Bribery Investigation. ALBANY, June 14.—The Assembly investigation

Mr. Peckham-Is there not a factional fight politics in your district between you on one side and Mr. Sessions on the other? Answer—No, sir.

Peckham—No discord of any kind in political mat-

Answer-No, sir; there is some trouble in ou Answer—No, sir; there is some trouble in our town, but not in our party, in my district. I cannot say that all the members of the Republican party have indorsed the action of Mr. Sessions at the Chicago convention. Sessions has not been before the people lince that convention. We have tried to keep the question of half-breeds and stalwarts out of collities, our district. politics in our district, I told Sessions I didn't like his action there I know C. P. Ingersoil, I don't think I told him I had voted for Conkling and Platt for the last time. This was on the afternoon of the evening I saw Sessions. Peckham-Do you know Dunnell, of the New York Times? Answer-He may have been among the corre spondents who called upon me after I made the statement of bribery in the assembly.

Peckham—Did you tell him you were going to Here a long discussion followed between counsel, get $500 for voting for Depsw, and at the same time please my constituency, but I would not do [it. Did not say to the postmaster there that I could get $500 or voting for Depew. Did not say to ex-Assemblyman Wheeler that Senators get $1,000 each for not going into caucus. I know George T. Euston, of Allegheny. I did not tell him I would Euston, of Allegheny. I did not tell him I would not vote for Conkling again. I did not make any statement to Editor Hall, of Olean, about a big time being expected at Albany. The statement made in the House was written by himself in Speaker Sharpe's room at the Delavan house the night I handed the money to him. I don't think Jones saw it or read it before I made the statement in the House. Sharpe seemed paralyzed when I gave him the money, and did not count the money as fast as I would. He finished counting it, however, before I got through writing.

I want some latitude I may have told Dunnell that the money was given me by an outside lobbyist. I know Lyman B. Smith, of the Buffalo Courier. I don't think I said to him that money was given me by an outside lobbyist.

Another debate between counsel followed here, Bangs insisting that the witiness should be allowed to give his anwser in his own way, and Peckham insisted he should give a direct answer. Peckham repeated the question.

Witness-Know Fenn M. Miller, of Chatauque Did not say to him money was paid me by an outside lobbyist. I am pretty positive I did not tell him so Peckham—Did not Miller ask you if that outside ceived the money?

Bradley—He did. I told him I did not know. was home Saturday, June 4th. I know where Kel-sey's cigar store is in Olean I don't remember say-ing in his store, 'Sunday, that there was consterna-tion in store for the people at Albany the f llowing ing in his store, Sunday, that there was consternation in store for the people at Albany the f llowing week.

Peckham—Did you say that you could get $500? Here Peckham rested.

Direct examinated by Bangs—I don't remember what reporters I showed my speech to Some of them sent for it and I gave it to the first man who asked for it. A whole crowd of reporters gathered around me and I was greatly excited of course. Think I can recall what I said to them. I did not want to connect Sessions with the transaction, I did not do so until I came before this convention. I had some conversatian with the editor of the Olean paper, but did not say anything to him to warrant his sistement that startling exposures may be expected next week. What I meant was that Brady and the star route excitement would be more fully developed. In the cigar store, at Olean, I made the statement that I could get $500 for voting for Depew, and at the same time please my constituents. I thought so, for the reason that the lobby at Albany was understood to be very energetic. I talked with the postmaster at Knapps I told him I could get $500 for voting for Depew. I thought I could do so from the common rumor which prevailed about the capital. I remember talking with Heckman. I said Rodgers was acceptable to our people and I might yet give him a lift. I was trying to evade answering the question from the newspapers on the day I made my statement in the Assembly. The statement I made in Kelsey's cigar store was in reference to expected developments in Washington. I was in the State inebriate asylum in Binghampton in 1873 in nine months. I paid my own board there. I have not drank even cider since that time. I do not even take sauces in which brandy or wine are used. I had an interest in the Peg Leg rallroad, and in the oil excitement I sigued a paker giving the right of way te another railroad company.

I forgot about the matter of signing entirely. Hence my statement that I dich't sign. I hadn't no desire to deceive.

By Bangs—Was there anything said

Mence my statement that I didn't sign. I hadn't m' desire to deceive.

