LIVELY DAY IN THE TENNESSEE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Bitter Fight Between the "Credit" and "No Credit" Wings-Patriotic Platform Adopted Pledging the Party to Mainten-Converts to Hancock's Candidacy-Nominations by the Republicans of the Nutmeg State-Congressional Nominations in Various States.

Tennessee Democrats.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 11 .- The Democratic convention adopted the two-third rule in vot ing for candidate for governor, and adjourned until 2 p. M. At the afternoon session the committee on platform and resolutions presented a majority and two minority reports. A continued and persistent fight was made by the "no credit" men sgainst the majority report signed by twenty-one out of thirty, composing the committees. The "no credit" D-mocrats insisted that any settlement of the debt should be submitted to the people. oredit. Democrata insisied that any settlement of the debt should be submitted to the people. One minority report was tabled and the one containing the submission plank rejected. The convention then adjourned until 3:30 P. M., and upon reassembling proceeded slowly under the excitement and confusion prevailing. At 10:30 the convention came down to a square vote on the majority report, and the convention adopted the majority report by a vote of 875 to 455.

The following is the platform:

The Democratic party of Tennessee in convention assembled do declare:

First—Our abiding allegiance to the national Democracy and unfaltering faith and devotion to its traditions and principles.

Second—That we endorse the action of the late Democratic convention at Cincinnati and reaffirm the principles enunciated in the Cincinnati platform and pledge our earnest undivided support to the Democratic nominees as presented to the country by the Cincinnati convention.

Third—That in the nomination of W. S. Hancock, of Pennsylvania, and W. H. English, of Indiana, for President and Vice President of the United States, we recognize the complete restoration of fraternal feelings to all sections of our country.

Fourth—We assert our opposition to the repudiation of any of the public obligations of the State of federal government, and declare that the repudiation of either under any pretext or disguise would be the most direful of evils, moral, financial and political. In the patriotic language of the national Democratic platform we pledge ourselves to the Strict maintenance of the public faith, State and national.

Fifth—We recognize a disposition on the of the public faith, State and national.

Fifth—We recognize a disposition on the part of the creditors of the State, in view of the great loss entitled by the late war, the great depression of business and the general shrinkage in values, to make a liberal reduction in both the principal and interest of our bonded indebtednes, and we declare that we favor a prompt settlement by the legislature with our creditors, upon the best terms that can be agreed upon, as a result of neg citations.

Resolved, That we demand the most rigid economy in the administration of all the public offices of the State and National governments.

economy in the administration of all the public offices of the State and National governments, the suppression of any and all extravagances in public expenditures, the reduction of all salaries and fees of officers, so far as can be done consistently with the proper discharge of public offices, and the strictest honesty in the management and application of all the public revenues Resolved, That we regard a thoroughly organized system of public instruction as a matter of the utmost importance to the people of our State, and we pledge our united support to institutions of learning, its maintenance and institutions of learning, its maintenance and better perfection in the development of our system of public schools.

Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to

Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to the usurpation of the Republican party and we recognize the fact that the administration of the government, both state and federal, by that party will under its rapid strides to centralization soon result in the destruction of our republican form of government.

Resolved, That in view of the complaints coming up from every part of the State against the policy of the railroads discriminating against local freight and passengers, and in favor of through freight and passengers, it is the sense of this convention that the coming legislature should pass a law requiring the railroads to do justice to the trade and business of the State.

HARTPORD, Conn., Aug. 11-The Republican State convention organized to-day with Elwith Augustus Brandage for permanent president. After his address an informal ballot for governor was taken, a formal ballot followed and ernor was taken, a formal ballot followed and resulted: Bigelow, 207; Buckely, 111; Andrews, 60; H.dey, 40; scattering, 6. Bigelow lacked only five votes of a majority. L E. Stanton, of Hartford, moved the nomination of Bigelow by acclamylon and hoped Buckely would consent to take second place, Hartford and New Haven shaking hands for once. The suggestion was received with great applause, and Bigelow was nominated by acclamation with great entbusiasm, and George William H. Buckely for lientenant governor, also by acclamation. Hecess.

In the afternoon the State ticket was completed by the following nominations: Charles A. Searls, secretary of state; David P. Nichols, treasurer and collector; Wheelock Batchelor, comptroller. The electors at large are Henry B. Norton and Abijab Catlin. The resolutions addented are as follows:

BANKERS IN COUNCIL.

Annual Meeting of the National Associa-tion at Saratoga-Address of Alex, Mitche l. of Milwaukee

SARATOGA, Aug. 11. - The American bankers' association was called to order in the Town hall by J. D. Vermilya, of New York, who introduced President Alex. Mitchell, of Milwankee. Mr. Mitchell congratulated the members of the convention on the change in the financial condition of the country which the financial condition of the country which has taken place during the past two years. Then the problem of a return to specie payments pressed for solution, which all awaited with anxiety and some with apprehension. Beyond doubt the success of resumption was largely, if not entirely due to the cordial and organized effort and co-operation of the banks and bankers of the United States, and thus one of the great objects of the association had been happily achieved.

Resumption has only been tested under the most favorable circumstances. It was preceded by a long and elaborate preparation. Overtrading had been checked by enhancement in values which the currency had undergone in anticipation of the day fixed for resumption. The balance of our foreign trade was in our

The prosecution of works of public improvements had been partially suspended and placed on a footing of prudence and economy. Large crops and high prices abroad have furnished a crops and high prices abroad have turnished stimulant to the vast trades. In this country periods of depression follow periods of prosperity with the certainty almost, if not with the regularity of the seasons. Such periods of depression may now be looked for at any time in the near future when an extensive failure of crops shall occur with seasons of overtrading and extravagance in enterprise and expendi-

It is therefore a matter of most serious in port what effect such depression would have on the present apparent stability and equilib-rium of our banking system. I may well be questioned whether there be lodged in the questioned whether there be lodged in the federal government any power to prevent a financial crisis, or whether any action it might or could take would be more efficient than that of the banks in mitigation of such disasters. or could take would be more efficient than that of the banks in mitigation of such disasters.

Another very important problem presents itself, which may be found equally difficult of solution, growing out of the continuous coinage of silver under existing laws. As long as no especial effort shall be made to force this silver into circulation, its existence will not effect the government treasury to which it belongs and to which it apparently sustains the relation substantially of silver bullion. But whenever by failure of the crops, or the exigencies of our foreign trade, balances must be remitted to Europe, any considerable drain of gold will throw this silver into circulation. Paper movey will then fall to the rank of silver and our entire circulation will be depreciated to the value of the silver dollar.

Columbus-Sixty Thousand People Give Them Greeting-Addresses by President Hayes and Gen. Durbin Ward.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 11.—The second day of the grand reunion of ex-soldiers opened under very propitions circumstances. At 6 o'clock the artillery fired a salute of thirty-eight guns, followed with reveille of the bugle and drum corps. The tents are rapidly filling up, fifteen hundred men having been assigned quarters yesterday. The morning was devoted to regimental and association reunions. President Hayes, General Sherman and party arrived at 6 o'clock this morning from Washington, and were met at the depot by an escort consisting of United States troops stationed at Columbus garrison, the ex soldiers' association, governor's guard. Columbus cadets, and other military organizations of the city and other niloses. The fine art hall on the fair grounds offers to view a most elegant and attractive aspect, the tattered flags containing a history in themselves. A motto on the north side reads, "To preserve the Union Ohio furnished $10.654 men," and 'Ohio mourns for 24.54f dead," appears on the other side. Old Abe, the famous Wisconsis war eagle, is perched on a cannon in the fine art hall, looking as proud and majestic as ever. A heavy rain storm passed over the city at 1:30 o'clock.

The heavy rain that set in at one o'clock cleared off at 3. The weather was very pleasant all the afternoon and evening. If doubt existed in any minds vesterday as to the success of the reunion it was displaced to-day. The President was introduced and was greeted with loud cheers on introduction and at various points in his speech. His speech was as follows:

Mr President: The citizens of Ohiowho were soldiers in the Union army, who have assembled here in such large numbers, have many reasons for mutual congratulations, as they exchange greetings and renewold friendships at this State reunion. We rejoice that we had the glorious privilege of enlisting and serving on the right side in the great conflict for the Union and for equal rights. The time that has passed since the contest ended is not so great but that since the contest ended is not so great but that we can without effort recall freshly and vividly the events and scenes, and feelings and asso-ciations of that most interesting period of our lives. We rejoice, also, that we have been per-mitted to live long enough to see and to enjoy the results of the victory we gained, and to measure the vast benefits which it conferred on measure the vast benefits which it conferred on our country and the world. I shall not attempt to make a catalogue of

I shall not attempt to make a catalogue of those benefits or to estimate their value. A single fact to which I call your attention will sufficiently illustrate for my present purpose the unmeasurable blessings conferred upon the United States by the success of the Union arms. The statistics of emigration, showing the movements of population which are going arms. The statistics of emigration, showing the movements of population which are going on in the world, afford a very good test of the comparative advantages and prosperity of the various civilized nations. People leave their own country and seek new homes in foreign lands to better their condihomes in foreign lands to better their condition. Immigration into a country, therefore, is an evidence of that country's prosperity. It is also a most efficient cause of the progress of the country which receives it. During our civil war and during the disturbed and troubled years which immediately preceded and followed it, immigration fell off and became of comparatively small importance, but now our country's prosperity, the stability of our government and the permanent prevalence of peace at home and with foreign nations—blessings which could not have been enjoyed by this country if the Union arms had failed—have given to the world a confidence in -have given to the world a confidence in failed—have given to the world a conndence in the future welfare and greatness of the United States, which is polaring upon our shores such streams of immigration as was never known before.

This is a fact of the most frequent signifi-never known before.

This is a fact of the most frequent significance in every respect and condition. If we take a survey of the globe we shall find everywhere among civilized nations, especially among people who are eagerly looking forward to the time when they can emigrate to some more favored land. Only one of the great nations is in no danger of losing its capital and labor and skill by emigration. We find only one which by immigration is gaining rapidly in numbers, wealth and power. All are losing by this canes except the United States. The United States alone is gaining. Other nations see their people going, going. We see from every quarter the people of other countries coming, coming, coming. There is one flag, and in all the world only one, whose protection good men and women born under it will never willingly leave. There is one flag, and only one in the world, whose protecting folds good men and women born under straight the floats under the whole heavens, are eagerly and gladly seeking. That flag so loved at home, so longed for by millious abroad is the old flag under which we marched to save what in our soldier days we were fond of calling "God's country." It is easily seen what it is that chiefly attracts this immigration. It goes where good land is cheap, where labor and capital find profitable employment, where peace and social order prevail, and where civil and religious liberty are secure.

The President closed his remarks as follows:

me. It delights my soul to look on you and see so many of the good old boys left yet. They are not afraid of rain. We have stood it many a time. I came as part of the escort to the President, and not for the purpose of speaking te you, but I simply have to look on and let the boys look at old Billy again. We are to each other all in all as man and wife, and every soldier here today knows that Uncle Billy loves him as his own fiesh and blood. Could I command the language I would like to speak to you for an hour. There are others here who can and will give echo and say amen to these expressions. The war is now away back in the past and you can tell what books cannot, when you come down to practical realities just as they happened. You all know that this is not soldiering here. There is many a boy here to-day who looks on soldiering as all a story, but, boys, it is all real. You can hear this moaning voice to generations yet to come. I look on war with horror, but if it has to come I am here. (This last remark was received with long applause and a hurrah by the audience).

We have a little war on hand to-day to make homes for the people who are coming to our shores. It is being fought and your sympathy is needed. I wish to again congratulate those who were in the rear in the war. They would have been gone from here covered with umbrellas before now. The country is now peaceful and long mey it remain so. To you soldiers they owe a debt of gratitude. Gen. Hazen was then introduced and made a short address.

Splendid Sport at the Driving Park This Afternoon,

No lover of turf sports should forget the natinee at the Driving park this afternoon, for the benefit of Mr. B. Woodmansee, in charge of the grounds. The occasion will draw together the cream of the road and race horses of St. Paul and Minneapolis, to sulky and wagon, trotting and pacing, and under saddle. There are eight events, for which there are thirty-five starters, no event having less than three and others six. A fine race will be in the free for all, between Frank Fisk, Lady Logan and Highland Seal. Frank Fisk has a record of 2:23%, got at Milwaukee a few weeks ago. Lady Logan has a record of 2:31, but it is reported can trot under that figure. Highland Seal has no record, but possesses sufficient speed to make it interesting for both of his opponents. Other extra good races will be that between the sidewheelers, the runners and the gents' roadsters to wagon. The racing will commence promptly at 2 o'clock and the events will be sandwiched, so that sport will be continuous from the commencement to the ending. The following is the programme with the entries: saddle. There are eight events, for which there

The alleged assault took place near the Metropolitan hotel Monday evening, and originated over a difference of evening, and originated over a difference of opinion as to which had the right to escort adamsel who is employed at the house in the festive role of bun tosser. It seems that both gallants had been in the habit of paying their devoirs to the damsel, and the race for conquest depended on the point as to which of the rivals and lovers thank at these for Monday math. point as to which of the rivals and lovers should get there first. Monday night Flynn got the start of the other fellow, and after lallygaging around he invited his dulcins out for a walk. They rambled in the direction of the park. The stars were shining, and the loving swain grew ecstatic at the prospect. It was a time for soft sighs and poetry, a time "when the magical fingers of fancy had hung every breeze with a sigh, every leaf with a tongue." He looked into his mistress' eyes, which glistened like Switzer kase on a saffron background, and enthused thus:

Thou art. O maid, so sweet and fair.

