Commencing Jan. 1, 1865, the following regulations will be rigidly observed by the Proprietors of 1. No papers will be delivered by Carriers except to those who have subscribed at the office.

2. No Carrier will be allowed to sell papers on his route, or to collect money from subscribers.

3. Persons who have been accustomed to pay the Carriers by the week will be dropped from the list at that time, unless they shall previously call at the office and comply with the terms of subscription. 4. Carriers will collect money from weekly subscribers until Jan. 1st, but if found guilty of violating the foregoing rules they will be discharged.

The publishers of the Press are obliged to adopt method above set forth in order to protect thems against abuses, and also to relieve the Car riers from embarrassing duties which have often de-layed them in the delivery of their papers, to the great inconvenience of subscribers.

Horse Railroad.-It will be noticed by our advertising columns, that the Horse Railroad Co., have declared a dividend of $5 per share, payable the first day of February. This will be gratifying intelligence, especially to those who subscribed and paid for the stock when there was but a slight prospect for any returns for some years. That it would eventually be remunerated very few have doubted, but to have the convenience and advantages of such an institution, and at the same time have it pay its way from the commencement was what very few expected; especially in view of the unprecedented high price of materials which enter into the construction of the road and expenses of running it. The road has been in full operation only three or four months, and we understand that most of this dividend has been earned during that time. Contrary to expectations the daily receipts this winter are sufficient to pay the running ex-penses, and if they can live through the winter without losing money, they must be able to do a very handsome business next summer. Great credit is due the officers for the successful management of this institution. The annual meeting for choice of officers takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the company's rooms, opposite the Preble House.

IN MEMORIAM .- Rev. J. E. Walton, at the 3d Parish Church yesterday, delivered a New Year's discourse on the passage from Psalm 102: 11, "My days are like a shadow that declineth." After a beautiful illustration of the is too. words of the text, and the lesson to be drawn from it, he alluded in touching terms to the loss sustained by the society and the city in the recent death of Hon. John M. Wood, and paid a merited tribute to the worth of the deceased. He then addressed the mourners in a most expressive and touching manner. It was like heart speaking to heart, when souls are bowed down in grief, and drew tears from the eyes of the large concourse assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory

Some half dozen pews in front of the pulpit were reserved for, and occupied by the widow, brother and sister of the deceased, and those who had heretofore been connected with him in his business, and some of his most intimate

MR. EDITOR:-A few weeks since there ap peared in your paper an amusing jew d'esprit, containing an appeal for "purer air," evidently written by some half-suffocated church goer. Its arguments were most cogent, and I would suggest that they be brought to the notice of persons having charge of the arrange west and ventilation of our City Hall on l ture nights. For several evenings the air in the hall has been so hot and close that it was impossible either to speak or to listen with any degree of comfort. To avoid fainting outright, ladies have been obliged to rise and struggle out through the crowd, thus causing a confusion painful to themselves and annoying to every one else. On the night of Hon.

ONE OF THE SUFFERERS. THE FARIE OF VISHNU closed his exhibition here Saturday evening after the most unprecedented run of full houses that we have ever seen in Portland. The truth is he does things "on the square." His performances are highly amusing, and the gifts he distributes are all of them useful and some of them valuable. His matinee Saturday afternoon was perfect success, the hall being literally jammed with ladies and children. The sewing machine was drawn by Mrs. A. B. Stephenson, No. 5 State Street. The evening performance was attended by as many as could get inside the hall. Mrs. Jos. Bryant, No. 7 Middle street, eral Troops on the North Side of the James and at the White House-Federal Raid from Memphis — The Richmond Examiner on Gen. Sherman's Movements.

The Richmond Examiner of the 29th ult. The Richmond Examiner of the 29th ult. has the following:

Wilmington, N. C., Dec. 28.—The Federal fleet has disappeared; only the usual blockaders remain. Gen. Bragg reports that with the present disposition of means and forces no danger need be apprehended. Had reinforcements arrived sooner we might have captured many prisoners. The enemy drew up a semicircle and poured a concentric fire into Fort. Fisher, destroying every house and ploughing up the ground. Col. Lamb's garrison deserve much credit, as well as the Junior Reserves. The enemy threw overboard many horses in the gale and suffered much otherwise. There was another gale last night.

