A FAMILY AFFAIR

BY HUGH CONWAY.

CHAPTER I.

A scene of some animation was the scene of the gay wedding which had been arranged as an event of great social importance. The bride and groom were of the highest social standing, and the wedding was expected to be a grand spectacle.

The bride was a beautiful young woman, and the groom was a handsome young man. They were the talk of the town, and everyone was excited about the wedding.

The ceremony was held in the town hall, and the town clerk was in charge of the proceedings. The couple was married in a simple yet elegant ceremony.

The reception was held in the town hall, and the guest list included all the important people in the town. The couple was showered with gifts, and the guests enjoyed a grand banquet.

After the reception, the couple left for their honeymoon in a chariot. They were seen driving down the main street, and the townspeople were thrilled to see them. The couple was truly a sight to behold.

The wedding was a great success, and the couple lived happily ever after. They were a perfect match, and everyone wished them well.
