GREAT WAVE OF PROSPERITY

Traveling Man Tells of Conditions Existing in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri - Prospects Never Brighter.

(Special to Inter Mountain.) Anaconda, April 28.-Mr. R. S. Greener, a St. Louis traveling man who has for the past three months been in Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, was in the city for a short time last night, leaving here for the coast in the interest of his house

Mr. Greener states that the three states mentioned are at the present time enjoying an almost unheard of era of

"During my travels in those states said Mr. Greener, a large portion of my time was spent in the smaller country towns and so I had an excellent oppor-tunity to observe conditions as they ac-ally are. "Cattle, hogs, corn, etc., are bringing almost fabulous prices, and while many times before these things have brought excellent prices, they are hanging on this time in an unusual manner. Raise in Hog Meat.

Hogs were bringing, a week ago, all the way from $6.50 to $9.00 per 100, and cattle are clear out of sight, running from $7.50 to $10 per 100. Local buyers were paying a proportionate price for corn, it varying from 50 to 65 cents per bushel.

Money is plenty and the farmers are all feeling tinton. all feeling tiptop.

"They have had extremely hot weather for the time of the year, but it is not probable that this will last long. As it is the crops will all be in at least two weeks earlier than last year, and this, in those states count for a great deal.

Outlook Never Better.

The present outlook for the forward.

The present outlook for the farmers and inhabitants of the Middle states was never better than it is this spring. "No this is not my first trip through this country, but the last one I made was about 18 years ago and the developwas about it years ago and the developments and improvements that have appeared since that time, are the most remarkable I have ever seen and I have been traveling over all portions of the United States for the past 30 years. "Montana is attracting her share of attention in the East, but the mining excitement never runs high there and the Thunder Mountain boom is worrying but very few people."

The work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and as it is highly probable the weather will be favorable it is expected that good progress will be made.

It was the desire of the school board to have the building completed by the time the school takes up another school term in the fall, but such a thing is hardly probable owing to the delay in selling the bonds and letting the contracts.

The lot where the building will be has for a number of years been used by the lads of the city as a baseball and foot ball ground.

Today it presents a much different ap-pearance, and in the future the boys will have to hunt another place.

SILVER LAKE TO BE STOCKED WITH NATIVE TROUT.

Allotment Will Be Made to Anaconda— Effort Put Forth by Citizens Here Meets With General Satisfaction.

(Special to Inter Mountain.)
Anaconda, April 28.—Silver Lake, one of the finest bodies of water in Montana, located 12 miles west of Anaconda, is to be stocked with mountain trout sup-be stocked with mountain trout sup-plied from the government hatcheries. Such assurances were received today by persons who have been in correspond-ence with George M. Bowers, United States fish commissioner, also with Dr. Henshall, superintendent of the batch-eries at Bozeman, relative to the mat-ter.

In the letter received from Commis sioner Bowers, that gentleman states that the allotment of fish for the lake would be made shortly and that they would be delivered in Anaconda free of charge and it is expected that those who are interested in seeing the lake stocked will look after them upon their arrival and bear the expense of conveying them to their destination.

Choice of Fish.

The commissioner will furnish any kind of fish that may be desired; the native trout are preferable and the requisition will go forth for them.

Silver Lake is an ideal spot for the propagation of fish. Since the Anaconda company went to the expense of enlarg-ing it, and turned in the waters which have their source at Storm Lake, also have their source at Storm Lake, also numerous mountain streams, for the pur-pose of increasing the water supply for the smelters, there is no way by which fish can escape up or down stream. Once in the lake, they are there to stay until commissioner will act promptly, so it is not impossible that the allotment will reach here sometime in June. The lovers of fishing in Anaconda have complained of the scarcity of trout in neighboring streams for several years; all of them have been pretty well "fished out," and anything that will tend to improve this condition will be received with universal satisfaction by all citizens.

The Treating Habit.

(New York Herald.) When a Forty-second street drug clerk saw three intoxicated men enter his store very late last Friday night he anticipated some sort of trouble and stepped behind the counter with a busishess smile and the intent to use diplosmacy in the promised negotiations.

The three men were well dressed, though their toilets were very much disheveled and their silk hats very far back on their heads. Each one was chewing an unlighted cigar and bore chewing an unlighted cigar and bore a facial expression that told of befuddled brains. They "lined up" along the counter, with their elbows on the show-case, looked at the troubled clerk and then around the store, "What'l'u have?" asked one of them. "Tooth brush,' answered the man next to him, as he looked in the case under bis elbows.

"Same," said the other man.
"Me, too," chimed in the first speaker. "Me, too," cnimed in the Out came a large basket of tooth brushes, which the clerk spread in front brushes, which the clerk spread in front of his customers. Each one selected a 30-cent brush, and put it in his pocket. The clerk breathed a sigh of relief as the treater handed him a dollar bill. "Hol' on a min't," said the worst wrecked man of the three, "take one on me. Han' out th' soap," Out came an assorted variety of toilet soap, and each man selected a cake. Another dollar bill was handed to the clerk.

The three stood for a minute smelling the soap in apparent enjoyment, and then dessited it in their pockets, "One more 'fore we go," said the third mean. "Wht'l't be?"

"I'll take licorice in mine," answered the third man. the third man.

The licorice was at once produced, and cach man selected a stick. The bill was paid, and, having thrown their eigar stumps on the floor, they marched out with the sticks of licorice between their lips, much to the relief of the clerk. To Clean That Party Gown.