By Banga—Was there anything said of a contingent of $500 offered you by Sessions on the night of June 8th, and provided Depew was elected?

Bradley—I am positive he offered me $1.000 additional in case Depew would be elected.

Bradley continued—No one has ever suggested the idea of my making a false charge against Sessions. or any one else. I foreaw that ewery administration man would pitch into and a tuse me, and try to break down my testimony. I never expected to have the benefit of the $2,000. I neither combined or plotted in getting up a false charge against Sensior Sesions. He took the money from his pants pocket. By Brooks—In ttating that you could get $500 for had talked to me about voting for some other than Cornell and Platt. I understood from his conversations with me that he wanted to talk confidentially with me at one meeting of stalwarts. I was assigned to duty trying to get independents in. The independent stalwarts met at Carpenter's room in the Delevan house Thursday night, June 3, for the purpore of a caucus. I was active in that caucus. I voted for Fenton and Ward that day and next day voted for Conkling and Platt.

To Bangs—Our contract with Bigler was for about $80,000. They advanced fully $50,000 before they got any oak timber whatever.

Bangs—I said to Bradley, If you know anything implicating anybody besides Benator Sessions, no matter how high his rank mey be or how low—no matter whom he has voted for or proposes to vote for, who has made you or anybody else any corrupt proposition, just name the person and circumstances here. Bradley replied. I don't know anybody with the exception of Mr. Young

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session State Sena'or Sessions was placed on the stand for cross-examination Bangs examined him. Witness said: I have been a delegate to party conventions and have been in the habit of promoting the interest of candidates. I have beeome versod in that business. I was informed of Bradley, s disclosure in assembly. Had heard the evening before that it was a common rumor that I was the one whom Bradley was going to charge with offering to bribe him. I made no attempt to see Bradley about it.

Bangs—Was your conduct ever before examined into by a legislative body or judicial tribunal.

Sessions—No, sir. I was a witness once in the case of a charge of bribery against Frederick Littlejohn before the grand jury here in 1862. I was charged with giving money alleged to be refused.

Bangs—Was the statement or charge true?

Counsel for Sessions objected to the question.

After a long argument, Bangs read parts of a statement going to show Sessions was in Albany and in attendance at the legi-lature.

Smith objected to taking up so much time in reading irrelevant matter.

Eangs asked if he could continue, and the committee decided he could, and he proceed to read the statement going to show Sessions admitted he was paid for arguing in favor of bil s before the legislature. Also he had not spent a dollar on any member of the legislature to effect passage of bills. The deposition acknowledges recoiving money for urging the passage of several bills.

Witness—I gave that statement in my statement and as much more before the grand juury. I gave a full history of the proceeding. I do not think I was a clerk in the Senate at the time. I was endeavoring, by argument, to induce members to vote for bills. One of the bills was to secure a site for a postoffice in New York. I spoke to individual members in favor of it and got $5,000 for my work on the postoffice bill. Long after that I acted as a lobbyist off and on. Acted as such six or seven years. During that time I came here as a lobbyist nearly Witness—No. Never heard of such a bill. Guess bill?

Witness—No. Never heard of such a bill. Guess you don't know as much about what you have been told as I can tell you. I know Foreyth. Knew he was connected with a bank in Troy, because he had a check on it and I thought he was going to stop payment on it. It was for services against the Albany bridge bill. He gave me a check for $1,000 to oppose it. I was to render service for the bill. Don't remember whether he had a relative in the legislature at the time. I had a brother in the sesembly in 1853 and 1854, and afterwards in the Senate. Forsyth wanted that I should aid him in defeating the bill. I engaged to do so. He gave me a check and said he hoped I would not present it till the next day, and thought he intended to stop payment, and I went out and got a horse while he took the cars for Troy. I got there in time to get the check cashed. Never divided any of that money with any one, nor anything else. I have assisted in Washington in one or two little matters. Whan I left Bradley in the Delavan house on the lower floct, I went up to Senator Woodruff's room. There were several in the room at the time. I have tailed to members of the legislature to get votes for Depew, I told the cancus on the night of the 8th of June I had secured a vote. I thought I had got Bradley to vote for him I don't think I supposed I had secured his vote for any other candidate, and I cli I had won that vote. I felt confident he would so vote when he told me so. In his room he told me I would not be disappointed in his vote I knew of his having voted for Andrew Depew, awhile for Gov. Cornell and others, and when he voted for Conkling and Platt I was quite surprised. I cannot enumerate the number of conversations I had with Bradley on this subject. When Bradley on one to my room there were Hudson of the Brooklyn Education. with Bradley on this subject. When Bradley come to my room there were Hudson of the Brooklyn Eagle and myself and daughter in the room. I would not have talked to Bradley on the subject of his vote before Hudson. Bradley came to my room, knocked, and I went out with him I don't remember that Bradley locked his do'r Never had any reason to believe Bradley was a corruptable man on the 8th of June. Never had a thought of him in that connection. Never had any difficulty with him. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON.

Flurry Created by Grant's Interview-Mis-

WASHINGTON, June 14.—There is considerable talk here about Gen. Grant's interview in which he criticises President Garfield's administration. His outspoken condemnation of the administration has added force to the whisperings here that a stalwart member of whisperings here that a stalwart member of Congress will, after Congress meets, antagonize the administration. Hitherto but little attention has been paid to this talk, as it seemed to come mainly from disappointed applicants for office, but General Grant's open opposition to the President leads to the impression with some, that the stalwarts will undertake to assert their powers in the next Congress. A prominent follower of Conkling said to-day that the purpose of Grant. Conkling and their friends, nent follower of Conkling said to-day that the purpose of Grant, Conkling and their friends, will be to drive Blaine from the cabinet; that both Houses of Congress are very close, and the stalwarts can easily control the balance of power in the Senate and House, and that the demand of the stalwarts will be Blaine's retirement. This talk is not counted as of much importance in administracounted as of much importance in administra-tion circles. Friends of the President say that if Conkling was powerless in his opposi-tion to the administration when in the Senate he will be still weaker when out of it. The administration is confident that not only are Conkline and Platt bester but that two ad-Conkling and Platt beaten, but that two administration Senators will be elected.

The treasury investigation committee to-day

The treasury investigation committee to-day submitted a preliminary report to Secretary Windom of the evidence found against the custodian's department. The committee report that they have found a regularly organized ring which has been in existence for years, and which has been misappropriating money, and defrauding government officials and employes who were connected with the ring. A more complete and thorough investigatian will be ordered. All the facts heretofore reported in the Western Associated Press dispatches relating to the selling of carpets and other frauds of the ring are reported by the committee.

The report of the treasury investigation committee, submitted to day, recommends the immediate discharge of Pitney, custodian of the treasury, Norton, assistant secretary, and of chief clerks for having violated the law.

Miss M. M. Gillett, of Wisconsin, but a resident of Washington and a law student, was appointed to day, by the President potents. Brooks Doyou believe that there are some members of the Assembly who can be purchased?

Witness—I think so from newspaper and street rumors. I don': think any fenator would take $1,000 for his action on the matter. I have no parsonal knowledge—don't know of any person eithar up or low down to whom improper prop sals have been made except in this case of my own.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE SUNDAY CYCLONE.

Terrible Devastation in Southwestern Mis souri and Kansas--A Double Visitation at King City, Mo .-- A Wide Sweep of Country Completely Denuded-Thrilling Details of the Terrible Destruction-Crime and Casualty Record.

THE DESTRUCTION AT KING CITY. KING CITY, Mo., June 14 .- The denizens of this little place were Sunday afternoon, about 5:30 o'clock, startled by the approach of a cyclone making its appearance from the West and heading directly for this point, striking terror to the hearts of all. A feeling of trembling and awe, as of certain impending death, gives expression to the state of the community. The cyclone had its beginning about two miles south of Rosendale and twenty miles a little south of west of here. It gathered force west of here. It gathered force as it came on, its mad fury assuming a serpentine shape, covering a tract varying from two hundred feet to one-quarter of a mile in width, sweeping everything clean in its path. It was seen fully an hour before it reached here, and within a mile and a half of here it shied north a trifle, striking the northwest boundary of the town and spending its fury three miles south of here. Houses, stock, trees, shrubbery and even grass were trees, shrubbery and even grass were demolished in its path, everything being laid waste and the whole territory strewn with fragments of timber, houses and domestic articles. While the cyclone lasted the air was filled with various objects. Men were picked up bodily and thrown seventy-five feet in the air, and landed objects. Men were picked up bodny and thrown seventy-five feet in the air, and landed a quarter of a mile away.

