THE SONG OF THE BALL.

[A. W. F. in Detroit Post and Tribune.] With fingers jeweled and white, With eyebrows arched till they met, A maiden stood in unmaidenly poise,
Dancing "the head" in the set—
Dance! dance! dance! Forward, and backward, and swing; And still with a grace no art could enhance She moved the queen of the ring.

Whirl! whirl! whirl!
Till the brain begins to swim!
Whirl! whirl! whirl! Till weary in back and limb!
Glide, and Newport, and Raquet,
Raquet, and Newport, and Glide—
Till you move about in a mystic maze, Unconscious of time or tide.

Dance! dance! dance! The excitement ne'er grows less, And what have you gained? A broken fan, Crushed flowers and ruined dress, A stupid languor, a vague unrest, A smile, a regret, a sigh, And a feeling so drear that it will be queer If it does not end in a cry.

Flirt! flirt! flirt! Flirt! flirt! flirt!
Form the "Promenade" to "Sweet Home!"
Flirt! flirt! flirt!
As empty and vain as foam!
Waltz and flirt with the young,
Flirt and waltz with the old. It is all the same to the skillful belle, Let the victim be modest or bold.

If modest, you ply your arts To win him to your feet.

If bold, you measure swords That the conquest may be complete, Smile, and giggle, and ogle, Ogle, and giggle, and smile; Denominate all who slight your charms "Too utterly stupid and vile."

With fingers jeweled and white, With evebrows arched till they met, A maiden stood in unmaidenly poise, Dancing "the head" in the set— Forward, and backward, and swing And still with a grace no art could enhance She moved the queen of the ring.

UNDER THE OCEAN.

An Eminence Like Mount Washington Submerged Off Our Coast. [New York Sun.]

Eight subjects were discussed in the $3.60. National Academy of Sciences yesterday in a Columbia college recitation room. Prof. A. E. Verrill, of Yale college, described the physical and geological character of the bottom of the sea off our coast, especially that which lies beneath the gulf stream. He made 1,500 observations this summer for the United States fish commissioners. He has cruised from Labrador to Chesapeake bay and about 200 miles out to sea. About sixty miles outside of Nantucket is a streak of very cold water, and animals dredged up are like those caught in Greenland, Spitzbergen and Siberia. The water is fifty fathoms deep, and the bottom of the ocean is of soft clay. Boulders weighing 800 or 1,000 pounds are dredged up. Prof. Verrill believes that they are brought down by icebergs from the Arctic regions and dropped when the ice melts. The boulders are found as far south as Long Island. Further out to sea, seventy to 120 miles western Fuel company vs Straube, charges south from the southeastern coast of New uncollected, $2.20. England, the bottom of the sea, which has inclined very gradually eastward, forming a table land, takes a sudden dip downward, so that whereas the water on the edge of the bluff is 100 fathoris deep, at the botuary 3, summons, Drabble vs Waldron, tom of the basin is 1,000 fathoms deep. charges uncollected, $3.60. The number of species of fish dredged up is 800, and over half of them have never before been seen by naturalists. Seventy kinds of fish, ninety of crustacea and 270 molluska have been added to the fauna. The age of many of the specimens shows that they

A piece of wood may be dredged up once a year, but it is honey combed by the boring shell fish, and falls to pieces at the touch of the hand. This shows what destruction is constantly going on in these depths. If a ship sinks at sea with all on board it would be eaten up by fish with the exception of the metal and that would corrode and disappear. Not a bone of the human body would remain after a few days. It is a constant display of the law of a survival of the fittest. Nothing made by the hand of man dredged up after cruising for months in the track of ocean vessels, excepting coal clinkers shoved overboard from steamships. Here Prof. Verrill corrected himself. Twenty-five miles from land himself. he dredged up an India rubber doll. That, he said, was one thing the fish

Edwina Booth's Betrothed. [Berlin Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat] There always seems to be a shadow of some kind over Edwin Booth's life, and the matter which is now troubling him is all the worse because his daughter is the chief sufferer. She is betrothed to a young American, who, three or four months ago was almost asphyxiated by inhaling coal gas. As his recovery has been very slow, Mr. Cooth wrote to the young man's father to send the invalid to them while they were in England, as he supposed a change of surroundings and a sea voyage hasten his return to health, and the pleasure which the lovers would experience in being together would be a great factor in the case. The father of the young man consented, and the lover's sister accompanied him. They have been with the Booths now several weeks, but the invalid's health has not improved. His blood seems to be poisoned, and it has affected his brain in a peculiar way. He is not insane, but he cannot remember as formerly, and has to be directed and watched. He has lost all interest in his profession and in his contemplated marriage. Isn't that un-Miss Booth is plunged into melancholy by the sad circumstance, and can seldom be coaxed out of her hotel. The doctors say the young man may recover inside of two years, but they think it Miss Booth, but knows that something has made it temporarily impossible for him to show his affection rad regard. The hopelessness of the case is the saddest feature. And, of course, Miss Booth realizes that there is nothing she can do to restore him. Superstitious Mr. Blaine. [Washington (Sunday) Herald.]
