"My half-page ad in last week's Union proved most satisfactory," says Mr. Anderson. During the week of the remnant sale the store was continually packed with customers and it kept a large corps of clerks busy supplying their wants. "It pays to advertise in the Union," declares Mr. Anderson.

A state public building inspector was here on Monday and, after examining the village lockup, said he would recommend that the same be condemned upon the grounds that it was perilous to life in consequence of the fact that it would be almost impossible in case of fire for a prisoner to escape cremation.

With the average farmer the interest on the investment of money in a substantial machinery shed will amount to just about one-fourth of the annual deterioration in the value of machinery that is not put under cover. Housing machinery would therefore seem to be not a mere whim, but a dollars and cents proposition.—Heatwole's Dairy Paper.

There are merchants who entertain an idea that, during the quiet season of the year it does not pay to advertise. But that is a great mistake. Advertising is just what is needed to stir up business—to convert the quiet times into busy ones. Special sales of remnants and other accumulations properly advertised in dull times will bring astonishing results. Try it.

3rd Semi-Annual

CLEARANCE SALE

Beginning Saturday, Feb. 1st

we will begin to clear out our entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing at greatly reduced prices. We do this for three reasons. First. Because we need the room for an immense line of spring and summer goods which is now about to arrive. Second. We need the money. Last but not least, because it isn't good business policy to carry goods from one season to the next. We had rather knock off all the profit and part of the cost and sell out completely at the end of each season.

During this sale everything goes at a big reduction. Some things are sold for 50 percent off, others for 33 1/3 percent off, and still others for 25 percent off. Absolutely everything has been materially reduced. Those who attended our former sales won't need urging to get them here this time. Others should come and see for themselves. Please note the following:
