HEAD OF KAKAAKO MISSION IS BACK

P. W. Rider, superintendent of the Kakaako Mission, returned home from a three-months' visit to the mainland on the Hilonian yesterday, after travel-ing about 7000 miles. He went to New York to visit his daughter, and while there visited the waterfront missions. He then went to Ohio and visited his birthplace, which he left in 1862 to enter the Union Army, and found five people living there yet who were his hoyhood friends. He met his sister, whom he had not seen for thirty-one years. In Chicago he spent considerable time looking into the juvenile work of the settlements and missions, and in his travels he has picked up many ideas about the treatment of juveniles, which he hopes to put to

While in San Francisco he visited K. while in San Francisco de Visices the pineapple repacking establishment of Ginaea and Fred Haley, where Ha-waiian pines are recrated and distribut-ed. He says they are a busy due of Honolulans, employing about eight men er, Mrs. Lidgate, Miss R. Ioha, Mrs. L to crate the pines. While he was at R. Emmans, Master Emmans, Mrs to crate the pines. While he was at the warehouse eight wagonloads of pines were sent out. Very few of the pines appeared to be damaged. He states that Ginaca expressed the opinion that the local shippers would do well to send their fruit to them so that there should be one general distribut.

ONE WRIGHT TO LIVE CHICAGO, July 22.—A Washington special to the Inter Ocean says:

It is a grewsomely interesting fact that the Wright brothers never fly together. The reason is simple. An acwhen Orville Wright and Licut. Sel-fridge were precipitated to the earth, might kill both the brothers. This is a tragedy they are guarding against.

Orville Wright has declared that dur-ing their long course of experiments for the development of an aeroplane he and his brother never attempted to fly together. The Wright brothers are a close corporation, and they have not communi-cated to anybody the scientific discovcries during their long investigations of the problem of aerial navigation. If both should be killed by an untimely accident, their secret would die with them, and they have wisely decided not to risk aunihilation at a single disaster. They are unemotional men and realize that death may overtake them at any time. If it should some it would visit thom singly.

HIGHER WAGE SECRETARY SQUIRMS

(Continued from Page One.) his questions and the way they were worded and the intonation with which they were delivered were really an argument to the jury.

Talks Too Much.

Negoro proved a bad witness in his own behalf, largely because he talked too much. J. Lightfoot, his attorney, states that he had advised his clients to answer frankly and without evasion the questions put to them by opposing counsel. Perhaps it was partly the attempt to do this, perhaps partly the natural aversion of the witness to make statements that might tend to put him-Negoro proved a bad witness in hts self and his companions in a bad light, but certainly, his long, stammering, hesitating explanations produced a bad effect. It is apparent that he has to frame his replies in Japanese in his own mind and then translate them into English before he makes them, and this makes it harder for him to express himself in a way to impress the jury

The session opened yesterday morning with Negoro still on the stand under direct examination. During the last two hours of this direct examination, the defense scored its strongest done points. Following the lead of the prosecution, the defense introduced into evidence a number of translations of articles which have appeared in the Nippu Jiji.

Counseled No Violence.

Lightfoot first offered in evidence an article which was published in the Hiji of April 24, in which the strikers were advised that it is not illegal to strike when their demands for higher wages have been denied, not to ask other people to join the strike. Strike is a good weapon of the laborers. "But you should not mix up strike and violence. We warn you not to mix up strike and violence."

From the Nippu Jiji of April 19 the attorney for the defense read another extract. "Strike is what the law recognizes. The laborers have the right to consult on strike, to establish a strike fund, to appoint strike committees and to strike. But they have no right to injure the property of their employer or of those who do not join the strike, or to injure their persons or reputations."