A farmer named Maynard, living four miles west of here, in attempting to escape the cyclone took a wrong course and ran into it. He was driven against a fence post and pierced through and through by a four-inch piece of timber, death ensuing shortly after. His grown daughter Grace, was carried one-fourth of a mile from the house and found in a cornfield devoid of all clothing except stockings. She, too, dead. The rest of the family were saved by fleeing to the cellar. The house was blown into fragments and scattered for miles about.

R. T Nelson, a farmer living a mile north of town, was sitting on the back porch reading and was killed. Two sons near by escaped being severely injured. The rest of the family were at church. Mrs. Roberts and two children, three miles east of Rosendale, were killed and their house totally wrecked.

Several fine country residences were blown and their house totally wrecked.

Several fine country residences were blown to fragments, hundreds of cattle destroyed, fine crops and fine orchards damaged.

The total loss is not less than $200,000 to $500,000. One farmer lost two hundred and fifty head of stock out of 285, and many more proportionately. Many farmers are left destitute of everything.

At Flag Springs several houses were blown down and considerable property damaged. The whole of Empire Prairie suffered incalcuable loss.

The whole of Empire Prairie suffered incalcuable loss.

The destruction took place at or near King City and Flag Springs. Later in the evening another cyclone passed north of Savannah, Andrew county, northeast into Nodway county. From information received it appears the cloud formed in a field about eight miles northwest of Savannah and moved southeast, tearing timber, trees and fences, until it struck the large brick house of Nathanial Kellogg, situated about six miles north of town, which it tore to pieces. Mr. Kellogg and family were absent from home at the time, and no doubt escaped being injured. Two horses belonging to Mr. Kellogg, which were in a field near the house, were found in a field a quarter of a mile away, supposed to have been carried there by the cyclone.

The cloud then moved east, and at this time was about 160 yards wide. The next building in its way was the residence of Mr. Holt, near the toll bridge. It struck the corner of the bouse, moving it off near the toll bridge. It struck near the toll bridge. It struck the corner of the house, moving it off the foundation and damaging it considerably. W. S. Wright had fifty hogs killed. John Parks' house further on was blown away and Mrs Parks was severely injured. Theman's Mrs Parks was severely injured. Theman's house was carried away, as was the Baptist church near by. Laughlin's house further on was blown to pieces. The furniture, clothing and everything contained in the house were torn to pieces and feathers strewn all through the timber. Stoves and all kinds of household goods from the houses were carried through the air, and the owners have not yet found any of them. Linn Roberts' house was destroyed, as well as that of E. A. Fishford. From there the storm passed into Flag Springs and King City. The cyclone was about a quarter of mile wide, and was very violent. Fully two-thirds of the houses blown away were unoccupied, the families being away were unoccupied, the families being away from home, either to church or visiting; otherwise the loss of life would have been frightful.

CASUALTIES IN THE MISSOURI CYCLONE. ST. Louis, June 14 .-- Additional accounts of the cyclone in northwest Missouri, Sunday evening, are that a very large amount of property was destroyed, considerable numbers of lives lost, and a great many persons injured. Those known to have been killed outright are R. C. Nelson, C. E. Maynard, Miss Maynard, Mrs. G. Roberts and child, and a man whose name is unknown. The injured, so far as reported, are: Miss A. Gee, will die; Miss Maynard, severely injured; William Miller, dangerously injured; Robert Miller, seriously injured; Israel Wood, injured; wife and children also injured; Frank Burke and a company of fourteen persons, all injured and bruised; John Cott and family, injured, and children since died; Wm. A number of Boston capitalists have subscribed $5,000,000 toward the construction of this road, and no time will be lost pushing it through. Philadelphia, engineer of the new Duluth & On a Burst.

He might have been a Prussian, Frenchman or Russian, or, perhaps, an I-tal-i-an, but he was'nt—not by a tank-full. He was, in point of fact, a blarsted Englishman, and he was snatched bald-headed by Officer Casey yesterday afternoon for making a disturbance at Grote's Tivoli. He said he did'nt care a tinker's copper for the court, judge or entire police force. He was brought before hizzoner and gave the name of A. B. Keir. The court said he would have to fine him $10, whereupon he said he would explain how they did in the old country. The judge remarked that he did'nt care how they did it, and that he would have to differ with him. He then got on his ear, saying there was no use trying to get justice in this country anyhow. He said he would just as leave pay $50, and on leaving he wanted to know if the fellows around the court drank the fines up. He might have been a Prussian, Frenchman rank the fines up.

A woman with a wagging tongue said the old man, as Mrs. Galvin, said the old man, as Mrs. Galvin, a female with a dynamite nose, appeared before the court yesterday morning, is as bad to endure as a nest of hornets in a baid headed man's hat. The woman had been arrested by Officer Shields for raising perdition in her house. She drank quite freely and buildozed her liege, who is three score and ten or more, twice the age of the defendant. The chancelor said it was her first appearance and sentence was suspended.

Another Win for Iroquois.

LONDON, June 14.-At the Ascot, Lorillard's loquois won the Prince of Wales stake, Geolo gist second, Great Carle third. Seven ran. The other runners were Nesseliff, Maskelyne, Cullodin and Voluptary. Iroquois started as the favorite in the betting at 5 to 4 against him. The royal party, comprising the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, and others, drove to the course with usual state.

Cullodin jumped away with the lead and Cullodin jumped away with the lead and made the running at a strong pace clear of Nesscliff, Voluptuary and Geologist, with Great Earle next. 'As they came along Surrey bottom Cullodin held a lead of about twenty lengths. He was followed by Voluptuary, Maskeyline, Geologist and Iroquois, in the order named, until three-quarters of a mile from home, when Cullodin was beaten by Voluptuary, Nesscliff and Great Earle, who came on together until half way up the straight, when they were joined by Iroquois and Geologist, the former winning a good race by half a length before Geologist, with the Earle third, and Maskeyline, Nesscliff, Voluptuary and Cullodin finishing in the order named. Archer was again the rider of Iroquois.

A BRILLIANT SCENE. NEW YORK, June 14 .- A correspondent at ascot telegraphs that the appearance of the coursewas much more brilliant than last year, when the royal family was in mourning. I few minutes before the first race the royal procession came on the grounds, headed by eight huntsmen and yeomen, preceded by the Earl of Cork. After the first race, the Trial stakes, there was an interval of an hour before the Prince of Wales stake race was begun. The horses were paraded in paddock and there was a great rush and inquiries after Iroquois. The popolar furore seemed to be entirely with the Americans, one gentleman remarking, "I shall back the Americans. Their luck is dead at present." When Iroquois appeared, he was fairly mobbed. The crowd followed him around. The general opinion was, he has greatly improved since Derby. Since last year the stewards, and the president, the Earl of Cork, have done much to add to the attractions of the meeting, and have expended here about £15,000 in alterations and inclosures, leaving little in the way of comfort to be desired. The amount added to-day to the various stakes is about £14,000. Iroquois would have met Peregrin to-day in the Prince of Wales stake, but the latter horse was scratched last night. It is considered certain Iroquois will carry one or more prizes to the credit of the Americans before the end of the week, while it is the unanimous opinion that Wallenstein, carrying 102 pounds, is the pick of the handicap for the Workingham stakes on Friday. Lorillard has five and Keene three horses here already. Foxhall is on his way from Paris, having traveled all the way to Boulogne Sunday night. Providing Iroquois, Foxhall and Robert the Devil meet in the Rous Memorial this will be the most interesting race of the season. few minutes before the first race the royal procession came on the grounds, headed by

The London Times and Telegraph have each editorials this forenoon congratulating the owners of the Derby and Grand Prix winners The Times says: It is much for the American horse to have won. The victory would have been emphasized had Iroquois crossed the channel and carried of the Grand Prix. From another point of view the racing glory of the United States is not merely enhanced but doubled by the successes in France, not of the same but of a second representative of the United States.

not of the same but of a second representative of the United States.

