Mr .Editor: While in a reminiscent mood, recently, I was reminded that THE APPEAL was started in the year 1985 and therefore will pass the 25th milestone of its existence this year. What a number of interesting events have taken place during these

PROGRAM TO twenty-five years, what wonderful advancements have been made by the Afro-American citizens of the Twin Cities in all lines of life! And as I was one of its early promoters and know much of its history, ! believe it is no small thing for a newspaper to live for a quarter of a century under the circumstances which have surrunded THE AP-PEAL, and it seems to me that some sort of celebration of the event would be eminently fit and proper. and, I also believe that the citizens of the Twin Cities whom you have served so faithfully and well would gladly join in making the event one ong to be remembered.

My idea is that a souvenir edition of THE APPEAL be published containing a chronological history of the events that have transpired during fully recovered from an operation, is its existence, cuts and sketches of very sick at her residence, 2439 prominent men and women, cuts of Fourth avenue south. the beautiful homes that so many have become the happy possessors of, and numerous other matters of interest that would make such an edition a most valuable one for us all. Then as a grand finale a public testimonial celebration in some large hall on the anniversary day of THE APPEAL'S bith or such other day that in your judgment is more suitable, in which all may take a part in making the event one of the largest ever held I would suggest, if the idea meets

Minneapolis, Minn., May 4, 1910. My Dear Mr. Adams: Several weeks ago I read an oper letter in THE APPEAL, which suggested a celebration of its 25th anniversary. It is the right thing to do, and I am heartily in favor of it. Having been a reader of your paper ever since it was first published, and a sincere admirer of the tenacity with which you have held on to the life of your journal, supplying a demand no others have been able to fill, I believe it is an obligation the whole community owes you, and that you justly deserve recognition and merit whatever form the occasion may present. I shall be pleased to render any sistance in my power to give. Yours very truly. lone E. Gibbs. Pres. Afro-Amer. W. S. Federation.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16. Mr. Editor: Very few of the newspapers of our ace can show a record of twenty-five rears' existence and as THE APPEAL has that distinction we of the Northwest are very proud of it. It is the only paper we have in the state and its Quarto-Centennial celebration is quite in order.

Count on me to do all in my power to help make it a great success, Respectfully, Frederick C. Nelson,

WATER NECESSARY FOR LIFE

Proof That Wine Will Not Serve the Purpose Where Frenchmen Are Concerned.

The French schooner Argus, struggling against headwinds to get from Dieppe to Marseilles, according to the dispatches, ran out of water and for three days the crew had nothing but champagne and claret to drink. Nearly every man was disabled by fever and acute gastritis. It was with the greatest gratitude that the captain of the Argus 'swapped several cases of champagne for a few barrels of water from the Oceana, a Bombay liner.

Pathologists will say correctly that there is nothing new in this experience. That wine will not take the place of water and keep men in good condition, has been known as long as wine has been known. Three elements, however, in the story of the Argus make it a striking lesson, emphasizing an old truth. First, the men were Frenchmen, with the Frenchman's habit of taking wine daily; second, the wines they drank as a substitute for water were presumably pure. and the claret at least was relatively light; third, the three days is a very short period for the disabling of a whole crew.

It is mighty lucky for the human race that a water trust is conceded impracticable.
