The Bad and Worthless

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums pat up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop," or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected. 'Hops' in their name or in any way connected with them, or their name or in any way connected with them, or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Biters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits. tations or counterfeits.

ALL AROUND THE GLOBE.

It is stated that O'Donovan Rossa is at Montreal. His errand and whereabouts are unknown. Considerable confirmatory testimony in favor of the managers of the Tewksbury institution was given yesterday, but there was nothing especially entertaining.

T. W. Carter, shot and killed himself with a pistol, in the Atkins, Ark., jail yesterday morning, where he was incarcerated for debauching his own daughter and ending in stamping her babe to death.

"Do you know the prisoner?" asked a Harlem judge of a witness. "Yes, sir, I do: I know him intimately; he and I were in a bank together at the same time." "Ah, when was that?" was the question of a shrewd lawyer, who was counsel for the prisoner. "Well, as near as I can remember, it was about five years ago, and about 3 o'clock in the morning; none of the bank officers were present at the time." The witness was speedily excused.

Sarah Bernhardt has been getting her life insured in favor of her son Maurice. The managers of the insurance company, the Era says, having heard so much of the fragile condition of the actress, insisted upon having the separate opinion of as many as five medical men. Each gave it his opinion that Mme. Bernhardt was in the enjoyment of perfect health, and possessed, moreover, remarkable physical strength. From an examination made after the great final poisoning scene in "Fedora," when the palse of Mr. Burton went up to 127 pulsations to the minute, Mme. Bernhardt was found to be comparlarly only 76.

Oriental Fortune-telling.

In few countries in the world can the adventurous wight who wishes to peer into the future have his desire so easily gratified, in so many different ways, as in Japan. While in western nations divination is merely the subject of research and speculation among schelars, or, at most, is found at intervals in rural districts, far from the busy haunts of men, startling the apostle of the nineteenth century civilization with its twelfth century superstition, here in Japan it is a living orce, exercising its influence on the trader, the farmer, pilgrim, and even on the course of love itself. Nor is it confined to the poor and lowly; members of the higher classes, and the wealthy do not disdain to make use of the diviner, and he is equal to the task. For a tempo, or even a mon, he will tell the poor maiden whether her lover is faithful, or the coolie whether his pilgrimage will prosper; while for his noble patrons he can perform an elaborate ceremony, in some cases possessing even religious sanctions of the most soleann kind, for which he is quite ready to accept a hundred, five hundred, or even a thousand yen. On this subject, a passage almost as applicable to Japan as to China may be quoted here from Dr. Denny's little work on "Folk-lore of China."

"Divination is in China as popular as, and probably more respectable than, it was among the Israelites in the days of the witch of Endor, and it is not perhaps going too far to say that there is not a single means resorted to in the West, by way of lifting the impene-trable veil which hides the future from the curious of mankind, which is not known to and practised by the Chinese. From "Pinking the Bible" to using the planchette, from tossing for odd or even to invoking spirits or to actually speak through erafty media, the whole range of western superstition in this regard is as familiar to the average Chinaman as to the most enthusiastic spiritualists at home. The coincidence of practice and belief are indeed so in them a sort of evidence either for their truthfulness or for a common origin of evil."

It is not intended at present to describe more than one mode which is universal among the lower classes, and which can be seen at work every day in the temples of the more corrupt or poorer sects of Buddhists in Tokio and elsewhere. The materials are very simple. A small rectangular or oblong box is filled with slips of bamboo, each about six inches in length, and having a number written on the end. These can be shaken out, one by one, through a hole in the end of the box; and, according to the number on the first stick, the diviner selects from a drawer in a cabinet close at hand; a printed slip of paper containing the inquirer's late. The boxes vary according to age or sex; but the number of boxes in possession of one temple rarely exceeds sixteen, eight for the various ages and two for the sexes, with corresponding drawers in the cabinet. The stock in trade being so small, and the divining priest generally holding some other occupation about the temple, he can afford to sell his wares cheaply. Yet on festival days he must receive a large sum. At the temple between Kawaski and the sea, the writer has seen as many as 200 persons draw the divining sticks -Mikuji wo kiku as it is called—in an hour, and all of them seemed to treat the ceremony with the utmost seriousness and solemnity, generally stepping out before drawing the stick, and elevating their hands in prayer to the idol. This form of divination seems to be connected with Buddhism, as we find t also used in joss-houses in China .he box and sticks are rarely found among the possessions of an itiner-ant fortune-teller, and even then he is regarded as an impostor, or a priest who has been discharged for his misconduct from his temple.

The Old Gum Shoe.

Do you remember the old-fashioned rubber shoe? Ah, that was the shoe worth having. It was none of your flimsy, trim, shiny abominations of the present degenerate day. It was a great, lumsy, ill-looking moccasin, that had neither form nor symmetry, but it would wear out a dozen-of our ordinary nodern shoes. What an art was it to put the thing on! Turning it half inside ont, you put your toe into its interior, and then with a tug and a jerk you pulled the heel in place, and you were inside a shoe that clung to you tighter than a brother. And what fun was it at school to dimple in the toe, place a spit ball in the hollow, and then, with fingers inside, to send the ball with catapultic power smack into the face of the studious scholar on the opposite side of the room! Alas! there is no fun in the modern rubber shoe, and but very little wear. Joy and utility have given place to mere beauty of outline and prosaic comfort.-Boston Transcript.

ASHBURNHAM, Mass., Jan. 14, 1880. I have been very sick over two years, and was given up as past cure. I tried the most skillful physicians, but they did not reach the worst physicians, but they did not reach the worst part. My lungs and heart would fill up every night and distress me very bad. I told my children I never should die inpeace until I had tried Hop Bitters. I took two bottles. They relped me very much indeed. I took two more and am well. There was a lot of sick folks here who saw how they cared me and they need them and saw how they cured me, and they used them and are cured, and feel as thankful as I do.

MRS. MATTIE COOPER.

CEDAR BAYOU, Texas, Oct. 28, 1882.

I have been bitterly opposed to any medicine not prescribed by a physician of my choice. My wife, fifty-six years old, had come by degrees of disease to a slow sun-down, and doctors failed to benefit her. I got a bottle of Hop Bitters for her, which soon relieved her in many ways. My kidneys were badly affected, and I took twenty doses, and found much relief. I sent to Galveston for more, but word came back, none in the market, so great is the demand; but I got some elsewhere. It has restored both of us to good health, and we are duly grateful.