The next was from the Jiji of May 10: "We want to lay special emphasis on the fact that the strike should not be mixed up with violence, especially as the Aica strike is a model strike. Should the Aica strike bear good fruit, it will do good to all the plantations of the islands. hope that the Aiea strike will prove a model strike and that it will suc-

Cooke, H. M. Pierce, A. F. Warning; 'Do not do any act of violence.' This is a model strike. Be united, obey the words of your committee and never act carelessly or commit violent acts. "

> Elsewhere in the same paper it was stated: "We will never do violence. This great strike is to be a model strike. The responsibility is very great, and therefore, we have given warning to each one not to commit violent acts."

The same issue of the Jiji, May 10, n an account of the speeches made by Makino and Negoro at Aiea, stated that they advised the laborers that, although it is not illegal to strike, yet they should not commit violent acts, and if anyone does, he will be excluded from among the Japanese.

Lightfoot concluded the direct examination of the witness by reading over to him the long charge under which he and his codefendants are being tried, and asking him if he had done any of the acts charged. "I have not," replied Negoro. "Cross-examine," said Lightfoot.

Kinney Flays Witness. Kinney took the witness and start-Kinney took the witness and started out in a gentle, caressing voice that, for a moment, inspired Negoro with a false confidence. He seemed to imagine that he was to be let off lightly. But soon Kinney's voice became stern, his forefager pointed straight at the face of the witness, and his piercing questions flashed out with terrible force, while the twist he gave them utterly disconcerted Negoro, Referring to the article in the Jiji of February 6, headed "sycophants, get rid of them,"—"You understood that that was an editorial?" he asked.

Then Kinney forced from the witcors a statement that he might have ed, will probably be sold on payments, realized, if he had stopped to think of it, that there might be some fancies who, would read the article and accept it in its literal, not its figure and merit. Try it when you have a

An Astral Plight.

An Astral Fight.

Kinney then questioned him about the vote that was taken at Kahuku by which four men were declared to be sycophants and were given three days in which to leave the plantation. "Was it their astral bodies or their common sense bodies that were to leave the plantation in three days?" he asked he asked.

The witness replied that he believed men should actually leave the plantation in body.

Lightfoot.

"Unfortunately for you," went on Kinney, addressing the witness, "the Jiji expressly approves of the action taken by the laborers," and he proceeded to read the last part of the article, in which the Jiji promised to aid the strikers who had voted their fellow countrymen sycophants, and called upon the Japanese to ostrasize all sycophants.

Negoro contended that the Japanese word used means to exclude the syco-phants from the councils of the Japanese, not to exclude them bodily from the plantations. Then, under continued rapid-fire from the guns of the oppo-sition, he became confused and began to apologize. He admitted that he had done wrong in not inquiring whether or not the four men had been given a chance to speak in their own defense. It was also to be regretted that the Jiji had pursued the policy it did.

"Do you think, then," thundered Kinney, 'that when you learned of the cowardly and dastardly acts of the strikers, your use of the words 'taizi' and 'bokometzu' was at least unfor-

"Well, yes," said Negoro, "it may have been unfortunate, since they took them in the literal sense. It was unfortunate to have those words in the paper, because they are the cause of this case; they caused us to be prose-cuted. I don't want to say anything

EXTRA INSPECTORS MAY BE APPOINTED

At least two extra meat, fish and vegetable inspectors will probably b appointed in the near future. Thes men will be stationed on the other side of the island, one probably at Waipa hu and the other at Wainlua. In order to carry out the provisions of the new meat and fish inspection ordinance, it will be necessary to have inspectors in the outside districts.

The duty of seeing that the provi-sions of the ordinance are complies with rests with the County Physician He is unable to spend much time do ing actual work, however, as his mul titudinous duties in the city take up most of his time. It is probable tha the Supervisors will be asked to pro-vide money to pay the two extra in Leak Damage Slight.

The damage done by the leakage from the water tank on the Hilonia was much less than expected. It seem that a rivet worked loose and the water apread over much of the cargo befor the leak was discovered. Luckily mos of the freight wetted was not of a kine and inconvenience to shippers and con