The Telegraph says: Lorillard is to be congratulated on the fact that he has achieved, within a very few years, what the late Lords Derby, Glasgow and Exeter in vain spent long lives and large sums of money in attempting to achieve. Keene, again, is not less to be felicitated, that within little more than a year from when the first batch of his horses were landed in England he has been successful in the greatest race upon the continent. We entertain no doubt that the American victories will be productive of important results. Already we hear the Messrs. Dyer, of New York, the finest judges of all kinds of stock that the new world contains, are about to send to this country their celebrated 4-yearstock that the new world contains, are about to send to this country their celebrated 4-year-old Luke Blackburn, together with his costly yearling brother, and also their fine 3-year-old colt Hindoo, by Virgil, who has just won the Kentucky Derby. To them and to all comers the old country gives a hearty welcome, even though, which is far from impossible, the result may be we shall soon be beaten at the game of which we are the original inventors.

LONDON, June 14.—The Times says a Derby winner never before won the Prince of Wales stakes as well.

Lorillard's English String.

LONDON, June 14.-All of Lorillard's horse except Iroquois, Passaic, Wallenstein, Mistake and Seneca have been [sc ratched for their en gagements during the Ascot meeting which begins to-day. Passaic has been scratched for the race for the Prince of Wales stakes, which will come off to-day, and Barrett has been scratched for the race for the Royal Hunt cup, Edgely House, Stockport, England; Thos. C. Hamilton, England; A. S. Teesdale, St. Louis, and C. C. Cook, Davenport. The tiredest man in St. Paul last night was a burly granger, who laid down on the postoffice steps for a snooze. He was hauled to the cooler by Capt. Clark and Detective O'Con-nor, being too limber to stand up. The commencement exercises of Hamline university will take place to-morrow. In the forenoon a contest will take place for the prize essay, and in the afternoon the oratorio of Esther will be produced under the direction of Prof. Priem. The lawn festival last night given by the Clinton avenue M. E. church, Sixth ward, was a pleasant success. Refreshments were served on the grounds, which were lit up with Chinese lanterns, presenting a scene that was most charming.

The jury in the case of Moses Bixler against the city of St. Paul, in which suit was brought for $3,000 damages for injury to his property in West St. Paul, returned a sealed verdict yes-terday morning, awarding plaintiff damages in the sum of one dollar. Elizabeth Corray came to the police court of her neighbor, Mrs. Kushke. She did'nt get it. Yesterday Herman Kushke swore out two warrants for Mrs. Corray's arrest, for assault and disorderly conduct. There is music ahead. The union bricklayers employed at Merriam's new building, on Fourth street, near Sibley, laid down their trowels yesterday morning and in-augurated a strike. They demanded the dis-charge of the non-union men employed on the building, and the request not being granted yesterday on Fuller street, between two men named Ruchek and Conroy. Knives and pistols were talked of, but aside from a couple of black eyes, no damage was inflicted. The affair originated from a miserable quarrel between the families.

The annual festival for benefit of the Hom of the Friendless next Saturday will naturally be patronized by everybody, for the institution has everybody's sympathy. But the ladies actively interested will remind those who might forget this worthy institution, of its deserts and needs, by calling upon them to buy tickets to the festival for themselves and Deputy Sheriff Meyer, of Stearns county, ar rived in St. Paul yesterday, having in charge an insane woman named Francisca Corror, committed to the hospital at St. Peter. Her family history is a sad one. A year ago her husband was killed by a falling tree, leaving five children to provide for, from two to twelve years of age. She went insane a few weeks ago.

A rather bright looking young fellow named Frank Beckwith, was arraigned at the police court yesterday, charged with the lar-ceny of a pistol and three pocket knives from Mayo & Clark. He was formerly in the emplay of the firm, and it is a pity that temptation should have resulted in his fall from grace. The hearing will take place on the 20th.

The entertainment and festival given by the Swedish society Vega, at their hall on East Seventh street, last night, was in every way en-joyable. A large audience was attracted to the hall, and the vocal and instrumental selections were given in a manner that called for repeated encores. Refreshments were served, and all present expressed themselves as having been delighted.

The case of the State against A. Orle, charged with using a knife on one Rosan and another man, came up in the police court yesterday morning. The testimony showed that Orle had been attacked by the men while sitting in front of the saloon on Rosabel street, and in attempting to run away he fell down, both men jumping on to him; also that he had used the knife in self-defense. He was discharged. with using a knife on one Rosan and an-
