To him, his estimated wife and their family, much is due in smoothing the asperities of frontier life, and giving to many roving spirits an insight into the influence of home. Mrs. McLean was born in Eastern Pennsyl-vania in 1792, and had attained, within a few months, to the remarkable age of cighty-eight years. Early in life sho removed with her father's family to Butler county. Ohio. There, meeting Nathaniel Mc-Lean, she married him at the age of 17. In 1849 he emigrated from Cincinnati to Minne-sota, and in 1850, being appointed Indian agent by President Fillmore, was followed by his wife and family. Major McLean was a brother of Associate Justice McLean, of the United States supreme court, and served as a lieutemant in the war of 1812, his widow, the deceased, being np to the day of her death
