Our time for clubbing with other papers expired last Saturday. We will not receive subscriptions for any of the St. Paul or Minneapolis papers after this date. It is too much of a nuisance to send in straggling names' buy drafts and pay postage right along for weeks. However, at the request of several parties who could not secure the where-withal in time to pay their subscription to the UNION prior to the 3rd inst., we will continue our offer to furnish the UNION to Jan. 1st, 1892, for $1.50, until the 17th, inst. Positively no further extension will be granted. After that date the regular subscription price of $2.00 will be charged. Remember, after Jan. 17th, it will cost you $2.00 for a years subscription to the UNION. We have a few copies of "Caesars Column" still left, which will be furnished to UNION subscribers at 25 cts per book. Those who are not subscribers can have a copy at 50 cts each.

Prof. Guy Ewing and wife departed for Bradleyville, Mo., last Saturday morning. They were escorted to the depot by a big delegation of friends, friends who hated to see them leave Princeton. Prof. Ewing came here from Ohio ten years ago; he taught six consecutive terms of school in Wyandett; then he removed to Princeton, and acceptably filled the position of principal of the village schools for seven years. At times he had four instructors and over 200 pupils under his charge, yet he performed the duties of his arduous and responsible position in a manner highly creditable to himself and satisfactory to the officers and patrons of the school. Mr. Ewing and his estimable wife, during their residence here, were the life of all social gatherings, concerts and literary entertainments. The editor is especially under obligations to Mr. Ewing for valuable aid rendered on many occasions. Mr. and Mrs. Ewing's friends in Princeton and vicinity, and they are legion, wish them all sorts of good fortune in their Missouri home, and will be always ready to welcome them back to the North Star State.
