W. H. REAMS TO OPERATE CAFE

W. H. Reams who some time ago operated the Acme Club Cafe, 317½ Wabasha street, will again assume the management of the cafe, starting Monday morning, January 1, 1923.

During the time Mr. Reams had charge of the cafe, the brand of cooking and the meals he turned out, brought many new customers to the cafe. Under his management the cafe did more business and made more satisfied diners than any other previous management.

According to Mr. Reams he will conduct his business in the usual progressive manner. In addition to the present counter system now in service, he will open a new dining room for ladies and gentlemen. In connection with this dining room, Mr. Reams plans to give extra service and at number features to attract women patronage.

Many of Mr. Reams' friends welcome the news of his return to the cafe business here as extremely good news. He should do well. He is a prominent Elk, also a member of the Shriner lodge of Indianapolis, Ind.

Lincoln Club Elects Officers

Dr. George O. Orr Made President at Annual Meeting

Dr. George O. Orr was advanced from vice president to president of the Lincoln Republican club at the annual meeting Friday evening in the probate court rooms of the Court House. Rev. A. C. Haase was elected to succeed Dr. Orr as vice president. Herber P. Keller, treasurer, and George M. Landon secretary, were re-elected.

Decision to incorporate the club was made at the meeting. Articles of incorporation will be filed soon, it was announced. Dr. E. H. Haas, retiring president, presented his report for the year.

Tentative plans were made for the annual banquet of the club, taking place, as usual, February 12, the anniversary of Lincoln's birth. Both members and their wives will be invited.

Disabled Soldiers May Still Apply For Compensation

Some confusion has been caused by the widespread publication of the statement that applications for vocational training could not be received by the United States Veterans' Bureau after December 16, which date was fixed by law. This was interpreted to mean that no claims of any kind could be filed after that date. This is a wrong conclusion. It is required that claims for compensation shall be filed within five years from date of discharge or resignation from the service, or in case of death during the service, within five years after such death is officially recorded in the department under which he may be serving.

If at the time any right accrues to any person, such person is of unsound mind or physically unable to make a claim, the time provided shall not begin to run until such disability ceases.

Therefore, claims for compensation may still be received, provided the death or disability comes within the requirements of the paragraphs above.

It is highly desirable, however, that men who have any disability which they believe was incurred in the service should file their application at once. The longer the application is deferred, the more difficult it becomes to establish the connection between the disability and the man's military or naval service.

EMPLOYERS TAKE NOTICE!

If live, wideawake, well trained men in any line of employment are needed, they may be secured through the employment service of the United States Veterans' Bureau, Minneapolis, Minn., C. D. Hibbard, district manager.

These veterans have been trained at government expense, are skilled, competent, and eager to make good. All they ask is an opportunity.

Men in training in the following lines are immediately available: Acetylene welder, auto electrician, auto electrician and battery man, five auto mechanics, accountant, seven bookkeepers, stenographer, two building estimators, bank clerk, commercial teacher, creamery operator, drummer, mechanical dentist, electrician, embalmer, farmer, three grain samplers, machinist, motion picture operator, painter, specially salesman, sign painter and show card writer, stationery steam engineer, transit man, telephone switchboard maintenance, two vulcanizers and battery men, vulcanizer, violin teacher, undertaker, undertaker and embalmer, welder, watchmakers.

The Veterans' Bureau will furnish a complete statement of each man's training, experience, and characteristics similar to the following, only more complete: 42 years old; married. Good physical condition. Has had eighteen months institutional training followed by eighteen months on the job. Experienced. Man has good personality, is a very good worker, industrious and capable.

Howard Dental Graduates Make Excellent Records

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—According to reports which have been received the work of the three Howard dental graduates who are serving an internship in the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, Boston, Mass., the first institution to be established in this country for the free treatment and care of children's teeth, is worthy of much praise. In the recent efficiency examination in which forty-four of the fifty internes at this infirmary participated only thirteen passed, three of these successful participants were the three Howard men now serving at the infirmary. The three Howard dental graduates are Doctors Arnold B. Donowa, Paul H. Alexander, and John Chiles. All three members of the class of 1922 of the Howard University School of Dentistry.

Dr. Donowa is at present chief operator of the X-ray clinic and checks up the work of all root clinical operators. Dr. Chiles was senior operator in anaesthesia clinic and is at present senior operator of extracting clinic in the afternoon. Dr. Alexander has the honor of being assigned to three major clinics, was senior operator in orthopedic clinic and at present is senior operator in extracting clinic in the morning. Dr. Donowa enjoys the reputation of being the best interne on the staff.

The fifty internes at the Forsyth Dental Infirmary represent the following dental schools: Northwestern Dental School, University of California School of Dentistry, the University of Pennsylvania Dental School, Baltimore College of Dental and Oral Surgery, Tufts School of Dentistry, Harvard Dental School, University of Minnesota, University of Marquette, University of North Dakota, Howard University School of Dentistry, and New York College of Dental and Oral Surgery.

RAINY DAY MANNERS

"When the dismal rain comes down in slanting lines."

SO MUCH depends on good manners on a rainy day!

The ill-bred and inconsiderate man or woman is tiresome enough at any time, but when there is rain in the air and mud underfoot he or she is positively unendurable.

One has to be especially careful in walking in a crowded street when pedestrians carry open umbrellas, and considerable forbearance and good nature are required when by chance another person's opened umbrella becomes entangled in your veil or in the trimming on your hat. Closed wet umbrellas are likewise difficult to manage, especially in public conveyances. Be on your guard lest they lean or drip against your neighbor. When entering a public place—a library, or restaurant or church, for instance—where there is any way to leave a wet umbrella in the vestibule or the entrance hall do so by all means. In many department stores a boy with a checking rack is placed at the doors for your convenience and, although you are not required to check your wet umbrella, there is usually the desire that you will. Take the few additional minutes that are necessary for this operation and so avoid annoying other people with your wet umbrella.

In many homes there is an umbrella receptacle in the vestibule and when entering you can very conveniently leave your wet umbrella there. Your rubbers can also be slipped off in the entrance hall in which it is more convenient to deposit your wet umbrella and rubbers, but whatever you do, do not cling to these wet possessions when you go into the living quarters of the house.

If friends come to your house on a rainy day it is only the part of hospitality to offer aid in removing their damp garments and in urging them to take a chair near the fire or other heat.

If you have accepted an invitation for a certain day and it chances to be rainy you should not permit that fact to keep you from being present unless by so doing you would actually be endangering your health.

Clothes Protection Is the Most Important Feature of a Wardrobe Trunk

There is only one arrangement that absolutely prevents clothes from wrinkling. That arrangement is patented and is an exclusive feature of Hartmann Wardrobe trunks. This reason alone—without considering its many other exclusive comfort conveniences is sufficient to account for the preference of well-groomed people for Hartmann Wardrobe Trunks.
