests, and af-fords the only available means of accomplishing such results as a lofty patriotism imperatively demands.

It will neither seek nor endorse any compromises with men in rebellion against the laws of the land, but will inculcate loyalty to the great central idea of all true democracy—that the majority must govern.

Upon the exciting question of Domestic Slavery, it may be proper to say, that while the Press will sanction no interference with the constitutional or legal rights of loyal men, it will neither apologize for an evil which constitutes the foulest blot upon our national character, nor attempt to resist the tide of events that seems destined to sweep from existence an institution which is the greatest anomaly in a free government. The emancipation of slavery in the federal Capital, the co-operation of the Federal with federal Capital, the co-operation of the rederal with the loyal State governments, to secure gradual eman-cipation, as proposed by President Lincoln, and all other constitutional measures looking to a peaceful removal of our greatest "moral, political and social evil," will find in the Priess a generous and hearty support.

While thus distinctly announcing the general course proposed for the Press, and intending that, alike in war and in peace—in our country's peril and in its triumph, it shall speak with no uncertain voice, we do not lose sight of the fact that true men have honestly differed, and that, coming by different routes they now find themselves travelling parallel roads; and, instead of seeking to widen the differences between those who are required by a common patriot-ism to act in concert, the Press will labor hopefully to encourage unity of purpose and harmony of action among all loyal men.

Aside from its political department, the Prinss will be earnestly devoted to the advancement of the best interests of the city and State. Its Local Department will in no case be neglected. Particular atten-tion will be given to the Commercial and Maritime interests. It will be the aim of its conductors to make it an indispensable institution of the State, and a ge-nial and welcome visitor in every work-shop, count-ing-house, and family circle. The Editors, not unknown to the people of Maine, will give their undivided energies to the work before them, and labor to make such a paper as the city of Portland, the State of Maine, and the exigencies of the times demandone that shall be true to the popular instincts.

THE PORTLAND DAILY PRESS is printed with en-tirely new type, on a sheet as large as that of any daily in Maine, and issued every morning, (Sundays excepted,) at $5 per annum. Subscriptions for less than six months, 50 cents per month.

and well filled with the news of the week, and orig-inal and selected Political, Agricultural, Literary and Miscellaneous reading, making it specially adapted to the Family Circle, will be issued weekly, at $1.50 per year, idvariably in advance. To any person sending the names of fire new subscribers, cash in advance, an extra copy will be sent gratis. N. A. FOSTER, J. T. GILMAN, J. B. HALL. Portland, May 19, 1862.

PRIVATE CONSULTATIONS.—Dr. Hughes has for a number of years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class. During his practice he has treated thousands of cases, and in no instance has he met with a failure. The remedies are mild, and there is no interruption of business or change of diet. Dr. Hughes is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning until 10 at night, at his office, 5 Temple street. Charges moderate, and a cure guaranteed in all cases. Separate rooms, so that no one will be seen but the Dr. himself. His remedies cure disease when all other remedies fail; cures without dicting, or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of more other remedies; cures new cases in a few hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but is sure to annihilate the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless the proper remedy is used. The ingredients are entirely vegetable, and no injurious effect, either constitutionally or locally, can be caused by using them.

LP BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! No ac genuine and warranted unless purchased directly of Dr. M. at his REMEDIAL INSTITUTE FOR SPECIAL DISEASES, No. 28 Union Street, Providence, R. I.

LP This speciality embraces all diseases of a private nature both of MEN and WOMEN, by a regularly educated physician of twenty years' practice, giving his whole attention to them.

LP Consultations by letter or otherwise are strictly confidential, and medicines will be sent by Express, secure from observation, to all parts of the United States. Also, accommodations for LADIES from abroad wishing for a secure and quiet Retreat, with good care until restored to health.

CAUTION—It has been estimated that over two hundred thousand dollars are paid to swindling quacks annually, in New England alone, without any benefit to those who pay it. Most of this sum comes out of a class of persons who are the least able to lose it, but once paid they can never get it back, and they are compelled to suffer the wrong in silence, not daring to expose the cheat for fear of exposing themselves. All this comes from trusting, without inquiry, to men who are alike destitute of honor, character, and skill, and whose only recommendation is their own false and extravagant assertions, in praise of themselves. If, therefore, you would avoid being humbugged, take no man's word, no matter what his professions are, but MAKE INQUIRY:—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrees; for as advertising physicians, in nine cases out of ten are boyus, there is no safety in trusting any of them, unless you know who and what they are. less you know who and what they are.

* Dr. M. will send frier, by euclosing one stamp
as above, a Pamphled on DISEASES OF WOMEN, and on Private Diseases generally: giving most full information, with the most undoubted references and testimonials, without which no advertising physician or medicine of this kind is deserving of ANY CONFI-