Thou art, O maid, so sweet and fair, With dewy lips and sunny hair, Whose szure orbs and perfumed sighs, Match all the beauties of the skies.

Match all the beauties of the skies.

He was about to give the second stanza of the roundelsy, when a ruff and highly excited voice broke the stilly night with an awful shock. "By the holy pipers, you'll give the lady no more o' that taffy," exclaimed the voice, and a minute afterwards the poetic youth had gone to grass.

The striking was done by the rival, Nobles, and covered with victory he walked off with the girl, while the other fellow went to soak his sore head and ruined hopes in arnica. Yesterday morning the sad story was related to Judge McGrorty and the defendant, Nobles, was fined $7 and costs. He paid the money reluctantly and left the court breathing vengeance.

DOUBLE THROAT CUTTING New York, Aug. 11.—At ten this morning in a tenement house No. 141 Thompson street, Amandee Rigot, a French tinner, cut the throat of Mrs. Marietta Renaue, a married woman who rejected his advances. The woman died instantly. Bigot then cut his own throat. The woman was housekeeper in the tenement, 43 years of age, and mother of seven children. The murderer lost his wife two years ago, and her death is supposed to have unsettled his mind. He attempted suicide six months ago. Mrs. Benaue had been very kind to him since his wife's death. This morning he entered her apartment and excitedly asked her to marry him. She refused, whereupon he drew a razor and committed the deed, nearly severing the head from the body. The woman ran iato the hall and fell dead. Bigot then cut his own throat, rushed into the street and was arrested. There was no evidence of a struggle in the roun, but the door was horribly bespattered with blood. New York, Aug. 11 .- At ten this morning

OUT IN DARKNESS.

YOUNG WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE FOR THE OLD, OLD REASON.

Supposed Wife and Yet Not a Wife Leaps Into Eternity by the Aid of Strychnine-A Farewell Letter to Her Mother Which Death Cut Short-The Man in the Case Reticent-An Inquest to be Held To-Day.

At No. 219 East Sixth street, last night, when the glory of the sunset had faded into dusk and the summer air was filled with gladnesss, a fair but wretched woman lay struggling in the throes of a most horrible and un-natural death. A few minutes before 8 o'clock the attention of Mrs. Douglas, landlady of the boarding house at the place named, was attracted by uncommon sounds of distress proceeding from one of her boarder's rooms on first floor of the building. She entered the room and was shocked at the terrible death struggle. Alarmed at the spec-tacle, and surmising that something swful had happened, the landlady inquired the cause of happened, the landlady inquired the cause of her terrible illness.

The dying woman, who was then gasping for breath, replied that she had taken poison, and requested that a letter, which lay on the bureau, be forwarded to her mother. Terrified at the grave annonneement, Mrs. Douglas sent for a physician, in response to which Dr. Richeson was summoned.

Before the arrival of the latter, however, the poison had executed its terrible mission and the victim to an awful wrong or awful mistake was dead.

the victim to an awful wrong or awful mis-take was dead.

As before intimated the woman's name is Jennie Boucock, but for some time past she has borne the name and been introduced as Mrs. Jennie Potter.

The motive for the dread deed is somewhat eaveloped in mystery, but she is supposed to have been prompted by a sense of despair arising from an affair of the heart or affec-tion.

Last night the one whose life has been inextricably tangled in this girl's fate was ominously, and for obvious reasons, perhaps, entirely silent. The people most familiar with the girl since her sojourn in this city were also non committal.

Certain it is that E. A. Potter and the dead woman have been living together as man and wife, and while she gave the name of Mrs. Potter to the census enumerator a few weeks since, it is equally certain that they were not married. The man, E. A. Potter, is a horse dealer, and he came to St. Paul in company with the suicide about one year and a half ago, from the northern part of Missouri.

For several months past the parties have roomed at the corner of Seventh and Cedar streets. About two months ago they took board at a down town hotel, which they left two weeks ago for the boarding house of Mrs. Douglas, on Sixth street. The dead woman was introduced as Mrs. Potter and they have been known as man and wife.

The girl was certainly controlled or actuated by a crushing sorrow, as indicated by her farewell letter.

The supposition is that she and her lover had quarrelled and that he had expressed a determination to abandon her, laboring under the thought of which she loommitted the deed. The doctors state that death was caused by strychnine, but no positive evidence is had to this effect.

The home of the unfortunate woman was in northern Missouri, where her family were residing. Since coming to St. Paul she paid a visit home, being absent a short time last fall.