The Richmond Examiner of the 29th says: The enemy shelled our lines between Dunlap's and Petersburg yesterday with great vigor but absolutely with no effect. Our batteries wasted no ammunition in reply.

There is a rumor that the Yankee troops are again crossing to the north bank of the James, again crossing to the north bank of the James, but they made no appearance in front of the lines of Richmond. It is also reported that the enemy's vessels appeared in York River, and that some troops had been landed at the

and that some troops had been landed at the White House.

The Examiner says in an ironical item:—If Porter had thrown Butler overboard perhaps no storm would have blown the fleet to sea and deranged the physique and morale of the invincible armands. The Examiner also says: "An official telegram of the War Department states that two brigades of negro troops and one of White's cavalry left Memphis Dec. 31st, moving on the State line road. The advance reached Fayette depot on the 22d. The object of the movement is undeveloped."

The Richmond Whig of the 27th considers the only point gained in the capture of Savannah is its moral effect, and that is not much. In a military point of view it thinks Savannah was of no value to the rebels whatever. The Whig expects Sherman to move on Richmond and says: "He is the very genius we desire to see, and he will bring with him some o those Western veterans whose metal we desir to test, for Grant has with him only some sevee thousand veterans and the rest are the riff-ran of creation, to defeat whom is no honor."

Rebel deserters have recently reported that the authorities at Richmond were discussing and maturing a movement which would astonish the world. This effect would doubtless be produced if the following, from the Alexandria, Virginia, Journal is worthy of credit in connection with this subject, viz: We learn from persons who seem to have been informed in regard to the secrets of the secession leaders that a plan is seriously dissussed by the rebel authorities for the sudden massing of all their available forces in Virginia in the event of their affairs becoming desperate and marching into the northern states with the determination to conquor or die in the attempt.

Rumored Proposed Removal of the Rebel Capital—Mail from Gen. Sherman's Army —New Command for Gen. Howard—Sher-man's Army again on the Move.

MEW YORK, Jan. 1.

The Herald editorially thinks that Lee is about to transfer his army, ordnance, magazine, &c., and the rebel Capital, President, Cabinet and Congress to Danville.

The mail brought by the Argo recently from Sherman's army contained over 200,000 letters, being the largest single mail ever received at the New York post-office.

Secretary Seward replied jealously of foreign intervention in any form, and absolute nonintervention in the domestic affairs of foreign nations are cardinal principles in the policy of the United States. You have therefore justly expected that the President would disavow and regret the proceedings at Bahia; he will suspend Capt. Collins, and direct him to appear before a court martial.

The Consul at Bahia admits that he advised and incited the captain, and was active in the proceedings; he will therefore be dismissed—The flag of Brazil will receive from the United States Navy the honor customary in the intercourse of friendly maritime powers.

The Secretary takes occasion to say this government disallows the assumption that the insurgents of this country are lawful naval belligerants, and maintains that ascription of that character by the government of Brazil to insurgent citizens of the United States who hitherto have been, and still are destitute of naval forces, ports and courts, is an act of intervention and derogation of the laws of nations and unfiendly, and wrong, as it is manifestly injurious to the United States.

Secretary Seward also says although the crew of the Florida are enemies of the United States, and, as they contend, of the human race, yet offenders, were nevertheless unlawfully brought into custody of this government, and to punishment which they have deserved, nor could they, being enemies, be allowed to enjoy protection of the United States. They will therefore be set at liberty, and seek refuge wherever they may find it, with the hazard of recapture when beyond the jurisdiction of this government.

During the two years we have been in this city. During the two years we have been in this city, we have cured some of the worst forms of disease in persons who have tried other forms of treatment in vain, and curing patients in so shorts a time that the question is often asked, do they stay cured? To answer this question we will say that all that do not stay cured, we will doot of the second time for nothing.
