

FACE PROBLEMS IN CANAL ZONE

Digging a Great Waterway Connecting the Two Oceans Is Not the Only Task Connected With the Carrying Out of Greatest Engineering Feat in History of World.

PANAMA, October 11.—Problems of Panama have ceased to be engineering ones. They are no longer related to canal construction. They are now economic, fiscal and political. Some of them are far more complicated than the Cucaracha slide in the Culebra Cut.

The American administration of the Canal Zone and the operation of the Canal present no serious problems. These plans were all worked out a year ago. They will be put in force as soon as the law passed by Congress in 1912 becomes fully effective through the appointment of a Governor of the Zone to supersede the Canal commission. The Governor, of course, will be Colonel Goethals.

While no promises are made as to the time when the Canal will be opened to commerce and cargo vessels will be passing through it, to one on the ground it is apparent that this will be much sooner than has been expected. A few weeks will determine the experimental questions in regard to the operation of the Canal. Then it should pass under the form of administration provided by congress. There is no political patronage worth holding through the continuance of the Canal commission. In fact, there has been none worth speaking of since the change in the national administration at Washington.

Operating Force.

The operation and administrative force for the Canal will consist of about 2500 persons, exclusive of sanitation and government. It is this reduction from the huge force of laborers and clerical employees to the minimum that raises some serious problems directly for the Republic of Panama, and indirectly for the United States. While, in the beginning, the merchants on the Isthmus objected strongly to the United States feeding and clothing its army of Canal employees through the medium of the army commissary, nevertheless, they recognize that a vast amount of money coming from them has been put into circulation every month. All business prospered. Now, the larger part of this wage money is to be withdrawn; not suddenly, for the process has been going on for months, but with certainty. It is possible to calculate almost mathematically from the wage rolls of the Canal commission to what extent the sum is lessened monthly by month. All this means that dull times in Panama, as compared with eight or nine years of flush times, are likely to follow the opening of the Canal. The depression may not last long. There is no reason why it should. But the transition period is likely to be a trying one until the volume of commerce passing through the Canal and the consequent activity of the ports of Panama and Colon causes renewed activity, although not on the scale of the last few years. The administration in power in the Republic of Panama will be held responsible by the "outs" for the dull times. The government of the United States will also be censured. It is the rather blunt opinion of some American officials that Panama's future depends more upon her internal development and upon good administration than on the Canal. This means the isthmus as a whole and not simply the two cities at the terminals of the Canal and adjacent territories.

Would Revise Old Treaty.

Some of the American officials would have the Hay-Berkeley treaty of 1904 revised so as to make more clear the rights of the United States on the Isthmus in connection with the Canal, leaving the government of Panama to depend more largely on the development of the resources outside the canal sphere. In the future as in the past, there is no doubt Panama will do what the United States thinks is the right thing to do in connection with the canal, but these American officials would leave nothing to disputed interpretation.

In connection with the possible development of the agricultural and other resources of the country as the means of freeing it from a too great dependence upon the canal zone, the future of the zone is important. It is being depopulated, according to the act of congress, except for those who will be engaged in the operation and administration of the canal. The canal laborers will not be allowed to remain within the limits. Land titles are being extinguished and vested in the United States, which in a short time will be a monopoly land owner of some 350 square miles of territory.

It is clear that this plan of depopulating the canal zone is desirable at the present time. A question is raised, however, whether the zone should be continued indefinitely as a military reservation. Some of the officials who have been engaged in the canal construction and administration think the United States later should lease the land of the zone to American citizens who would care to engage in tropical agriculture.

The Panamanians do not appear to be enthusiastic over these suggestions. Another view of the depopulation of the canal zone is the political one. With the zone as a military reservation irritating questions will arise and it is to be remembered that in Panama, as elsewhere in Latin America, there is an anti-American element which is always looking for a grievance.

KAHULUI BASEBALL TEAM. CHAMPIONS OF MAUI FOR 1913

Above is a striking photograph of the Kahului Baseball team which recently won the championship of Maui after a most interesting series of three games with the Morning Stars.

In the opening game of the series, the Morning Stars proved winners by a score of 9 to 6. The second game, played October 12, was won by the Kahului team by a score of 3 to 1, while the final game, played October 19, was won by Kahului by a score of 13 to 2.

This team has signified its willingness to take part in the Inter-

Island baseball series to be played off during Carnival Week and from its past record should give an excellent account of itself.

P. A. C's 8, All-Chinese 7

Up to the final half of the sixth inning of the second game at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon a Sunny Jim smile illuminated the handsome countenance of Sammy Hop, for the sentiments in far centerfield read All-Chinese 7, P. A. C's 3.

When Henry Bushnell of the P. A. C's romped over the plate after his crew had manned the Hop aggregation the score stood P. A. C's 8, All-Chinese 7.

At San Francisco the Seals took both games of the double header from Harry Hogan's gang. Scores—First game—San Francisco 6, Venice 4; Batteries; San Francisco—Baker and Clarke; Venice—Harkness and Elliott. Second game—San Francisco 2, Venice 1; Batteries; San Francisco—Fanning and Schmidt; Venice—Raleigh and Hogan.

At Los Angeles, Oakland and Los Angeles each won and lost in the final double-header of the season. Scores—First game—Los Angeles 13, Oakland 6; Batteries; Oakland—Stone and Rohrer; Los Angeles—Gregory and Boles. Second game—Oakland 3, Venice 2; Batteries; San Francisco—O'Brien and Alexander; Los Angeles—Slade, Boles and Page.

Following were the results of previous games:

October 24—San Francisco 2, Venice 1; Oakland 6, Los Angeles 3; Sacramento 3, Portland 2.

October 25—Venice 8, San Francisco 9; Los Angeles 4, Oakland 9; Sacramento 3, Portland 4.

ZOOMES IS PAID HIS FULL SHARE OF SPOILS

When the news reached Pitcher Jack Daniels of the Athletics, who is seriously ill in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, that his team had won the world's series he bragged up and said: "People can't realize what a fortune they possess in having their health. I would give anything if I could only get up and go out to Shibe Park, because I want to grasp every one of the boys' hands and tell them from the bottom of my heart the appreciation I feel for their great play. I know they would win the world's championship, for it was in them to beat the Giants, and I hope that next year I will be well enough to help them to capture another American League pennant."

Zoomes received a regular share of the Athletics' praise today.

After the fifth inning our Tom Medders was at second base and held the leading. He said he wanted his job. Tony allowed three hits, which, with M. Ornelas' error, gave the All-Chinese three runs. After En Sue had been thrown out Ayan was safe on 3rd. Ornelas' error at first base. Kan Yen was safe when Medders let his bat get away from him. La Aman was fanned, but Lai and Markham hit single, and three runs were the result.

Tais was a pretty good lead, but Paresa's players were not to be downed, and when Ayan went wobbly they took advantage of every hole and ran like wildfire, and simply carried Sammy's aggregation clear off their feet.

Souza, opening the sixth inning, was safe on Aman's double. La More looked dangerous and Ayan walked him. M. Ornelas was passed, and when Tony Medders smashed the ball right field Souza and La More romped over the rubber. Ornelas was caught in between third and home, and when Markham hit him in the back with the ball both he and Medders were safe. Why Markham does not get an error for his wild base is for the scores to explain.

When Williamson grounded out to first Ornelas scored, and Medders scored when Ayan bobbled Bushnell's hit. Henry then stole second, and after the fracas mentioned in another paragraph was over came home on Swinton's liner to center. Here the game ended and the P. A. C's had their revenge.

With the brightest prospects of any green pacer out this season before him, Guy Borden died recently at the Kings Country race track, near Hanford, Calif., of what is known among horsemen as shipping fever, an affliction similar to inflammation of the bowels. It has been rumored that Pete Aguirre, who owned him, had some flattering offers for his little black horse. One figure is placed at $5000. He started about a dozen times this season and won all but one race, gathering together a total in stakes of close to $10,000. W. G. Dore saw the merit of the horse and took him on his string this season. Guy Borden had made a mark of 2.574, the fastest pacing time this season. He started in two races at the Hanford track, but he arrived in poor health from Fresno. It is said by horsemen that Guy Borden had not been right since he came to Hanford and that he showed a strong aversion to going upon the track every time he was brought out. He raced gamely through the two races, taking the first in straight heats and in his second time out he took the three final heats after losing the first two.

All that is mortal of the late Anton Gomez Anton was consigned to a grave in the King street Catholic cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral was held from Silver's parlors and was under the auspices of the San Antonio Benevolent Society, of which order deceased was a member.
